Stop Bombing: Thant

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant Saturday bolstered a new Vietnam peace appeal with a report that Hanoi's Communist allies had agreed to send more military aid to North Vietnam, including air crews, pilots, gunners and engineers.

Senator Backs Heavy Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said Saturday the United States must take the risk of Chinese and Russian involvement if intensified bombing of North Vietnam promises to end the war more quickly.

Case, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he thinks President Johnson has decided to intensify the bombing of military targets in an effort to end the war sooner.

He said he has "very great concern about this risky business" because no one knows what might trigger the Chinese or Russians to enter the conflict.

But he added: "I have not felt that the risk should not be taken to the extent that the bombing is important in reducing the supply of materials and men into the South."

"My own judgment is that if we are going to have a war, we have to do everything that's reasonable to support our forces and if the supply of materials and men into South Vietnam from North Vietnam...is being significantly reduced, then this is a risk we must take."

Report Intimates Nasser Retracts Charges On U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials have heard reports that Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, speaking to other Arab leaders, recently retracted his charge that the United States and Britain had joined with Israel in its war with the Arab states in June.

The reports have been circulating among Arab diplomats and officials in capitals in the Middle East, and have also reached Arab diplomats in Washington.

The New York Times said Saturday in a Washington dispatch by Hedrick Smith that Nasser had told other Arab leaders he knew the United States had not taken a military part in the Arab-Israeli conflict in June. He reportedly took the same position on his earlier charge that British combat aircraft as well as American had fought for Israel.

King Hussein of Jordan has stated publicly that he knows of no U.S. or British involvement, but there has been no such public statement from Nasser.

American authorities said privately they do not expect any public retraction. From their point of view Nasser's reported effort to cancel out the charge made during the heat of the conflict appears to be part of an effort to ease general Arab relations with Britain and the United States. Some of the Arab countries have tight economic involvement, particularly those which are major producers of petroleum.

U.S. officials said at the time the charges were totally untrue.

His reference to possible increased aid to North Vietnam appeared to carry the implication that the escalation might reach dangerous proportions unless quick action is taken to end the fighting.

Thant noted that the reported military agreements between Hanoi and its allies were unconfirmed but he said there were definite indications that North Vietnam is receiving increasing aid, both military and economic, from friendly countries. He declined to say which countries were supplying the aid.

The main point stressed by the secretary-general was that the end of the bombing must be the first step toward peace. He said he did not feel any new initiatives on his part would be of any use until this happens, but he said he was ready to resume his efforts if conditions change.

Thant discounted reports that recent statements by North Vietnamese officials indicated any softening of their position. He said he was convinced Hanoi would not agree in advance to match any U.S. moves, such as a bombing halt, but that they would be ready to talk if the bombing stops.

"If Hanoi is asked to do something as the price for an unconditional halt to the bombing, Hanoi will not pay the price," he said.

Doria Kills Woman, Hits Carolina Coast

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Hurricane Doria, which turned killer as her course became more erratic, continued her tickle ways Saturday night but finally bit land for the first time on the North Carolina coast just south of the Virginia line.

At 8 p. m., the Norfolk Weather Bureau located the center of the 75-mile-per-hour storm about 35 miles southeast of Norfolk and over Currituck Sound in North Carolina. The storm was expected to hit the area around Elizabeth City, N. C., around midnight.

The bureau called for immediate evacuation of low-lying sections.

Goldwater Gives His Reflections On Policies

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Barry Goldwater says President Lyndon B. Johnson today is following "almost to the letter" the policies in Vietnam that he advocated in 1964 as the Republican candidate for president.

Robert S. McNamara, Goldwater also asserts, "can't do a good job" as Secretary of Defense because "he doesn't have the knowledge."

Goldwater's comments were published Sunday by the Arizona Republic in an interview ranging over current questions and his reflections on the presidential campaign in which he was badly defeated by Johnson. The interview is captioned: "Goldwater, three years after."

The former senator also says: "Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and former Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania 'so cut me up' that their tactics cost me between six and eight million votes."

On the day of his nomination in San Francisco, Goldwater was shown a poll taken by the GOP National Committee indicating Johnson would win 80 per cent of the total vote in the presidential election.

He might have asked Scranton to be his vice presidential running mate but for "that God-awful letter" that was sent to the GOP delegates at the convention under Scranton's signature.

As of today, he does not believe Johnson can be defeated in a presidential election, "but I also say there is a growing reaction against Johnson."

The Arizona Republic published the interview in the form of question and answers. The highlights:

Q. Do you feel that President Johnson is in any way following the "Goldwater position" in Vietnam?

A. I wouldn't call it the Goldwater position, but it is the position I advocated in my campaign and he is following it almost to the letter.

When asked to specify the meaning of "almost to the letter," Goldwater replied: "The only thing he's not doing, which we advocated then and still advocate, is destroying the piles of supplies lining the port of Haiphong."

"I think the risk is worth taking in halting the bombing without any commitment from Hanoi."

Thant acknowledged that he had received no direct word from North Vietnam that it would begin negotiations, but he said he based his convictions on the views of countries which have close ties with Hanoi.

The secretary-general repeated his previous views that the U.N. Security Council could offer little or nothing toward a solution of the Vietnam problem.

Thant said the forthcoming session of the 122-nation General Assembly would discuss the Vietnam problem, as it did last year, without actually placing the issue on its agenda. He noted that a majority in 1966 favored a cessation of the U.S. bombing and said he believed the same views would be expressed this year.

Egypt Delayed Suicide Report

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Nasser government in Egypt delayed announcement of the suicide this week of Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer for more than 24 hours apparently to head off any public upheaval.

But all indications from Cairo Saturday were that the nation was quiet. One Beirut newspaper reported from Cairo that there was not even a sign of public grief, although Amer, No. 2 man under President Gamal Abdel Nasser, once had been a popular figure.

Hours after Cairo's announcement Friday night rumors spread in foreign capitals that, in a follow-up to the death, Nasser had resigned. The rumors were quickly denied by an Egyptian government spokesman in Cairo.

Nixon Warns GOP Contenders About Vietnam

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon Saturday warned fellow contenders for the Republican presidential nomination in 1968 not to run on a platform of "peace at any price" in Vietnam.

"This would be a Pyrrhic victory—the candidate might win, but the Republican president would soon have another war on his hands," Nixon said in an interview with The Associated Press.

Nixon didn't mention him, but Michigan Gov. George Romney, one of his rivals, has said that during a 1965 visit to Saigon he was "brainwashed" to support administration policies on Vietnam. Romney has questioned the need for the original U.S. involvement in Vietnam, has not suggested that the United States pull out now.

Nixon appeared closer to the position of Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, another possible candidate for the nomination. Reagan has called for intensification of the war, aimed at a quick victory.

Nixon, untanned and appearing confident, sat at ease on a sofa in the library of his luxurious Fifth Ave. apartment as he analyzed what he sees as the political scene in '68.

Surrounding him were souvenirs of nine trips to Vietnam.

"The longer the war goes on there," he said, "the greater the pressure for peace almost regardless of price. The majority sentiment around the country now is still for a peace that does not set the stage for another war by rewarding those who have committed aggression."

"On the other hand, frustration is growing. It grows because of more young people being called; it grows because people don't believe what the administration says about Vietnam; it grows because people don't approve of the way the war is being run."

"This frustration is growing and by '68 the peace sentiment will be very high."

"However, what now must come into play is leadership. 'Peace at any price' would be a great disaster because it would lead to a bigger war."

"In the minds of the majority of Americans, the administration has resigned itself to a long war, a war without end. It's not using sea and air power adequately."

U.S. Forces Kill 204

SAIGON (AP) — A combined U.S. Army and Navy river force routed a hard-core Viet Cong battalion from entrenched positions in the Mekong Delta Saturday after a running four-day attack aimed at loosening the Communist grip on the rich rice bowl south of Saigon.

The guerrillas faded into adjoining marshes and bamboo forests after losing 204 dead, killing 15 Americans and wounding 125 others. But the action—Operation Coronado 5—cost the Navy its worst combat losses of the war: Three men killed and nine wounded; nine troop-carrying vessels, three gunboats and the command vessel damaged. All remained afloat and left under their own power, however.

Operation Coronado drew attention away—for the time being at least—from the continuing action along the demilitarized zone which divides the two Vietnams. The U.S. Command reported only light and scattered fighting in that sector as U.S. B52 bombers and fighters hit once more at North Vietnamese gun positions in and around the buffer zone.

U.S. Marines are holding the line south of the DMZ against the possibility of a heavy North Vietnamese push southward.

Clear skies over the area between Hanoi and Red China brought U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers into action against North Vietnamese targets. Cloudy skies south of Hanoi limited U.S. Navy air operations in the southern panhandle and along the coast.

In the delta, the Navy operated with the Army in a joint river task force, ferrying infantry troops on gunboats up the muddy Rach Ba river.

It began last Tuesday and reached a climax with a landing of U.S. infantrymen at dawn Friday on the banks of the Rach Ba.

The gunboats were heavily scored by B40 rockets, machine gun and recoilless rifle fire from guerrillas in deeply dug riverside bunkers.

U.S. officers said the bunkers were so sturdy that U.S. 105 Howitzer shells "only rattled them." The Viet Cong operating out of the bunkers were members of the 263rd Battalion, which has used the delta area, 45 miles southwest of Saigon, as a stronghold and a training center for many years, the U.S. Command said.

Defense Hints New Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has informed key Pentagon and congressional officials of President Johnson's historic decision to deploy a "thin" antimissile system to guard against nuclear attack by Red China, it was learned Saturday. McNamara gave the word at a secret Pentagon meeting on Friday, sources said. He swore all those present to remain silent until a formal announcement is made.

The announcement may come Monday in a speech McNamara is making to an editors group in San Francisco. But some authorities suggested there is a possibility that Johnson may order the announcement delayed.

However, Rep. Charles E. Bennett, D-Fla., gave a tipoff that it is coming in a speech prepared for the Reserve Officers Association at Jacksonville Naval Air Station.

Bennett said the Defense Department "appears to have finally broken the logjam which has held up the much needed development of an antiballistic missile system."

Police Arrest 11 Drug Suspects In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Police and federal agents arrested 11 persons in gaslight square Friday night as a result of an investigation into the use of marijuana and drugs.

Warrants were issued charging Russell Stokes, 18, with illegal sale of marijuana and Miss Arden Gilpin, 18, with possession. The other nine were released.

Detective Richard Flynn of the police mobile reserve posed as a hippie to gather information. Flynn said he made a marijuana purchase from Stokes, paying him $5 for seven grams of the weed.

Police said a package of marijuana and a number of pills and capsules were confiscated.

Questions Rise From Week's Air Strikes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

All last week, the question in Washington seem to be: Who's running the air war in Vietnam—President Johnson, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara or the generals?

It came up when U.S. bombers in separate raids struck at installations in two major port cities of North Vietnam. The apparent escalation of the air war seemed to contradict the administration's policy of not bombing Communist port facilities because of the danger of widening the conflict.

McNamara had argued that very point two weeks ago in testimony before the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, when he said that the attacks on the ports "would involve risks which at present I regard as too high to accept for this dubious prospect of successful results."

After three weeks of closed hearings the subcommittee issued a scathing criticism of the administration's policy of top

General Motors May Be Next UAW Aim

WASHINGTON (AP) — The giant General Motors Corp., and not the strikebound Ford Motor Co., is said to be the main target of the AFL-CIO United Auto Workers.

This was reported Saturday by sources close to union President Walter Reuther. They indicated that although Ford was picked for first strike action, the battle with GM could make the Ford struggle pale by comparison.

The Ford strike of 160,000 workers is now in its second week amid predictions for a long walkout. But the union is girding for an even tougher expected battle involving more than 400,000 workers at General Motors.

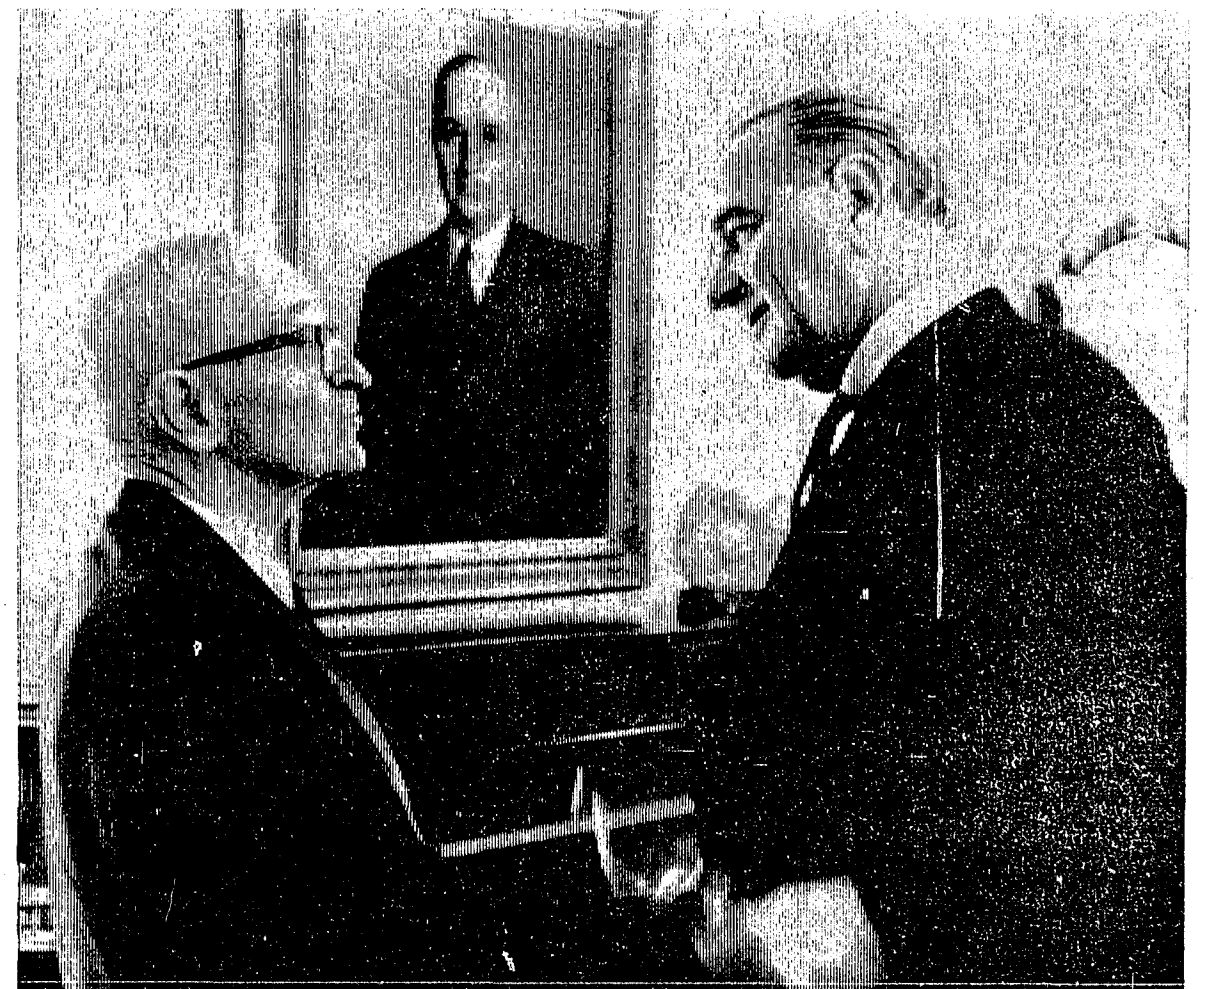

The Auto Workers will take on GM as soon as the Ford strike is settled, sources said. "If there is not a substantial change in the attitude of General Motors' bargaining, we will most certainly have a strike," Auto Workers Vice President Leonard Woodcock said last week.

The union struck Ford first in order to set an industry pattern on wages and other money items so it can concentrate on working conditions and union practices at General Motors, regarded as the toughest employer, sources said.

The union was described as particularly angry at General Motors policies in some plants which the union says are designed to "control" union officers.

Union sources said this involves individual plant managers giving union grievance officials eight hours a day to work on union business, rather than the three hours provided for by official agreement.

The Auto Workers say they also want to win the right to go directly to union officers with grievances during working hours, instead of first getting permission from a foreman.

Stop Bombing: Thant

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary-General U. Thant Saturday bolstered a new Vietnam peace appeal with a report that Hanoi's Communist allies had agreed to send more military aid to North Vietnam, including air crews, pilots, gunners and engineers.

Thant told a news conference that he still felt that the key to Vietnam peace is a halt of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, that negotiations would follow within three or four weeks and that the risk was worth taking without waiting for any commitments from Hanoi.

His reference to possible increased aid to North Vietnam appeared to carry the implication that the escalation might reach dangerous proportions unless quick action is taken to end the fighting.

Thant noted that the reported military agreements between Hanoi and its allies were unconfirmed but he said there were definite indications that North Vietnam is receiving increasing aid, both military and economic, from friendly countries. He declined to say which countries were supplying the aid.

The main point stressed by the secretary-general was that the end of the bombing must be the first step toward peace. He said he did not feel any new initiatives on his part would be of any use until this happens, but he said he was ready to resume his efforts if conditions change.

Thant discounted reports that recent statements by North Vietnamese officials indicated any softening of their position. He said he was convinced Hanoi would not agree in advance to match any U.S. moves, such as a bombing halt, but that they would be ready to talk if the bombing stops.

Senator Backs Heavy Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said Saturday the United States must take the risk of Chinese and Russian involvement if intensified bombing of North Vietnam promises to end the war more quickly.

Case, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he thinks President Johnson has decided to intensify the bombing of military targets in an effort to end the war sooner.

He said he has "very great concern about this risky business" because no one knows what might trigger the Chinese or Russians to enter the conflict.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, complained that the Johnson administration "has led us into a no-win policy which refuses the use of American power to end the war and promises us instead only unending casualty lists."

Case recorded his views in a television program taped for New York stations. Tower expressed his view in the prepared text of an Owensboro, Ky., speech.

Case said the "great failure" of the Johnson administration has been an unsuccessful effort to get the South Vietnamese government to make social reforms that would give it wider support among the people.

"I think the risk is worth taking in halting the bombing without any commitment from Hanoi," Thant acknowledged that he had received no direct word from North Vietnam that it would begin negotiations, but he said he based his convictions on the views of countries which have close ties with Hanoi.

Bennett said the Defense Department "appears to have finally broken the logjam which has held up the much needed development of an antiballistic missile system."

Bennett, a senior member of the House Armed Services committee, said "It has just been revealed recently that funds have been spent on hardware items for the deployment of an ABM system from the $167.9 million Congress provided for this but which the Defense Department has heretofore refused to use."

"This is an apparent indication that our nation is finally about to embark on the full development of an ABM system," Bennett said, adding: "I expect Secretary McNamara will soon make a statement on this subject."

Sources said the decision is to deploy a screen of missile-killing Nike-X batteries at a cost of from $3 billion to possibly $6 billion. Construction would take an estimated five years.

Such a system could be the base for a thicker defense later on, with additional batteries of long-range Spartan and short-range Sprint missiles installed to protect some 25 major U.S. cities. This would cost about $10 billion.

McNamara has said that what he calls an "austere threat" against a Chinese-type threat probably could "preclude damage in the 1970s almost entirely."

However, he has made it quite clear that he believes the expenditure of up to $40 billion to guard the United States against the kind of sophisticated saturation attack which could be mounted by Russia would fall short of doing the job.

Football Players Boycott

CAIRO, Ill. (AP) The Negroes on the football team of newly integrated Cairo High School—almost half the team—boycotted the season opener Friday night, charging that a cheerleader election was rigged against Negro girls.

Cairo, favored 22-7 by sports writers over host team Anna Jonesboro, lost 26-0.

Cairo played without seven of its 11 starters. The seven, all Negroes, were among 15 Negro players who refused to board the bus for Anna. Only one Negro played "and he didn't want to," said a spokesman for the players. "He was crying as he got on the bus. His mother's a teacher and she made him."

"I am positive the election was rigged," said the school board president, James F. Dawson, after talking to Principal Gayl Dawson.

tions in the Hampton Roads area, warning of tides expected to run 3 to 6 feet above normal.

It also warned of moderate flooding along the Virginia coast and as far south as Oregon Inlet and on the Albemarle Sound in North Carolina with tides 2 to 3 feet above normal.

One woman was dead and two children were missing as Doria pounded the coasts of New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland before continuing her off-shore path leading to southeastern Virginia and northeastern North Carolina.

Meanwhile, two sister storms moved toward other areas of North America. Hurricane Beulah with winds of 115 m.p.h. in the Gulf of Mexico was aimed at Yucatan, while Hurricane Chloe was 525 miles south southeast of Newfoundland and headed north with 105 m.p.h. winds.

It was the first time since 1961, said the Miami Weather Bureau, that multiple hurricanes had headed toward land at the same time.

Even as Doria inched past this port city, chief forecaster Glen V. Sachse of the Norfolk Weather Bureau warned of a "very dangerous flooding situation" in the Norfolk-Portsmouth-Newport News-Hampton complex embracing some 700,000 persons.

Sachse said the 3-to-6-foot above-normal water would be "a very high tide rarely experienced in this area."

As the storm moved more to the southwest, all but one of the more than 30 Red Cross shelters were closed along the Middle Atlantic coast after they had served as a refuge for hundreds Friday night.

The shelter remained open at the National Aeronautic and Space Administration facility at Wallops Island, Va.

Russia To Send Invitations For Birthday Party

MOSCOW (AP) — Invitations will be sent shortly to leaders of pro-Soviet Communist nations, secretaries of Moscow-oriented Communist parties in other countries and some leftist national movement leaders to attend the Bolshevik Revolution's 50th birthday party.

Communist sources said Saturday this was the composition of the guest list being drawn up at Soviet Communist party headquarters.

Several thousand foreign guests are expected to crowd Moscow's hotel facilities for the celebrations, which will culminate with the traditional Nov. 7 parade through Red Square and speeches in the Kremlin.

Diplomats expect a number of new military weapons to be shown in the parade. It will be two years since a Red Square parade has included anything new, apparently because the leaders were saving up for a big publicity splash on the 50th anniversary.

Egypt Delayed Suicide Report

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Nasser government in Egypt delayed announcement of the suicide this week of Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer for more than 24 hours apparently to head off any public upheaval.

But all indications from Cairo Saturday were that the nation was quiet. One Beirut newspaper reported from Cairo that there was not even a sign of public grief, although Amer, No. 2 man under President Gamal Abdel Nasser, once had been a popular figure.

Hours after Cairo's announcement Friday night rumors spread in foreign capitals that, in a follow-up to the death, Nasser had resigned. The rumors were quickly denied by an Egyptian government spokesman in Cairo.

Radio Cairo broadcast its usual Saturday programs and airline flights continued into the Egyptian capital.

The Cairo announcement said Amer, 47, had taken his life with poison Thursday after several previous attempts at suicide since the Middle East war in June. In Beirut's first editorials on Amer's death, editors carefully crossed out all references that appeared to question whether Amer's death was actually a suicide.

In Moscow, the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia reported the death without comment. Amer was a frequent Kremlin visitor.

Replaced as Army commander after the Israeli victory over Egypt in June, Amer had been under house arrest in Egypt for plotting against Nasser.

Amer had been Nasser's chief confidante since the beginning of the Egyptian revolution, and his main characteristic was his unwavering loyalty to Nasser.

Amer's daughter was married to Nasser's youngest brother, and Nasser's second son was named after the handsome, mustachioed marshal.

Amer was generally liked in Egypt despite an erratic record as a politician and military man.

He was born Dec. 11, 1919, in the upper Egyptian village of Astal in the Minyah district. Nasser is from the same part of the country.

As a military leader, Amer handled Egypt's defenses in 1956 and this year's six-day war against Israel.

Nixon appeared closer to the position of Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, another possible candidate for the nomination. Reagan has called for intensification of the war, aimed at a quick victory.

Nixon, untanned and appearing confident, sat at ease on a sofa in the library of his luxurious Fifth Ave. apartment as he analyzed what he sees as the political scene in '68.

Surrounding him were souvenirs of nine trips to Vietnam.

"The longer the war goes on there," he said, "the greater the pressure for peace almost regardless of price. The majority sentiment around the country now is still for a peace that does not set the stage for another war by rewarding those who have committed aggression."

"On the other hand, frustration is growing. It grows because of more young people being called; it grows because people don't believe what the administration says about Vietnam; it grows because people don't approve of the way the war is being run."

"This frustration is growing and by '68 the peace sentiment will be very high."

"However, what now must come into play is leadership. 'Peace at any price' would be a great disaster because it would lead to a bigger war. . . ."

"In the minds of the majority of Americans, the administration has resigned itself to a long war, a war without end. It's not using sea and air power adequately."

Police Arrest 11 Drug Suspects In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Police and federal agents arrested 11 persons in gaslight square Friday night as a result of an investigation into the use of marijuana and drugs.

Warrants were issued charging Russell Stokes, 18, with illegal sale of marijuana and Miss Arden Gilpin, 18, with possession. The other nine were released.

Detective Richard Flynn of the police mobile reserve posed as a hippie to gather information. Flynn said he made a marijuana purchase from Stokes, paying him $5 for seven grams of the weed.

Police said a package of marijuana and a number of pills and capsules were confiscated.

Questions Rise From Week's Air Strikes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

All last week, the question in Washington seem to be: Who's running the air war in Vietnam—President Johnson, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara or the generals?

It came up when U.S. bombers in separate raids struck at installations in two major port cities of North Vietnam. The apparent escalation of the air war seemed to contradict the administration's policy of not bombing Communist port facilities because of the danger of widening the conflict.

McNamara had argued that very point two weeks ago in testimony before the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, when he said that the attacks on the ports "would involve risks which at present I regard as too high to accept for this dubious prospect of successful results."

After three weeks of closed hearings the subcommittee issued a scathing criticism of the administration's policy of top military men who had urged a greater use of air power.

Then U.S. warplanes on Sunday bombed the dock area of Cam Pha, the third largest port in North Vietnam, and followed that raid with strikes Monday against a railroad yard, warehouse areas and bridges in and near the major port city of Haiphong.

General Motors May Be Next UAW Aim

WASHINGTON (AP) — The giant General Motors Corp., and not the strikebound Ford Motor Co., is said to be the main target of the AFL-CIO United Auto Workers.

This was reported Saturday by sources close to union President Walter Reuther. They indicated that although Ford was picked for first strike action, the battle with GM could make the Ford struggle pale by comparison.

The Ford strike of 160,000 workers is now in its second week amid predictions for a long walkout. But the union is gearing for an even tougher expected battle involving more than 400,000 workers at General Motors.

The Auto Workers will take on GM as soon as the Ford strike is settled, sources said.

"If there is not a substantial change in the attitude of General Motors' bargaining, we will most certainly have a strike," Auto Workers Vice President Leonard Woodcock said last week.

The union struck Ford first in order to set an industry pattern on wages and other money items so it can concentrate on working conditions and union practices at General Motors, Reuther said.

The union was described as particularly angry at General Motors policies in some plants which the Auto Workers are designed to "correct" union officers.

Union sources said this involves individual plant managers giving union grievance of cials eight hours a day to work on union business, rather than the three hours provided for official agreement.

The Auto Workers say they also want to win the right General Motors for workers' grievances during work hours, instead of first getting permission from a foreman.

Strike Guns Roar . . . At What Cost

Somebody ought to write a book called "The Guns of September."

The actions — or better, the absence of constructive actions — in the days and hours preceding the United Auto Workers' strike against Ford Motor Company suggest nothing so much as the almost leisurely and inexorable build-up to World War I described in the best seller of a couple seasons back, "The Guns of August."

Like the war-bent nations of Europe half a century ago, both antagonists in this contest came well-prepared. Their ammunition — reserves of money and the firm resolve not to grant the enemy an inch of ground.

Like the generals who marched their singing troops off to glory in 1914, both union and company officials seemed almost impatient for the battle to be joined.

"Let them strike," a high executive was quoted as saying after the UAW rejected the industry's proposals for a new contract. "We're ready for them."

"They're asking for it," said a union spokesman, "and I'm afraid they're going to get it."

This is 1967? This is how far we have progressed in the art and practice of labor-management relations? This is how much we have learned about responsible economic citizenship?

The workers want only their "fair share" of the industry's earnings. The industry wants only what it considers to be reasonable profits, which are basically dependent upon production costs.

In the end, when the casualties become too oppressive and the ammunition runs low, both sides will grant each other what they want—not everything, but as much as they could have agreed upon before war was declared, if they had had a will to agree.

But what will they have really gained?

It is not that the strike will set off another inflationary spiral throughout the economy. That is already well under way, as recent wage and price boosts in the rubber and steel industries testify. And even the effects of these increases are paltry compared to the continuing and intense inflationary pressure of the war in Vietnam.

But the auto strike will certainly do nothing to brake this familiar cycle.

In the end, all of us will pay for the firing of the strike guns of September 1967.

Not for the war, but for the peace.

Some Laws Are Futile

There's something else as certain as death and taxes.

Let anything of a new, unusual extraordinary or bizarre nature develop—be it in the form of a single occurrence, a transient fad or an emerging social condition — and some politician with an eye on the headlines will try to outlaw it or somehow wrap it around with legislation.

As an example, an Ohio state legislator wants to ban skydiving because of the Lake Erie tragedy. His idea makes about as much sense as outlawing mountain climbing or skin diving or any other sport in which some people unfortunately lose their lives every year.

Why not a law against whatever it is in the human make-up that makes people engage in adventuresome or dangerous activities in the first place? Or better yet, why not a statute prohibiting accidents or unhappiness altogether?

Legislation in the interests of individual safety or public order is one thing. Flaws in existing rules, regulations and standards are usually mended when such incidents as the mistaken parachute jump, the destructive riot or the abuse of a newly discovered drug bring them to light.

But the list of things that can't be controlled by legal fiat is very long and is generally predicated on the judicial axiom having to do with the futility of legislating morality or suppressing "acts of God."

Responsible lawmakers try not to appear futile.

Democrats At The Crossroads

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Even without the burden of the Vietnam war, the Democratic party would be at a critical turn in its life as the "party of the majority" in this country.

More than a few elements in the Democrats' standard constituency — union labor, the nationality minorities, the Negroes, the young — are becoming serious question marks for the future.

With the exception of the Negroes, large numbers among these groups today are part of affluent suburbia. Nearly half of all union members live there, according to a new poll. Roughly half of union families have incomes in the $7,500-$15,000 brackets.

For 34 years the Democratic party has been undergirding U.S. economic growth with social and other programs of major benefit to these groups and has, with the exception of the Eisenhower era, been rewarded with their votes.

The climax of this effort came in the summer of 1965 with the avalanche of Great Society programs. But even as this phase was ending with a flourish, the Democrats found themselves painfully beset by a whole new cluster of critical difficulties. Watts, an event of that very summer, was the symbol.

So, having labored 3½ decades to bolster sizable segments of American society, the Democrats hear no great choir of gratitude but, instead, an insistent clamor for huge new undertakings so revolutionary in their sweep as to make their typical social programs seem like warm-ups. The call is for the remaking of central city urban society.

Some nervous Democrats, looking toward their "old constituency" now residing in the suburbs, wonder whether those tested allies of the past may resent great spending endeavors in behalf of impoverished Negroes and other impatient underprivileged folk left behind in the rumbling urban cores—or flocking to them from the changing hinterland.

The new suburbanites may indeed be resentful on many counts. The substantial Republican election gains of 1966 were suggestive. Conceivably, 1968 could be worse for the Democrats. The John Kraft poll of union members records them as exhibiting conventional suburban attitudes—intent on schools, public improvements and other local matters, angered over poverty tax increases. They do not seem eager to help remake that part of urban society they have left behind.

Their federal income taxes are already high and soon may go higher. The Democrats' old constituents now in the suburbs, and many of their younger counterparts there, have contributed heavily to an 87 per cent increase in school support from state and local tax sources just since 1960.

Yet certain key Democrats are privately telling some of their confederates that, at this moment of new domestic crisis in America, their party cannot find its future as the champion of suburban affluence but must plunge willingly to the aid of the struggling Negroes and other poverty-ridden Americans in the embattled cities.

These key men are demanding a heavy and unequivocal Democratic party commitment to this task, while still keeping a hopeful eye on their fabled allies and offering them more schooling money and such "way of life" programs as clean air and water, traffic relief, etc.

If the affluent suburbanites—who today make up perhaps the crucial one-third of the U.S. voting population—cannot be drawn into supporting the salvage of the central cities and their people, then at least one Democratic leader thinks his party's dominance may soon end and a new Republican era may be entered upon.

Bug-eyed at What Kids Steal

By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: Summer is nearly over, but I would like to say a word to parents who may not be paying much attention to their children because they think they are nice, normal kids.

I was a playground instructor for 10 weeks. Playground instructors have very little authority over the children. Almost every day playground equipment disappeared, acoustical tiles were knocked out of the ceilings and carried off, class projects were stolen before the paint had a chance to dry. It is impossible to watch every child minute and I never believed it was necessary — until I became a playground instructor.

Please tell parents to keep an eye on what their children bring home. If a kid turns up with a "strange" ball, bat or other sports equipment, he should be made to take it back. Kids who are allowed to keep things they have carried off get the idea that it's perfectly all right to do so. —BUG-EYED AT WHAT KIDS STEAL

Dear Bug: Thank you for your letter. Small acts of dishonesty when ignored encourage more daring acts. Take heed, parents.

Dear Ann Landers: "Philadelphia Gram" prompts this letter. She is the woman who sent her grandchildren cash for birthdays and Christmas and never received an acknowledgment.

My niece and nephew were extremely negligent about letting me know they received my gifts. Sometimes their mother would write, "Oh, by the way, the kids sure liked their Christmas presents." One day when they were visiting I told my sister I was getting tired of wondering if my gifts had arrived. She snapped, "Oh, get with it. Thank-you notes are out of style." (The children were present.) I told her AND the children that thank-you notes weren't out of style as far as I was concerned and that I wasn't going to send anything else until I heard from them.

That was several years ago, and they have never failed to write and thank me for every gift since we had the understanding. We have a much warmer relationship now and I have not only their love but their respect, as well. —AUNT MARGARET

Dear Aunt: You did those children a bigger favor than you may realize. Burning in silence is no way to improve a situation. I am a strong believer in setting the record straight. Often people don't know how you feel until you tell them.

Dear Ann Landers: Have you lost your marbles? Why did you say worshippers on vacation should dress up when they attend church?

People should not have to drag their finery along when they go to the woods or to the seashore or to a fishing camp. A vacation should be a vacation. If one were to follow your advice, it would be appropriate

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Even without the burden of the Vietnam war, the Democratic party would be at a critical turn in its life as the "party of the majority" in this country.

More than a few elements in the Democrats' standard constituency — union labor, the nationalities minorities, the Negroes, the young—are becoming serious question marks for the future.

With the exception of the Negroes, large numbers among these groups today are part of affluent suburbia. Nearly half of all union members live there, according to a new poll. Roughly half of union families have incomes in the $7,500-$15,000 brackets.

For 34 years the Democratic party has been undergirding U.S. economic growth with social and other programs of major benefit to these groups and has, with the exception of the Eisenhower era, been rewarded with their votes.

The climax of this effort came in the summer of 1965 with the avalanche of Great Society programs. But even as this phase was ending with a flourish, the Democrats found themselves painfully beset by a whole new cluster of critical difficulties. Watts, an event of that very summer, was the symbol.

So, having labored 3½ decades to bolster sizable segments of American society, the Democrats hear no great choir of gratitude but, instead, an insistent clamor for huge new undertakings so revolutionary in their sweep as to make their typical social programs seem like warm-ups. The call is for the remaking of central city urban society.

Some nervous Democrats, looking toward their "old constituency" now residing in the suburbs, wonder whether these tested allies of the past may resent great spending endeavors in behalf of impoverished Negroes and other impatient underprivileged folk left behind in the rumbling urban cores—or flocking to them from the changing hinterland.

The new suburbanites may indeed be resentful on many counts. The substantial Republican election gains of 1966 were suggestive. Conceivably, 1968 could be worse for the Democrats. The John Kraft poll of union members records them as exhibiting conventional suburban attitudes—intent on schools, public improvements and other local matters, angered over poverty tax increases. They do not seem eager to help remake that part of urban society they have left behind.

Their federal income taxes are already high and soon may go higher. The Democrats' old constituents now in the suburbs, and many of their younger counterparts there, have contributed heavily to an 87 per cent increase in school support from state and local tax sources just since 1960.

Yet certain key Democrats are privately telling some of their confederates that, at this moment of new domestic crisis in America, their party cannot find its future as the champion of suburban affluence but must plunge willingly to the aid of the struggling Negroes and other poverty-ridden Americans in the embattled cities.

These key men are demanding a heavy and unequivocal Democratic party commitment to this task, while still keeping a hopeful eye on their fabled allies and offering them more schooling money and such "way of life" programs as clean air and water, traffic relief, etc.

If the affluent suburbanites—who today make up perhaps the crucial one-third of the U.S. voting population—cannot be drawn into supporting the salvage of the central cities and their people, then at least one Democratic leader thinks his party's dominance may soon end and a new Republican era may be entered upon.

Ann Landers:

Bug-eyed at What Kids Steal

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Summer is nearly over, but I would like to say a word to parents who may not be paying much attention to their children because they think they are nice, normal kids.

I was a playground instructor for 10 weeks. Playground instructors have very little authority over the children. Almost every day playground equipment disappeared, acoustical tiles were knocked out of the ceilings and carried off, class projects were stolen before the paint had a chance to dry. It is impossible to watch every child minute and I never believed it was necessary — until I became a playground instructor.

Please tell parents to keep an eye on what their children bring home. If a kid turns up with a "strange" ball, bat or other sports equipment, he should be made to take it back. Kids who are allowed to keep things they have carried off get the idea that it's perfectly all right to do so. —BUG-EYED AT WHAT KIDS STEAL

Dear Bug: Thank you for your letter. Small acts of dishonesty when ignored encourage more daring acts. Take heed, parents.

Dear Ann Landers: "Philadelphia Gram" prompts this letter. She is the woman who sent her grandchildren cash for birthdays and Christmas and never received an acknowledgment.

My niece and nephew were extremely negligent about letting me know they received my gifts. Sometimes their mother would write, "Oh, by the way, the kids sure liked their Christmas presents." One day when they were visiting I told my sister I was getting tired of wondering if my gifts had arrived. She snapped, "Oh, get with it. Thank-you notes are out of style." (The children were present.) I told her AND the children that thank-you notes weren't out of style as far as I was concerned and that I wasn't going to send anything else until I heard from them.

That was several years ago, and they have never failed to write and thank me for every gift since we had the understanding. We have a much warmer relationship now and I have not only their love but their respect, as well. —AUNT MARGARET

Dear Aunt: You did those children a bigger favor than you may realize. Burning in silence is no way to improve a situation. I am a strong believer in setting the record straight. Often people don't know how you feel until you tell them.

Dear Ann Landers: Have you lost your marbles? Why did you say worshippers on vacation should dress up when they attend church?

People should not have to drag their finery along when they go to the woods or to the seashore or to a fishing camp. A vacation should be a vacation. If one were to follow your advice, it would be appropriate

Dear Mad: If you'll wipe the foam off your mouth and listen, I'll repeat. Nobody said church goers should dress to the teeth. I said it is in poor taste to go to church barefoot, in bathing suits, shorts and bikinis. Got it straight?

DAVID POLING

Best and Worst Emerge

In Bishop Pike Controversy

David Poling

By DAVID POLING
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Heresy belongs to another age. The word seems more at home in 15th-century play than a 20th-century newspaper column. In the seminaries the argument-clinching sentence to a theological discussion that has not gained general agreement is: "Well, better a live heresy than a dead orthodoxy!" In a day of rock 'n' roll liturgies, secular nuns and meat on Fridays, who's going to attend, much less conduct, a heresy trial? Would you believe the Episcopal Church?

Lately, a large controversy to hit the Episcopal Church is the furor over Bishop James A. Pike. His writings, sermons, public appearance interviews and observations, have made him a religious celebrity. But many of his critics contend that he has harmed the church in general and the Episcopal communion in particular with his casual definitions of orthodoxy and his constant exposure on television and in the press.

His questioning of Biblical authority, challenging of ecclesiastical law, radical social views on race relations, Vietnam and the New Morality have sent his friends into ecstasy and his enemies into convulsions. Within the church, however, he has been short on friends and long on critics.

For those who would like to pursue the topic at length, is Bishop Pike Burning? I suggest his own book, "If This Be Heresy" (Harper and Bros.). He gives a blow-by-blow description of how his mind and faith have changed over the years. He provides some answers (and taunts) to his critics but sticks firmly to his right to choose his own beliefs. The Greek translation of the word heresy is "to take for oneself, to choose." Published by Harper and Row in the same breath is the "Bishop Pike Affair," by William Stringfellow and Anthony Towne. The authors give not only a running account of this religious skirmish but also make some important observations on what this controversy means to the life of the church.

It is their conviction that the Bishop Pike affair signals an attempt by radical white racists to seize control of the Episcopal Church. In this instance, Bishop Pike represents the liberal wing that is targeted for control and extermination by the "Birch money" within the denomination.

The authors cite the incredible developments within the Diocese of Louisiana (which they call the Louisiana purchase!) as well as the earlier uproar in the Church of St. John the Divine in Houston by extremists.

Any church controversy is going to bring out the best and worst of all concerned. In today's church when Bishop Pike advocates birth control, Father Frank Burton responds by this level of poetry:

O Bishop Pike, we'd be relieved
And give our thanks with heart and soul,
If on the night you were conceived,
Your folk had known of birth control!

In today's church, there is some clear thinking, cathedral politics, pompous judgment, bewildered friends and gleeful clowns.

Opening lead—♥ Q

One of the penalties of being a good bridge player is that you look mighty silly when you work out a complicated play that goes wrong.

South, a good bridge player, wasn't going to let East and West shut him out of his nice club suit. He considered trying three no-trump but didn't relish the prospect of going down several tricks if he had to give up a club. Hence, his four-club bid.

North was happy to raise to the club game. As anyone can see, South has 10 top tricks at either no-trump or clubs but this South managed to work out a play for down one. He won the heart lead and played his ace of clubs to account for all adverse trumps. Then he led the queen of diamonds and let it ride to East's king.

This left him two plays for his contract. He could play ace and another diamond later to ruff out West's jack or he could take a finesse against that jack, but South was an expert on the squeeze play and he saw a cinch squeeze if East would hold five spades and the jack of diamonds.

East proceeded to show him about the five spades. He led the queen and continued after South and West ducked. South took the second spade and noted the fall of West's king.

Then South proceeded to run off all his trumps. With one trump to go, West was down to the jack of hearts and two diamonds, dummy to the ace-ten of diamonds and ten of hearts and East to the jack of spades, king of hearts and eight of diamonds.

The last trump lead collected those three hearts and South was back right where he had started. He knew everyone's distribution. He did not know who had the diamond jack and when East followed low to the diamond lead, South rose with dummy's ace and paid off.

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
1♠	Pass	Pass	?

Q—You South, hold:

♠ K 9 ♥ A J 5 4 ♦ A Q 4 3 ♣ Q 3 2

What do you do now?

A—Just respond one diamond. You aren't quite strong enough to jump in a suit and while your hand has no-trump distribution you may want to show both your suits.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You bid one diamond and your partner rebids to one heart. What do you do now?

One of the penalties of being a good bridge player is that you look mighty silly when you work out a complicated play that goes wrong.

South, a good bridge player, wasn't going to let East and West shut him out of his nice club suit. He considered trying three no-trump but didn't relish the prospect of going down several tricks if he had to give up a club. Hence, his four-club bid.

North was happy to raise to the club game. As anyone can see, South has 10 top tricks at either no-trump or clubs but this South managed to work out a play for down one. He won the heart lead and played his ace of clubs to account for all adverse trumps. Then he led his queen of diamonds and let it ride to East's king.

This left him two plays for his contract. He could play ace and another diamond later to ruff out West's jack or he could take a finesse against that jack, but South was an expert on the squeeze play and he saw a cinch squeeze if East would hold five spades and the jack of diamonds.

East proceeded to show him about the five spades. He led the queen and continued after South and West ducked. South took the second spade and noted the fall of West's king.

Then South proceeded to run off all his trumps. With one trump to go, West was down to the jack of hearts and two diamonds, dummy to the ace-ten of diamonds and ten of hearts and East to the jack of spades, king of hearts and eight of diamonds.

The last trump lead collected those three hearts and South was back right where he had started. He knew everyone's distribution. He did not know who had the diamond jack and when East followed low to the diamond lead, South rose with dummy's ace and paid off.

A—Just respond one diamond. You aren't quite strong enough to jump in a suit and while your hand has no-trump distribution you may want to show both your suits.

TODAY'S QUESTION
You bid one diamond and your partner rebids to one heart. What do you do now?

AS NUMBERS GO, 92 seems "betwixt and between"—two years past one benchmark and three short of the next. Yet in the life of a man, 92 holds marked significance. And this is especially true for James Cash Penney, who observed his 92nd birthday on Saturday, September 16. While he uses a cane "just to please the doctors," Mr. Penney is particularly proud of this one. Loaned to him for life by a collector of objects once owned by Benjamin Franklin, it was especially made for and carried by Franklin. The cane, in dark wood with a silver handle, is inscribed "B. Franklin, 1785."

In the final fighting Saturday the task force lost 9 dead and 104 wounded. The guerrillas lost 70 dead, the command said.

The Navy carried troops of the Army's 9th Infantry Division up the river in transports called barracks ships. For the attack the troops transferred to combined landing craft-gunsboats bristling with mortars and small cannon. The Navy-men call the smaller craft monitors since they resemble the Civil War ironclad. After landing the troops, the monitors provided fire support.

SAIGON (AP) — An unarmed U.S. photo reconnaissance plane was shot down Saturday by a MIG jet over North Vietnam and the pilot is missing, a U.S. military spokesman announced Sunday.

Football

Neither Dawson nor the Cairo football coach were available for comment.

Flanary said an emergency school board meeting would convene at 1 p.m. today. "We hope to have the problem resolved by the time school starts Monday morning," he said. "We're going to work all weekend on it."

Cairo was the scene of racial violence earlier this summer. The remaining 17 white team members played with spirit in the first half, said Coach Larry Davis of Anna-Jonesboro, but still trailed 12-0 as the second half opened.

Davis said there were a number of Negroes among the 150 to 200 Cairo fans, and there were no incidents during the game, racial or otherwise.

AS NUMBERS GO, 92 seems "betwixt and between"—two years past one benchmark and three short of the next. Yet in the life of a man, 92 holds marked significance. And this is especially true for James Cash Penney, who observed his 92nd birthday on Saturday, September 16. While he uses a cane "just to please the doctors," Mr. Penney is particularly proud of this one. Loaned to him for life by a collector of objects once owned by Benjamin Franklin, it was especially made for and carried by Franklin. The cane, in dark wood with a silver handle, is inscribed "B. Franklin, 1785."

In the final fighting Saturday the task force lost 9 dead and 104 wounded. The guerrillas lost 70 dead, the command said.

The Navy carried troops of the Army's 9th Infantry Division up the river in transports called barracks ships. For the attack the troops transferred to combined landing craft-gunboats bristling with mortars and small cannon. The Navy-men call the smaller craft monitors since they resemble the Civil War ironclad. After landing the troops, the monitors provided fire support.

SAIGON (AP) — An unarmed U.S. photo reconnaissance plane was shot down Saturday by a MIG jet over North Vietnam and the pilot is missing, a U.S. military spokesman announced Sunday. The spokesman said the RF101 jet was downed while on a photo mission. Its loss raised to 25 the number of American planes shot down by North Vietnamese MIGs and was the 67th American plane announced lost over the North. Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency claimed that North Vietnam's fighters "shattered" two American planes Saturday 140 miles west of Hanoi and that the pilots bailed out and were captured. The U.S. spokesman did not give the location where the RF101 was shot down.

Neither Dawson nor the Cairo football coach were available for comment.

Flanary said an emergency school board meeting would convene at 1 p.m. today. "We hope to have the problem resolved by the time school starts Monday morning," he said. "We're going to work all week-end on it."

Cairo was the scene of racial violence earlier this summer. The remaining 17 white team members played with spirit in the first half, said Coach Larry Davis of Anna-Jonesboro, but still trailed 12-0 as the second half opened.

Davis said there were a number of Negroes among the 150 to 200 Cairo fans, and there were no incidents during the game, racial or otherwise.

Beauty Care Today

By MID

It is possible to give the illusion of having a differently shaped face than you actually possess.

What are the techniques involved in "changing" the shape of your face?

To emphasize cheekbones and narrow the jaw: contract your cheeks in. Apply a shadow to the hollows. Make sure the shadow is at least two shades darker than your foundation.

Do you have a round face, but wish it were oval? Use a shadow along the sides of your face.

Do you have a narrow or short face and wish it were oval? Use a highlighting color on the sides of your face. Bring it down, both over and under the chin. Make sure your highlighting is at least two shades lighter than your foundation.

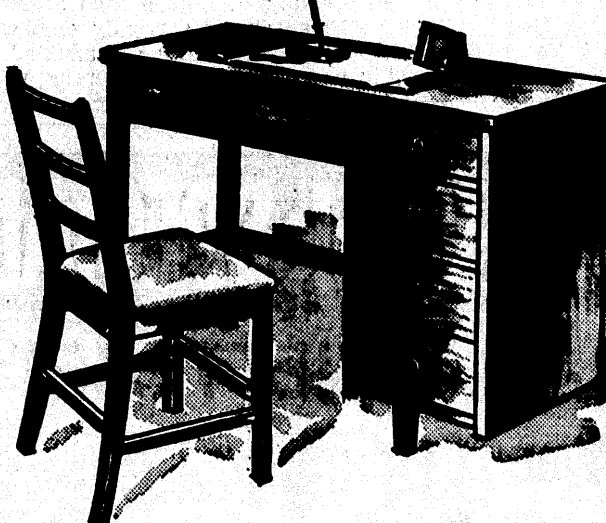

Suggestion: Now that you've changed your face, are you ready for a new hairstyle?

Beauty Care Today

By MID

It is possible to give the illusion of having a differently shaped face than you actually possess.

What are the techniques involved in "changing" the shape of your face?

To emphasize cheekbones and narrow the jaw: contract your cheeks in. Apply a shader to the hollows. Make sure the shader is at least two shades darker than your foundation.

Do you have a round face, but wish it were oval? Use a shader along the sides of your face.

Do you have a narrow or short face and wish it were oval? Use a highlighting color on the sides of your face. Bring it down, both over and under the chin. Make sure your highlighting is at least two shades lighter than your foundation.

Suggestion: Now that you've changed your face, are you ready for a new hairstyle?

Boys' Discovery Is Linked With St. Louis Killing

JERSEYVILLE—A .38 calibre Colt detective special has been identified here as a companion weapon to one found in St. Louis after a resident of that city was killed during an explosion that wrecked his car on a St. Louis parking lot. The gun was identified by St. Louis police as one that had been stolen during a burglary of a store operated in Crystal City, Missouri, by James David Theodore in November, 1965. The gun, retrieved by Jersey County authorities, has been returned to its owner.

The gun came into possession of Adam DeShleria, sheriff of Jersey County, in late May of this year, some 18 months after it was stolen from the Theodore store in Crystal City.

It was found by two boys under a tree some distance from the Rice Seed Company in Jerseyville. The gun had apparently been recently discarded by its carrier, for it was wrapped in a copy of the St. Louis Globe Democrat bearing a late May 1967 date. The copy of the paper in which the gun was found wrapped was also returned to Theodore with the weapon when shipped from here Wednesday afternoon.

Guns stolen during the Crystal City burglary amounted to $7,000 in value, according to invoices. The weapon identified by the St. Louis Police Department and the Jersey County weapon are the only two guns to be recovered from a large number obtained by the burglars.

When the two boys found the gun last May, they took it to the home of one of the youths, Porter Whitlock of the McClusky vicinity. Whitlock notified Sheriff DeShleria and turned the weapon over to him. The gun was, in turn, surrendered to the Illinois Bureau of Criminal Identification and its long checkup to establish its identity began. A check with the St. Louis Police Department revealed that it had not been the property of any detective or patrolman there. A similar result was obtained when weapons of officers of the Federal Bureau of Investigation were checked.

The Colt Firearms company was next checked, and the gun was identified as one sold by the company to Jim David Theodore.

A report on the findings of the Illinois Bureau of Criminal Identification was submitted August 21, 1967, by Forrest R. Lettler, assistant superintendent of the bureau at Springfield.

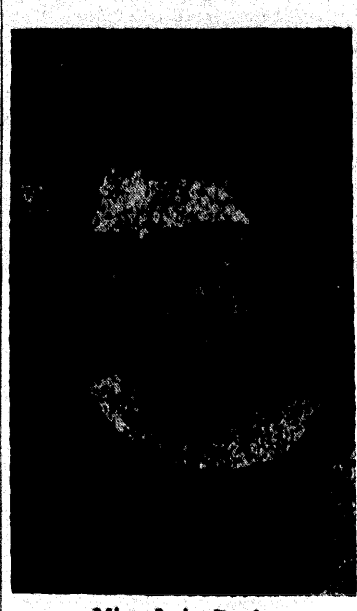

Sheriff DeShleria then contacted the Crystal City store operator with the request that the latter furnish proof of ownership and his license number as a seller of guns.

This was received in course of time, and everything being in order, the gun was sent to its legal owner Wednesday afternoon.

Who possessed the second retrieved gun and why the carrier discarded it in the place and manner in which it was found is still puzzling local officers.

TROUT BITES SNOOT

STEVENSON, Wash. (AP) — George Acker of nearby Carson was given a tetanus shot Thursday after being bitten on the nose by a steelhead.

That's right. He was bitten by a fish.

Acker's boat was near Wade McNece's boat in the Columbia River. McNece hooked a 13-pound steelhead that landed into Acker's boat.

As Acker retrieved it, he got the steelhead's teeth snagged on his nose. But he captured the trout for McNece.

Coco Tells It Like It Is

PARIS—(NEA)—Referring to Jacqueline Kennedy recently, Coco Chanel said, "She has horrible taste and she's responsible for spreading it all over America... She's trying to look like her own daughter."

The formidable Mademoiselle has never been one to take a deep breath and clamp her lips on a harsh word. And when fashion is the topic, she justly feels she should be heard. For with Christian Dior, the father of the New Look, she has had—and still has—the greatest fashion influence of any fashion designer in the past 25 years. Chanel-type suits are still the best sellers in stores and boutiques everywhere.

In her diatribe against Mrs. Kennedy, Coco was simply hitting out at the ye ye, mini-skirt look she deplores on older women. She is not against the miniskirt per se, she claims. "It's just that I'm against everything, that is ugly and ridiculous." Her own winter collection included some brief skirts. "Anyway, a skirt length never made a style," she added.

GABRIELLE CHANEL blasts Jacqueline Kennedy's taste in clothes in an interview following the Chanel fall fashion show in Paris on July 28. The 84-year-old designer claimed Mrs. Kennedy is trying to look like her daughter.

Helen Hennessy's Boutique

Chanel pointed out that women do not appear younger when they dress to look like "aged little girls." To her, real chic is a question of harmony. Exaggerated styles which may be carried off by a 16-year-old, she feels, are frankly ridiculous on a woman of 25 or 30.

Chanel has always declared that she has no objection to being copied and to having her suits "go down into the street." Since she is the most copied Paris designer, it's as well she doesn't take umbrage as did Courreges a few seasons ago.

"I have never created a dress with the idea that it might rate a wolf-whistle. I still am confident that to please the eye it is not necessary to scandalize the onlooker."

"Overdressing happens with too many women today," Chanel believes. "This is usually a sign of inferiority. Never has a woman with a definite personality needed to draw attention to her clothes."

Coco herself often wears a suit until it is frayed at the edges just because it has become part of her.

It is rumored that she will take her collection to Russia this fall. It is estimated that a Moscow audience of at least 15,000 will see for the first time a Paris collection where the starting price of a model is around $1,400.

The couture grapevine whispers that Mademoiselle got her inspiration for her latest collection after seeing the Russian film, "I Too Met Some Happy Gypsies," which caused a stir at the recent Cannes Film Festival.

Since then she has dreamed of troikas, sables, boots, moujik tunics and gypsy silk shirts.

Incidentally, it was Chanel who in the '30s launched the first ankle-length, colorful and full, swinging gypsy evening dress.

Chanel doesn't intend to open a new market in Russia with this ultra-capitalistic manifestation. "It's just a question of prestige," she says.

Although other, younger Paris designers have taken verbal pot shots at Chanel for her criticism of the little girl look for women over 25, saying she is too old to know what's right for modern women, young Yves Saint Laurent copied some of her ideas for his winter collection this year. And she is still the only Paris designer since World War II who always has impact on younger French women.

A final note: This time around the miniskirt did NOT play a starring role in any of the Paris collections. Could be Chanel is vindicated in her hearty dislike of that silly little piece of cloth.

STRIPED, PRINTED tweed suit in two shades of red, edged with a double hem of Russian sable is collection. Redingote has

BEARDSTOWN — Frank (Mike) and Mildred Myers have been given authority by the state of Illinois to remodel and expand the Iron Works building at Fifteenth and Wall streets into a new and modern nursing home facility which will meet the requirements of Medicare.

The Brierly House, at 6th and State street, which Mr. and Mrs. Myers have operated since October of 1960, would not be effected by the new arrangement.

Mr. Myers will continue as administrator of both establishments and Mrs. Myers, a registered nurse, will maintain her work as director of nursing.

The building at 15th and Wall, formerly a skating rink, was purchased several weeks ago from Bud Knippenberg and plans call for its complete remodeling, as well as the addition of wing facilities.

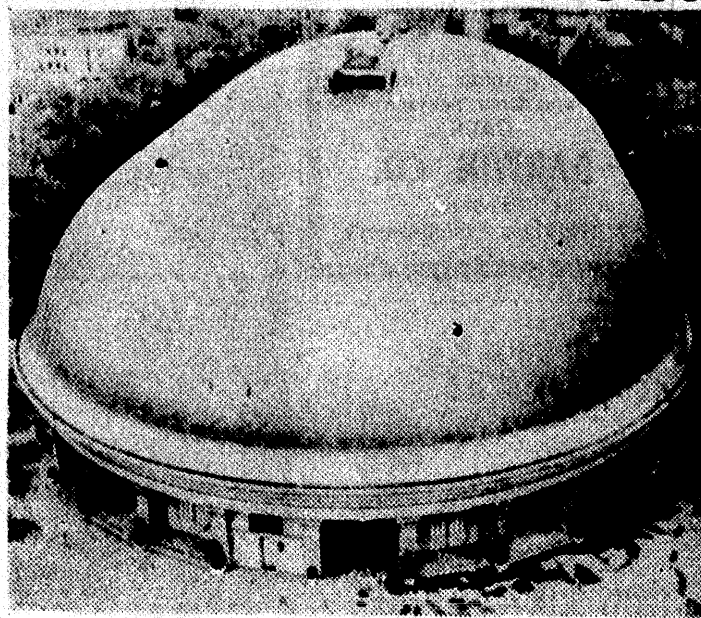

"We will have one of the first nursing homes in the area to qualify for medicare patients under Social Security," Mr. Myers said, "and it is our intention to provide the most modern establishment of its kind."

At first the bed capacity will be 49, but there will be room for expansion to 100 or more beds a lounge, kitchen and other facilities will also be provided.

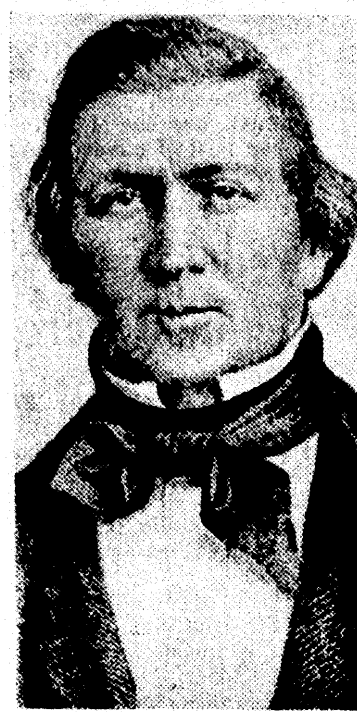

Mr. Myers said that contracts for the work will be let very soon.

Mormon Shrine Observes Its 100th Year

THE MORMON TABERNACLE, acoustical wonder and monumental house of worship of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, is 100 years old. Work on the giant inverted bowl started in 1863, only 16 years after Mormon pioneers arrived in the Salt Lake Valley, led by Brigham Young, after fleeing religious persecution in the Midwest. Built on 44 giant sandstone pillars in the days when oxen were the principal means of transporting materials, it was completed in 1867. Above right, the dome was already formed as the foundation was still being laid for the Mormon Temple, which was started 10 years earlier.

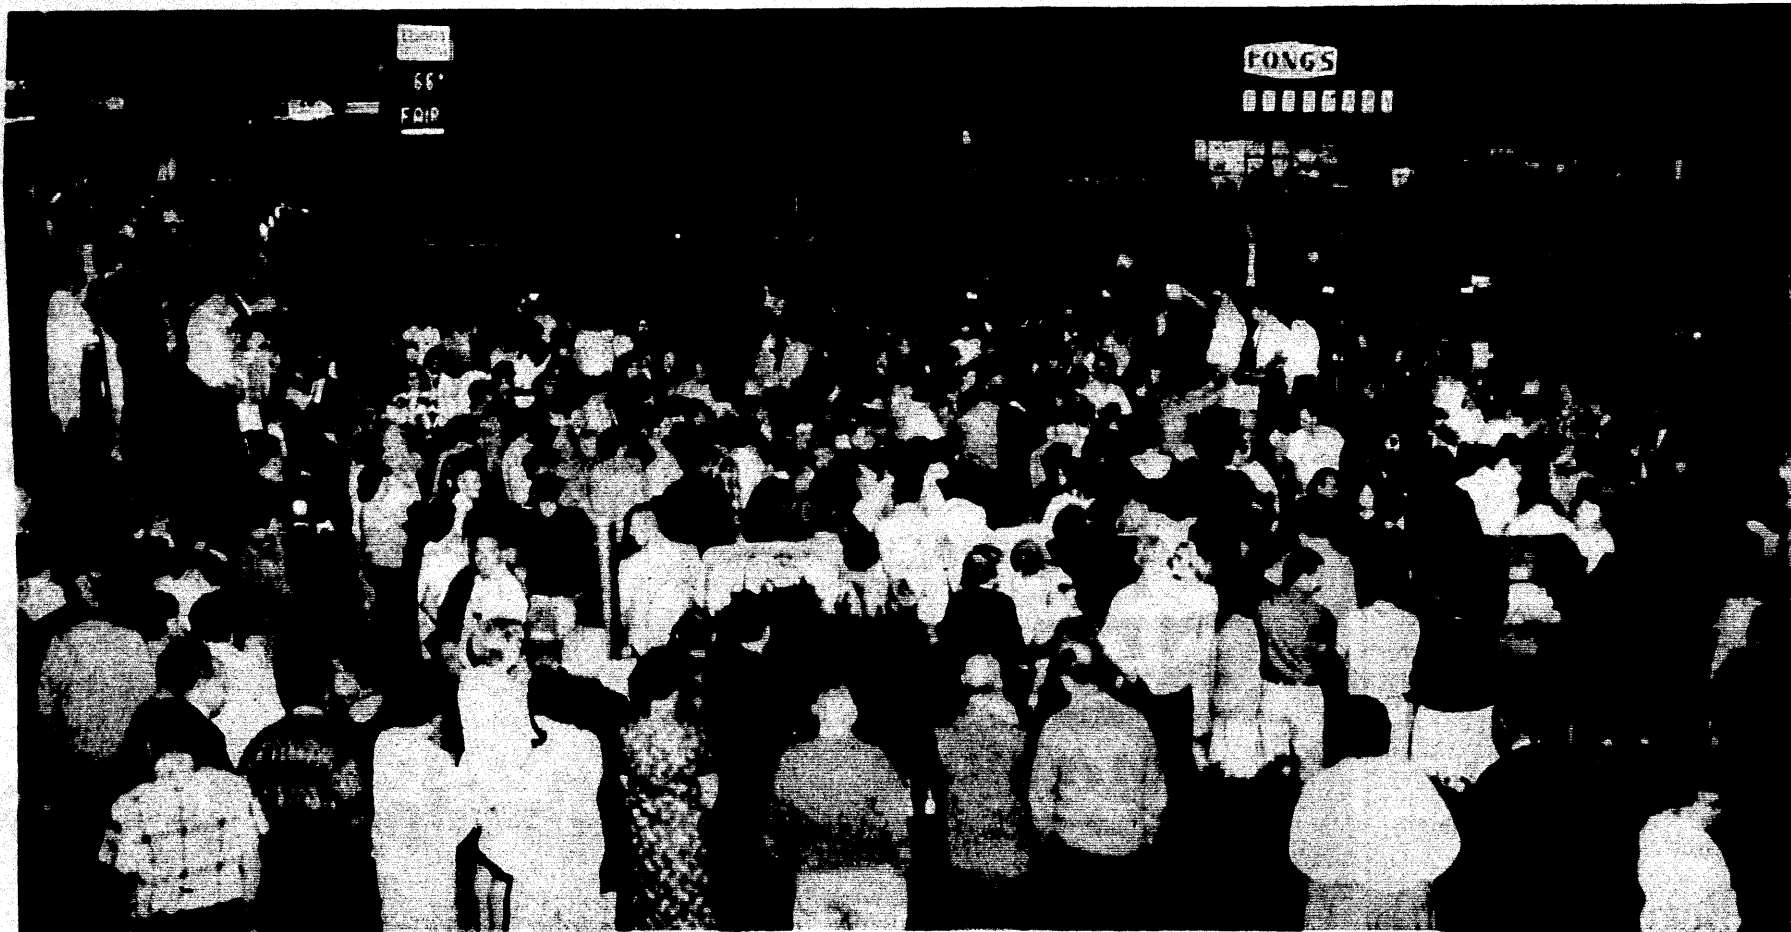

Brigham Young

The tabernacle is 250 feet long, 150 feet wide and 80 feet high. Built before a time of steel girders and tie rods, the members of its massive roof are latticed and pinned together with large wooden pins. Acoustical qualities of the interior are world-famous. Today, along with the Mormon Temple in Salt Lake City's Temple Square, at right, it is one of the principal Mormon Shrines.

Stockholders, patrons and friends of the Winchester Farmers Elevator Co. are invited to open house at the cooperative's new office building at the western edge of Winchester.

It will be held Sunday, Sept. 20. Coffee and doughnuts will be served from 1 to 5 p.m. and there will be registration for door prizes.

The new office, and new 60 foot scales, completes the modern plant, which was begun last year by the erection of a large grain storage facility.

Timeliness Pays Off During Corn Harvest, Says U.I. Engineer

Good timing of corn planting and harvesting operations can help prevent grain losses and often spells the difference between profit and loss, a University of Illinois agricultural engineer told agri-businessmen attending the Corn Quality conference at the University of Illinois.

He especially emphasized rapid, efficient harvesting. "Anything that interferes with harvest is likely to reduce profits," noted Frank W. Andrew.

Barring severe weather, typical Corn Belt conditions permit about 20 to 25 harvesting days from October 20 to November 20. This means that a farmer growing 400 acres of corn yielding 120 bushels per acre should expect to harvest at least 2,000 bushels a day.

Although corn is considered mature at 30-35 per cent moisture, 25 per cent moisture or less allows the best combining and shelling.

Every Delay Costs
"But the longer a standing crop is left in the field after it reaches maturity, the greater are the potential losses due to lodging, ear drop, insects, birds, rodents and storms," said Andrew. "Every fall is different, but records indicate that corn moisture content changes little after October 20. Early planting should increase the chances of corn maturing to 25 per cent moisture or less by harvest time.

Cooling grain to hold it for drying after harvest pressures are past has merit, said Andrew.

"Freshly harvested, shelled corn is a valuable, perishable product. Its storageability depends on its moisture content and temperature," Andrew explained.

"For example, 24 per cent moisture shelled corn can be kept at 80° F. for about four days before becoming unmarketable. The same grain held at 40° F. is still marketable or can be dried for storage after 40 days."

Drying grain at low temperatures isn't fast. But since mold doesn't develop rapidly at low temperatures, drying doesn't have to be fast.

Andrew cautioned Corn Belt farmers not to use fan-forced air to cool grain unless harvest is delayed until about November 1 and grain moisture never 22 per cent or less. Under these conditions it takes at least one-half of a cubic foot of air per minute to cool and store each bushel of corn.

"Fines A Problem
Broken and cracked kernels spoil about four times as fast as whole kernels because they "fines" tend to reduce air flow through the grain.

"The 'fines' present a real problem for the operator who wants to dry corn to 12 to 13 per cent moisture for long-term storage of eight months to a year," Andrew explained. "It's encouraging to see that some manufacturers of storing and conditioning equipment are selling a good screening device as part of their complete equipment package."

Many times, the property will go to the person named in the deed simply because no one contests the deed's validity. Under property law, however, a deed is not effective to transfer real estate unless the deed is "delivered" to the grantee or someone acting for him.

It must be put beyond the grantor's control. If he has the right to take it back, there has been no delivery. When a deed of this kind is challenged, the court often holds it invalid.

When a deed effective at death is held invalid, property then passes to heirs according to descent laws — or if the deceased has a will, then according to the will's terms. In either case, it is probable that the property will not go to the persons named in the deed.

It is possible, however, to make a valid transfer of real estate effective at death by using a lifetime deed. One way is to deliver to the grantee a deed which conveys the remainder interest subject to a life estate in the owner.

This method allows the owner to use the property and take the income during his life. At death, the property goes to the remainder-man by virtue of the deed and without the necessity of probate. The same result can be achieved with a properly drafted trust.

Can Use Escrow
Another way is to use an escrow arrangement whereby a warranty deed is placed in the hands of a non-interested party with written directions covering disposition. If the deed cannot be recalled, it is considered a present transfer with possession retained by the owner for life.

The proper use of these instruments and directions requires a thorough knowledge of Illinois property law. Also, it is not always wise to avoid probate.

Therefore, none of these devices should be used without an attorney's advice.

Farmers Of Illinois Face Unusual Harvest Problems—Pressures

Farmers and the grain trades are facing a real task and a challenge to their ingenuity, in the harvesting, conditioning and storage of this year's huge corn crop, according to L. F. Stice, Extension Economist in Grain Marketing from the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service.

Stice, speaking at a grain marketing and outlook meeting for Morgan and Scott County farmers and the grain trade at Winchester Thursday night, pointed out that the 1,118 million bushel 1967 Illinois corn crop is one-third larger than last year's 835 million bushel crop and one-fifth more than the previous record 919 million bushel 1965 crop. The job of putting away this year's crop without having heavy losses and distressed prices is further complicated by the fact that the crop is later than normal, follows record 1967 wheat and soybean harvests, and is comes before farmers and the grain trade have fully geared up to handle field shelled corn.

Last fall the grain trade, including county grain dealers, processors and exporters took heavy losses from spoilage in trying to store and or ship high moisture corn. This year they will be reluctant to accept more wet corn from farmers than can be handled safely. And although many grain firms have increased their drying and storage capacity, few are prepared to condition and store a crop of this size.

Market Reflects Pressure
Stice pointed out that in several ways market prices for corn and charges for conditioning and storage are already reflecting heavy pressure on marketing facilities. For example, bids for No. 2 corn delivered to elevators in January are 6 to 12 cents a bushel higher than for harvest delivery. In effect, this is a payment for storage and conditioning rather than a forecast of higher corn prices.

The urgent demand for storage space is also reflected in a 5 to 6 cents wider difference than a year ago between the price of No. 2 corn and the price of Chicago futures.

Corn moisture discounts also reflect higher market charges for conditioning corn than in 1966. That is, with the same discount scale, the returns for drying $1.00 corn are greater than for drying $1.30 corn. For example 23.5 percent moisture corn is discounted 24 cents a bushel on the 1 1/2 cent scale; that is 1 1/2 cents for each 1/2 percent of moisture over 15.5 percent. As this corn is dried to 15.5 percent, it will shrink at least 10 percent. At $1.30 cents a bushel the market value of this shrink is 13 cents a bushel and at $1.00 a bushel it is 10 cents. Since the market's payment for drying this corn is the difference between the discount of 24 cents and the value of the shrink, the returns for drying $1.00 corn is 14 cents a bushel (24.0 - 10.0) compared with 11 cents for $1.30 cent corn.

At this week's bids of about $1.00 for No. 2 corn, harvest delivery on the 1 1/2 discount scale and $1.26 1/2 for Chicago July futures, the market is bidding someone 30 to 35 cents a bushel for conditioning and storing corn until next July.

To assure these returns the storers of the corn must sell an equal quantity of Chicago July futures at the $1.26 level and buy the contract back before it expires in July, 1968.

In appraising price prospects for 1967 corn and soybeans, Stice pointed out that the surplus from this year's crop would anchor market prices around USDA loan rates of $1.07 for corn and $2.50 for soybeans. Current prices are already at these levels with storage charges deducted. As harvest gets under way prices are likely to work still lower, and corn prices may become severely depressed if farm marketings are heavy. Some price recovery can be expected after crops find a home but whether prices go enough above current levels of $1.00 for corn and $2.50 for soybeans to pay storage costs is debatable. The break even market-loan redemption price next spring will be about $1.12 for corn and $2.65 for soybeans.

See Million Over Record
The U.S. corn crop of 4.7 billion bushels, which is 600 million bushel over last year's record crop, will exceed our expanding market demand by at least 400 million bushels. Thus the nation's October 1, 1968 carryover stocks of corn are likely to be 1200 or 1300 million bushels. These estimates allow for increases over the past season in livestock feed uses of corn in the U.S. and in exports.

The 1967 U.S. soybean crop of a billion bushel is about 70 million bushel larger than the 1966 production of 932 million bushels.

From that crop we added 65 million to our carry over stocks this September 1, even though market use went from 840 million bushels for 1965-66 to 897 million bushels in 1966-67. Market use of soybeans in the current marketing year is expected to make further gains, possibly up to 950 to 975 million bushels. Even then our carryover stock of soybeans on September 1, 1968 is expected to be 125 to 150 million bushels.

Depressing Factor
In commenting on wheat, Stice cited the very large crop of soft red winter wheat — 291 million bushels and almost

Farm Bureau Committee Looks Ahead

Farm Bureau marketing committees will work closely with farmers and the grain trade during the harvest weeks, says Clyde York, chairman of the Morgan county committee.

"We will meet often and try to help hold our troubles down to a minimum. We have also accepted the recommendations made at the Sept. 8 emergency meeting held by the Illinois Agricultural association:

1. Work with the University of Illinois Agricultural Extension Service to inform farmers of the magnitude of the harvest-time problem, the need to store or keep grain off the market at harvest time, the problems and costs involved in handling high-moisture corn, the need for proper care in harvesting and handling corn and soybeans to preserve quality and reduce discounts, and to present information on emergency storage programs.

2. Meet with elevator managers and grain buyers to discuss how Farm Bureau and the grain trade can work together to minimize the problem in the county. These discussions will involve getting information to farmers on moisture discounts and storage and drying charges; determining if storage and handling capacity can be made available in some areas in case facilities in other areas get overloaded with grain; encouraging the prompt loading and dispatching of rail cars and other transportation equipment; and investigating other methods of speeding the flow of grain.

3. Marketing committees also will give consideration to keeping up-to-date files on elevators' discount schedules and storage charges and the availability of storage space and charges for such space.

4. County marketing committees also will work with the IAA marketing department and local elevators in considering a postcard survey of help determine the amount of grain that farmers intend to market during a 60-day harvest period.

5. Encourage Farm Bureau policy development discussions and recommendations aimed at actions which will improve farm income, recognizing the dramatic changes that are occurring in harvesting methods and crop production and marketing patterns.

4-H MEMBERS GET ACHIEVEMENT PINS

These were: Linda Cowan, Mendi Slavens, Jani Foster, Kathy Lewis, Debbie Thomas, Ellen Fanning, Mary Kay Sharrow, and Mary Ann Slater.

New officers were also elected: Kathy Lewis, president; Mary Ann Slater, vice-president; Ellen Fanning, secretary and Mendi Slavens, treasurer.

Mrs. Sid Welles will assist the treasurer with the project to continue the Savings Plan. The sewing group toured a store and chose patterns and materials for their projects. Mrs. David Allison, Mrs. Sid Welles, and Mrs. Victor Wydra accompanied them.

one-third larger than normal — as a depressing force on market prices. The main hope for price recovery and a possibility is that our government can move this wheat to foreign markets under the FOOD FOR PEACE program. The nation's 1967 production of all wheat is estimated to be an all time record of 1.6 billion bushels and prospective market use at 1.5 billion.

"In retrospect, it is now obvious that a year ago many people, including government officials and some students in agriculture, greatly over-estimated the world's market demand for U.S. grains and underestimated the productivity ability of U.S. farmers," Stice concluded.

BRIMFUL and running over By Jim Brim

It is amazing when you realize the number of people who put things off — just can't get around to it.

You know, I'm that way about some things too.

One thing that never ceases to astonish me is the number of people who do not get their equipment ready for harvest, who have not gotten their storage facilities ready (or even gotten the new bin erected) before harvest time is upon them.

We have been looking forward to harvest since planting time, but many still won't make any preparations until the beans and corn are ready.

The last few years we have had a shortage of storage space and difficulty in moving our corn crop. This has been increasing because of our big switch to field shelling of one type or another and this year we will field shell more than ever before.

For this reason give some thought to the possibilities and make some arrangements for drying or handling your corn before you harvest.

Make repairs on your equipment, make adjustments now.

Now you should . . .

... get ready for the World Series.

... pour concrete feeding floors, walks, driveways, etc.

... get ready to sow wheat.

... check results of weed control practices.

Make the most of fresh fruits and vegetables because frost will soon be with us and we will not be able to enjoy many of them until another season.

But these losses have compensations, for we are close to one of the nicer apple producing sections of our country and they are just coming into their own. What greater joy is there in the fall than that of talking a few apples and walk in the woods looking for hickory and hazelnuts while munching one of our Illinois apples whose flavor cannot be beaten?

Although a dollar is only six inches long it is used to measure many things.

Set Crafts Day For Homemakers
The September Crafts Day of the Morgan-Scott Homemakers Extension association will be Tuesday, Sept. 26 at the Cooperative Extension Center, East Morton Road, Jacksonville.

Mrs. John Reynolds, Crafts Day Chairman, has announced that there will be an afternoon meeting starting at 1:30 p.m. and an evening meeting starting at 7:00 p.m.

Those attending are asked to bring all kinds of craft projects for display and be prepared to explain their construction.

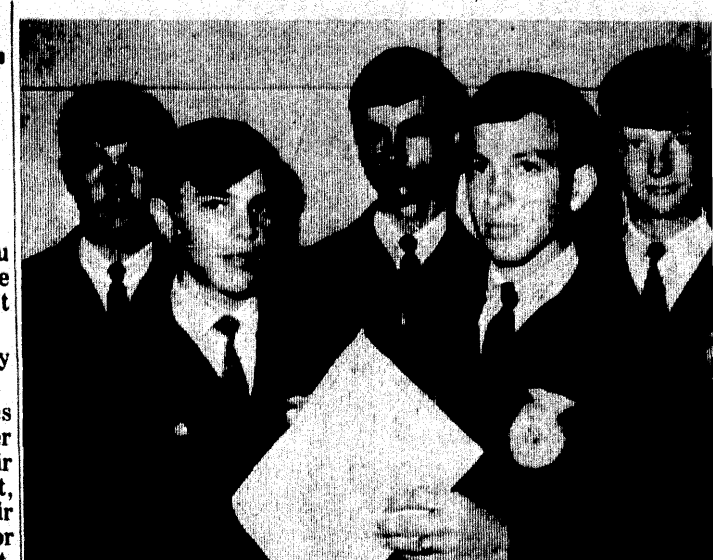

Agriculture College Plans 'Guest Day'
Approximately 1,000 Illinois high school and junior college students along with their parents and advisers will learn more about the University of Illinois College of Agriculture and career opportunities in agriculture Sept. 30.

In addition, these persons attending the annual student Guest Day sponsored by the U. of I. agricultural college will receive the latest information on costs, admissions, scholarships and housing.

The Guest Day program begins at 8:15 a.m. with registration in the University Auditorium. The University of Pittsburgh vs. the Fighting Illini football game rounds out the active day for the U. of I. campus visitors.

Orville G. Bentley, U. of I. agricultural dean, will welcome guests at 9 a.m. followed by a student panel depicting university life.

During 20-50 minute morning sessions, students may discuss with college staff members courses of study and career opportunities in 15 different fields of study.

Farmers, Grain Trade Face Billion Bushel Illinois Corn Crop

"We are on the brink of the largest corn harvest history," Ralph Klopstein, Continental Grain Co., Chicago, told nearly 350 persons attending the University of Illinois Corn Quality conference last week.

Leading the program of corn industry speakers, I said there would be a corn harvest this fall totaling 4 billion bushels. Of that, more than one billion would come from Illinois farms alone.

Klopstein was a panel member discussing "Where We Are in Corn Harvesting, Conditioning and Storage." The corn conference, attended by persons representing all segments of the corn industry — from farmer to food processor — was co-sponsored by the Chicago Board of Trade and the U. of I. Cooperative Extension Service.

Field-shelling has clearly become one of the dominant corn harvesting methods in the Corn Belt, Klopstein said, and soon it will be the dominant way.

Storage Troubles Mount
Increased production and the swing to field-shelling has created a demand for commercial custom grain drying and storage which has developed into an entire new industry at the country elevator level, he told the industry representatives.

James Gill, Wyoming, Ill., farmer and other panel member, predicted family-sized grain farms will someday average 1,000 acres or more with corn yields consistently topping the 200-bushel mark.

"If landlords prefer not to build storage facilities on farms, corn producers will have no choice but to store their grain at elevators in town," he said. "The grain trade must be ready to store one-half to three-quarters of the crop."

Owner of 400 acres in Stark County, Gill said the corn industry must consider paying a premium for the high-quality corn produced by these large farms.

Should Pay For Quality
"Farmers just don't have the price incentive to dry corn below 15.5 per cent," he related. "Consequently, farmers, country elevators and terminals lose millions of dollars worth of grain through spoilage."

Klopstein pointed out farm-gate prices are confused and irritated by the grain trade's variable and inconsistent discount scales.

These study fields include all phases of agriculture and home economics.

Special information stations will be set up where visitors and their parents or advisers may obtain specific information on admission, scholarships, costs and housing.

A box lunch will be served in the Stock Pavilion at noon. Ticket costs $1 as does the football game ticket. Game time at Memorial Stadium is 1:30 p.m.

When he returned home that evening, he asked her what she got with the gift certificate. "Nothing yet," she replied, "just went downtown and changed it for two $25 certificates."

STILL GOING UP!
Land prices that is! In 19 the rate of increase for the nation according to U.S.D.A. was 8%. In Illinois it was 12%.

One explanation of the increase is that farmers need more acre to make a profit and they bid up the price to enlarge their farms. 2/3 farm purchases were for this purpose. But it does not tell the whole story. Most of these purchasers would not buy land they did not expect it to return a profit.

Land buyers also expect, with good reason, that land value will go up. Three big economic forces are at work to raise land values. They are (1) Population is growing while land area is not. (2) Our rising standard of living demands land for many purposes. (3) Inflation raises the money value of land.

It is said that farm land too high because the average rate of return is less than the interest rate on farm mortgages. "Farm land won't pay for itself at these prices."

Why should farm land pay for itself when the buyer borrows to buy it? We don't expect to be able to borrow money to buy bond and have the interest paid for the bond.

FROM THE CORN CRIB
He was a thoughtful husband but when it came to gifts I could never please his wife. The gift was always too large or too small, too gaudy or too dull. So instead of trying to guess something for her birthday I decided to give her a $50 gift certificate.

When he returned home that evening, he asked her what she got with the gift certificate. "Nothing yet," she replied, "just went downtown and changed it for two $25 certificates."

LAW on the farm

DEEDS EFFECTIVE AT DEATH

URBANA — Sometimes a person desiring to avoid probate and the costs and delays associated with it at times, will execute a warranty deed during his life with the intent to transfer his real estate as of the time of death.

The deed or deeds might be placed in a safety deposit box or kept at home with a notation "to be given to my son John (or daughter Mary) at my death."

Occasionally, a deed is given to a friend with directions that he give it to John or Mary at the owner's death, unless the deed is taken back before then.

Often No Protest
Many times, the property will go to the person named in the deed simply because no one contests the deed's validity. Under property law, however, a deed is not effective to transfer real estate unless the deed is "delivered" to the grantee or someone acting for him.

It must be put beyond the grantor's control. If he has the right to take it back, there has been no delivery. When a deed of this kind is challenged, the court often holds it invalid.

When a deed effective at death is held invalid, property then passes to heirs according to descent laws — or if the deceased has a will, then according to the will's terms. In either case, it is probable that the property will not go to the persons named in the deed.

It is possible, however, to make a valid transfer of real estate effective at death by using a lifetime deed. One way is to deliver to the grantee a deed which conveys the remainder interest subject to a life estate in the owner.

This method allows the owner to use the property and take the income during his life. At death, the property goes to the remainder-man by virtue of the deed and without the necessity of probate. The same result can be achieved with a properly drafted trust.

Can Use Escrow
Another way is to use an escrow arrangement whereby a warranty deed is placed in the hands of a non-interested party with written directions covering disposition. If the deed cannot be recalled, it is considered a present transfer with possession retained by the owner for life.

The proper use of these instruments and directions requires a thorough knowledge of Illinois property law. Also, it is not always wise to avoid probate.

Therefore, none of these devices should be used without an attorney's advice.

Miss Leonhard Tells New Berlin Club Of Gardens

NEW BERLIN — Miss Emma Mae Leonhard of Jacksonville was guest speaker at the first meeting of the club year for the New Berlin Woman's Club, Sept. 1 in the Timber Lodge on the Sangamon County fairgrounds.

Miss Leonhard gave her unique description of a garden—possibly just one growing plant well tended, and described different types of gardens including those of other countries. Her vivid program included colored slides depicting her own varied gardens, during all of the seasons. Her beautifully planned gardens made everyone realize how careful selection and planning can make a garden spot beautiful the year around and a haven for birds.

Mrs. Robert Pfeffer, first vice president, presided during the business session. Announcement was made of "Federation Day" of the IFWC to be held for both the 20th and 21st Districts on Wednesday, October 11, at Jacksonville. All members are urged to attend.

Miss Cathy Simmons, junior student in New Berlin High School, gave an interesting review of her week at EIU where she attended Music Camp under club sponsorship the past summer.

Mrs. Robert Keyes at the piano, and Mrs. Ronald Worley concluded the afternoon program with a vocal duet.

The Gardens and Beautifications divisions were in charge, with Mrs. Ringer serving as program chairman and Mrs. Elmer Roesch as hostess chairman. They were assisted by Mrs. Alvina Duewer, Mrs. Howard Perry, Mrs. Walter James, Mrs. James Luken, Mrs. Ray Paulen, Mrs. William Reed, Mrs. T. T. Wilson, Mrs. Delbert Fairweather, Mrs. Lowell Reid, and Mrs. Roscoe Hilgenberg.

At the close of the meeting, a social hour was enjoyed with the committee serving refreshments from a beautifully appointed teatable.

AMVET AUXILIARY GIVES TO UNITED FUND, RED CROSS

Donations to the Morgan County Chapter Red Cross and the United Fund were approved at the meeting of the Amvets Auxiliary held Sept. 12 at the Amvets Club.

President Esta Lee Beadles called the meeting to order; Sergeant-at-arms Martha Upchurch led the pledge to the flag and Chaplain Bernadine Lair gave the opening prayer.

Minutes were read by Secretary Irene Sanders and Millie Poole gave the treasurer's report. One new member, Linda Hartz, was accepted and there were three renewals, Mary Chaudoin, Opal Keating and Florine Smith. Committee reports were given by Martha Upchurch, hospital chairman and Bernadine Lair, sick and calling chairman.

Announcement was made that a family potluck would be held Oct. 15 at the club at 6:30 p.m. Meat and beverage will be furnished. Auxiliary members are asked to bring covered dishes and service. Members of the Auxiliary should also provide white elephant gifts to be used for prizes.

The Amvets and Auxiliary made a donation of $250 to the Peaceful Valley Youth Ranch to furnish one room in a dorm. The building will be dedicated on Oct. 22nd. John Beadles, state department commander, in-troducted the project which will provide a home for boys between ages of 12 to 16.

Mrs. Beadles who attended the National Convention held recently in Florida, gave a detailed report and brought back a 67 pin for Martha Upchurch for bringing in ten new members. Mrs. Beadles received a certificate for the "Bring Back Members Contest," awarded to the unit for being second largest Auxiliary. Grace Osborne of Chicago was elected senior vice president of the National Amvet Auxiliary.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Chaplain Lair. The next meeting will be at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 26.

Older Days In Virginia

By GRACE T. HOLMES
In the fall of the year, the housewife spent many hours peeling and slicing apples and seeding peaches, getting them ready for drying. The apples had to be cut in certain sized slices; the peaches were halved.

On a nearby low shed a portion of the roof was covered with paper and then with cloth. The slices were spread on the cloth and when all was just so the whole was covered with mosquito bar to keep off flies and other insects.

Throughout the day the housewife watched for rain clouds and the slices had to be brought in before the dew fell and this procedure was followed day after day until they were dried.

The peach halves were not so tedious, but the same procedure was followed.

Fried dried apple pies were considered a luxury.

Do you remember—
The Cumberland Presbyterian church had the distinction of having the first pipe organ in the city. It was too small for an out-of-town church that had used it and the Cumberland church purchased it. Mr. Luther Paschal was instructed in the operation of the organ and for a number of years served as organist. Occasionally there was a recital to which the public was invited.

Do you remember—
When instead of applauding we gave the "Chautauqua Salute" which was done by waving your handkerchief.

When you started on a picnic, one of your mother's parting admonitions was "Don't go near any water."

Do you know that in the 1850s if an aching tooth had a cavity, the end of a knitting needle was well heated and inserted in the cavity to kill the nerve.

This remedy doubtless would still work if anybody wants to try it.

In 1890, boys wore kilt dresses until about old enough to go to school. The father of one boy came home with two nice wool jersey suits, one navy and one brown. For a time the boy refused to try them on and when he did was so ashamed he lost no time removing them. Times have changed and so have boys.

Do you remember—
The box social where the girls filled a large shoe box with food, attractively decorated the outside of the box so when auctioned off it would bring a better price. Her name was included inside the box and the young man who purchased it was her partner for supper. Some over-anxious young man sometimes learned how his girlfriend's box was decorated and when he bid for it he was sure she would be his supper partner. Money was used for school and church purposes.

Do you remember—
A day enjoyed by most living in a neighborhood, when a neighbor butchered. Together they had a big dinner at noon. Later the sausage was made, also head cheese, souse, liverwurst, etc. The lard was rendered and the cracklings in the bottom of the kettle were removed, and were often used to make "crackling corn bread." This was rich and many enjoyed it.

Do you remember—
The man who walked down the street one Sunday morning, carrying a Sunday newspaper, the first that came to town. He was eyed by every passerby and was considered beyond redemption.

News, Views Century Ago

From the Jacksonville Sentinel:
We notice that the new Methodist church on the south side of the brook, will soon be ready to receive the roofing.

The fall train of movers has commenced to pass through the city. Westward Ho!

It is expected ten thousand people will attend the annual county fair next week.

We have seen the new court house on paper. It looks splendid.

The various schools and institutions of learning in this city are again in full blast.

The grape yield in this vicinity is large and the fruit unusually fine.

A number of the beer saloons are yet open and running. The Germans seem disposed to fight it out on that line.

From the Carrollton Gazette:
We are told that the first through train from Bloomington will pass over our road on Monday next, and a new time table will be adopted. That's good.

SWEET POTATOES — These delicious esculents are making their appearance on our streets, but as yet at such prices, that none but those who have deep pockets can buy. We poor printers must bide our time. Don't some of our subscribers want their potatoes noticed? How are we to judge without a sample? The larger variety of samples, and the more of them, will ensure the best digested consideration. It would not bother us in the least to receive a cartload, though our expectations do not reach above a much smaller measure.

Our Merchants are very busy receiving their fall stocks of goods, which we are told are magnificent. For details see our advertising columns next week.

From the Beardstown Central Illinoian:
The present issue terminates the first decade of the CENTRAL ILLINOIAN.

Kuhl has a nice stock of goods, just opened. Call around and price them.

Business is assuming a shape here now that looks healthy.

The Brewery is getting on its roof — it looks "magnificent."

Why cannot a base ball club be organized here, as in other cities? Let this be looked into!

A ball struck a little boy in the eye, last week. Strange to say, the bawl immediately came out of his mouth. Easy joke for young beginners.

A maker of coffins, advertising his wares, says: "No person having once tried one of my coffins will ever use another."

A fashionable but ignorant lady desirous of purchasing a watch, was shown a very beautiful one, the shop-keeper remarking that it went thirty-six hours. "What, in one day," she asked.

A wit once asked a peasant what part he played in the great drama of life. "I mind my own business," was the caustic reply.

It is reported that the entire crop of Sea Island cotton will probably be destroyed by the caterpillar; but such reports are always made, and it is best not to rely too implicitly upon them.

Now that the subject of whisky frauds on the revenue have risen from the plane of the distillers to that of the politicians and assessors, the public may learn something of the whole process. As things are now, it is impossible for a distiller to be an honest man, and most probably equally impossible for an assessor or collector to be so.

It is stated that there are 25,000 persons in this city who are known by the police to be thieves, and this without counting Wall Street, who dress in purple and fine linen and fare sumptuously every day.

A colored judge presided, for the first time, on the bench of the First District Court in New Orleans on the 18th day of September, 1867.

It is reported and denied that Gen. McClellan is coming

FOREIGN

September, 1867

The cathedral in Frankfurt was burned down recently. The foundation of the church dates from the Roman Empire, though the building was inaugurated in 1239, and has been used for the coronation of the kings and emperors of Germany. Its loss is a misfortune, not only to the town, but also to the numerous tourists in Europe.

It appears from recent accounts that the insurrection in Crete is so far from being suppressed that the women have actually formed a battalion, and that their example is creating quite a furore of enthusiasm. Their dress is a specie of feminine zouave dress, and they are armed with repeating rifles and swords.

Prussia and France have exchanged peace circulars, and both seem to be satisfied.

NFO Hears Plan For Developing 'Grain Bank'

Morgan County NFO met for a dinner at Hamilton's restaurant in Jacksonville Tuesday evening. Edgar Robinson, Jr., president, conducted the business meeting.

Ezra Wenger, grain coordinator of this area, explained the establishment of a grain bank program. He advised members to store their grain at harvest time and to put one-half of their crop in the NFO grain bank where corn cannot be sold for less than $1.50 per bushel, soybeans not less than $3.00 per bushel and wheat for not less than $2.00 per bushel.

"Success in grain programs depends entirely on farmers holding and storing grain at harvest time," he said. "By doing this, NFO farmers build volume sales, and volume sales command not only attention, but premium prices."

"Unfortunately, grain prices are still nominally 'set' in the pit of the Chicago Board of Trade, where speculators and hedgers use a forum of babble, shout and hand signals to name the ever-fluctuating price on farm grain production. This system could evaporate tomorrow if farmers wanted it to. Producers have the production — all they have to do is hold it together for a price."

Grazing Allowed On Idled Acres

Farmers who diverted acreage under the 1967 feed grain diversion programs now may graze this acreage without losing program benefits, Lester E. Martin, chairman, Morgan County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, announces.

Authority was recently granted to ASC State committees to extend to seven months the free grazing period for livestock on lands taken out of production under the annual commodity diversion program. The starting date for such grazing, therefore was Sept. 15, marking the end of the period during which the no-grazing provision was in effect under the diversion programs.

"Extension of the free grazing period," the chairman stated, "will give farmers an additional month each year for grazing livestock on these diverted croplands. It will permit program participants to glean their fields without the expense of erecting fences between lands on which they have grown crops and those they have diverted."

Morgan county farms participating in this year's commodity diversion programs number 1098.

SPIRITED RESPONSE

CORRY, Pa. (AP) — A floor rug dropped through a hole in the back seat, fell on a hot muller and set afire a car carrying four Roman Catholic nuns.

They stopped Russell Dingfelder, who was driving by, and asked if he had a fire extinguisher.

"No," he said, "but I do have a can of beer."

"By all means, use it," one urged him.

Find Soybean Oil Adaptable For Nylon 9

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government researchers hold out favorable prospects for using soybean oil as the principal raw material in producing commercial nylon 9, a type used in several manufacturing industries.

Dr. John C. Cowan of Agricultural Research Service reported to the American Chemical Society that soy nylon has properties not now available in domestic nylon 9, that it would cost less than the imported product and that the bean oil is available at stable prices.

Nylon 9 is used in metal coatings, electrical parts, moldings and some textile fibers and films. It absorbs less moisture and resists distortion more than most nylon produced commercially in the United States.

Cowan said studies made at the Northern Utilization Research Laboratory, Peoria, Ill., indicated soy nylon could be produced for less than 80 cents a pound. Imports from Europe now sell from $1.50 to $2.50 a pound.

This is an important session and all new leaders and assistants should make every effort to be there.

Outdoor Workshop

On October 6th and 7th the leaders will meet again for an outdoor workshop. An overnight is included in the agenda. Leaders will be given an opportunity to brush up on camping skills or learn new ones. Bette Jackson and Connie Roegge will conduct this workshop.

The Senior Scouts are planning a rummage sale in October. Please call Mrs. A. W. Applebee, 243-1311 or Mrs. Russell

Walton, 245-9177 if you have rummage and they will make arrangements to pick it up. Proceeds of this sale will be used for a camping trip next June to the National Girl Scout Camp, Rockwood, near Washington, D. C.

There are many girls at the Braille and Sightseeing School who would like to be Girl Scouts. Here is an opportunity to share scouting with others. Troops wishing to invite two to four blind girls should call David Tiffany at the school, 245-4101. A number of troops had blind girls last year and found it a most satisfying experience.

Boys' Discovery Is Linked With St. Louis Killing

JERSEYVILLE—A .38 calibre Colt detective special has been identified here as a companion weapon to one found in St. Louis after a resident of that city was killed during an explosion that wrecked his car on a St. Louis parking lot. The gun was identified by St. Louis police as one that had been stolen during a burglary of a store operated in Crystal City, Missouri, by James David Theodore in November, 1965. The gun, retrieved by Jersey County authorities, has been returned to its owner.

The gun came into possession of Adam DeShleria, sheriff of Jersey County, in late May of this year, some 18 months after it was stolen from the Theodore store in Crystal City. It was found by two boys under a tree some distance from the Rice Seed Company in Jerseyville. The gun had apparently been recently discarded by its carrier, for it was wrapped in a copy of the St. Louis Globe Democrat bearing a late May 1967 date. The copy of the paper in which the gun was found wrapped was also returned to Theodore with the weapon when shipped from here Wednesday afternoon.

Guns stolen during the Crystal City burglary amounted to $7,000 in value, according to invoices. The weapon identified by the St. Louis Police Department and the Jersey County weapon are the only two guns to be recovered from a large number obtained by the burglars. When the two boys found the gun last May, they took it to the home of one of the youths, Porter Whitlock of the McClusky vicinity. Whitlock notified Sheriff DeShleria and turned the weapon over to him. The gun was, in turn, surrendered to the Illinois Bureau of Criminal Identification and a long checkup to establish its identity began. A check with the St. Louis Police Department revealed that it had not been the property of any detective or patrolman there. A similar result was obtained when weapons of officers of the Federal Bureau of Investigation were checked.

The Colt Firearms company was next checked, and the gun was identified as one sold by the company to Jim David Theodore. A report on the findings of the Illinois Bureau of Criminal Identification was submitted August 21, 1967, by Forrest R. Letterly, assistant superintendent of the bureau at Springfield. Sheriff DeShleria then contacted the Crystal City store operator with the request that the latter furnish proof of ownership and his license number as a seller of guns. This was received in course of time, and everything being in order, the gun was sent to its legal owner Wednesday afternoon.

Who possessed the second retrieved gun and why the carrier discarded it in the place and manner in which it was found is still puzzling local officers.

Lord french Says
It's Spelled Right

EDITOR'S NOTE—It's spelled with a small double f and it causes a lot of confusion. It's not a new word game, nor a riddle. It's the name of an Irish peer who tells why—when it comes to the family title—it's the small things in life that count.

The french title goes back to 1779. The family motto is: "I'd rather die than be dishonored." "Or to spell it any other way than french," said Lord french with a sssssssssmile.

Housewives Make Best Temporary Workers

EDITOR'S NOTE—The hiring out of temporary workers has become big business in the last decade, and the ranks are largely made up of housewives. During the summer, they invade the temporary market, but with fall approaching, it's time for the woman who wants short-term work to start preparing. Here are some tips on what the temporary job market has to offer her.

NEW YORK (AP) — Housewives, who have cornered 85 per cent of the temporary work in the United States, have proved themselves more desirable than single women in the field. That's what Richard Essey, president of the Association of Temporary Personnel Contractors, says.

"The organizational ability which the housewife develops in running a household and raising children are very practical qualities which enable her to adjust rapidly to new surroundings and take new responsibilities in her stride. She is also more apt to be a neat housekeeper at her desk."

"If more housewives knew this, they would have greater confidence in seeking their first temporary job," says Essey.

"Confidence is what they primarily need. And confidence is often based on knowing how to best present themselves—and also on knowing a bit about the temporary job market of 1967."

This year the temporary personnel industry in the United States will pass the $1 billion mark. It has experienced a 700 per cent increase in the last eight years, according to the Stanford Research Institute.

During this period companies expanded and diversified, and many new kinds of jobs opened.

The housewife seeking a temporary job must first decide whether she primarily wants quick money, a glamor job or a job in a specific field of interest.

If it's to be quick money, she must appraise her skills. Most personnel contractors test stenographers and typists before sending them out. Many also give free brush-up courses in typing, shorthand, and computer.

Some offer the complete course free from the beginning. To decide whether or not this is worth her while, the housewife must balance the comparative pay in her area against the time to be spent training.

If she has a special interest—whether it be fashion, fabrics, music, theater, public service—she might try to get a job in this field. First she should make a list of all the education and work she has done, including voluntary work and hobbies.

In approaching a temporary personnel contractor, she should be specific about the field in which she wants to work. If he cannot place her, she should not give up, for chances are another placement office can.

Often a housewife's primary problem is one of hours. She can only work afternoons or wants to be there when the children get home from school. Personnel contractors can often place such women, because businesses that are growing rapidly are highly adaptable.

"Appearance is also important, especially considering today's fashions," says Essey. "Brightly colored stockings, dresses well above the knees, and mod clothes may be acceptable once you have proved your efficiency. But the woman who dresses conservatively is likely to make her appearance count for more when it comes to job hunting."

While the most common job categories are open to secretaries, typists, clericals, bookkeepers, receptionists, switchboard operators, key punchers, computerists and calculators, varied and special assignments have been increasing rapidly as industry expands into new areas.

Among the facts which a woman should know about temporary assignments:

Temporary job contractors never charge a fee to the employee.

The only deductions they make are the compulsory ones, such as income tax, social security, and unemployment compensation.

As a worker, the housewife is a direct employee of the temporary contractor.

Coco Tells It Like It Is

PARIS—(NEA)—Referring to Jacqueline Kennedy recently, Coco Chanel said, "She has horrible taste and she's responsible for spreading it all over America... She's trying to look like her own daughter."

The formidable Mademoiselle has never been one to take a deep breath and clamp her lips on a harsh word. And when fashion is the topic, she justly feels she should be heard. For with Christian Dior, the father of the New Look, she has had—and still has—the greatest fashion influence of any fashion designer in the past 25 years. Chanel-type suits are still the best sellers in stores and boutiques everywhere.

In her diatribe against Mrs. Kennedy, Coco was simply hitting out at the ye ye, miniskirt look she deplores on older women. She is not against the miniskirt per se, she claims. "It's just that I'm against everything, that is ugly and ridiculous." Her own winter collection included some brief skirts. "Anyway, a skirt length never made a style," she added.

Helen Hennessy's Boutique

Chanel pointed out that women do not appear younger when they dress to look like "aged little girls." To her, real chic is a question of harmony. Exaggerated styles which may be carried off by a 16-year-old, she feels, are frankly ridiculous on a woman of 25 or 30.

Chanel has always declared that she has no objection to being copied and to having her suits "go down into the street." Since she is the most copied Paris designer, it's as well she doesn't take umbrage as did Courreges a few seasons ago.

"I have never created a dress with the idea that it might rate a wolf-whistle. I still am confident that to please the eye it is not necessary to scandalize the onlooker."

"Overdressing happens with too many women today," Chanel believes. "This is usually a sign of inferiority. Never has a woman with a definite personality needed to draw attention to her clothes."

Coco herself often wears a suit until it is frayed at the edges just because it has become part of her.

It is rumored that she will take her collection to Russia this fall. It is estimated that a Moscow audience of at least 15,000 will see for the first time a Paris collection where the starting price of a model is around $1,400.

The couture grapevine whispers that Mademoiselle got her inspiration for her latest collection after seeing the Russian film, "I Too Met Some Happy Gypsies," which caused a stir at the recent Cannes Film Festival.

Since then she has dreamed of troikas, sabes, boots, moujik tunics and gypsy silk shirts.

Incidentally, it was Chanel who in the '30s launched the first ankle-length, colorful and full, swinging gypsy evening dress.

Chanel doesn't intend to open a new market in Russia with this ultra-capitalistic manifestation. "It's just a question of prestige," she says.

Although other, younger Paris designers have taken verbal pot shots at Chanel for her criticism of the little girl look for women over 25, saying she is too old to know what's right for modern women, young Yves Saint Laurent copied some of her ideas for his winter collection this year. And she is still the only Paris designer since World War II who always has impact on younger French women.

A final note: This time around the miniskirt did NOT play a starring role in any of the Paris collections. Could be Chanel is vindicated in her hearty dislike of that silly little piece of cloth.

STRIPED, PRINTED tweed suit in two shades of red, edged with a double hem of Russian sable is from Chanel's fall-winter collection. Redingote has gold buttons.

Dedicates Roodhouse Park Stage

ently designed four-position mask.

That's the Melandrea concept. It permits any of eight images, each a different shape, to be projected in any sequence... by merely tripping the slide-changing mechanism of the two projectors simultaneously. This is done automatically by using a tape recorder with a slide-changing pulse on one of the magnetic tape tracks; commentary and background music or sound effects are on the other sound tracks.

The Melandrea suggestion is a truly great advance in slide-sound presentations. The astounding part of the entire concept is that it is nothing more than a simple improvement, using the same tools we photographers have had at our command for several years.

At the 1967 NAVA convention (National Audio-Visual Assn.) in Chicago, another new concept in slide-sound show presentation was introduced. This one, called Pro-Gramo, also uses an existing slide projector for the concept.

Imagine a box-type base five inches high upon which you could place a Kodak Carousel, Nikkormat, Sawyer or some-other automatic 35mm slide projector. Inside the base box are all the components of a magnetic tape sound system; on top of the box are the elements of the slide projection system. Merely plug one into the other... voila! ... on with the show.

Instead of a finger-fumbling reel-to-reel system, you have a tape housed in a cartridge about the thickness of a slice of bread, ready for insertion into the unit as simply as putting a slice of bread into a toaster.

Interested in specifications of these Pro-Gramo units? According to Ehrenrich Photo-Optical Industries, national distributors of the automatic sound system is standard 110-volt plug-in; operates for 18 minutes at 3 3/4 inches per second, using 1-mil tape (longer with thinner tape); produces 9 watts of amplifier output; and can use its own 4x8 built-in speaker or remote speaker. The entire unit, with slide projector, weighs only slightly over 25 pounds.

Sounds like a great educational or sales tool, doesn't it? Another new idea, shown at both of these conventions, is a "wind-blown" tape recorder.

Anyone who has ever threaded a standard reel-to-reel tape recorder may recall "blowing" the end of a tape out from between the reel flanges just before placing the reel on the machine.

That is precisely how Bell and Howell got the idea for its new fully automatic-threading reel-to-reel projector. The trick is done with air jets.

The first jet separates the end of the tape from the reel; the next jet flutters the tape through the recording-playback head channel; the third jet takes over to wait the tape onto the take-up reel, where it is automatically caught and wound.

LUCKY SEVEN

RANSOM, Kan. (AP) — Perhaps the number "7" will be lucky for Chad Robert Strickler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Strickler.

He was born on the seventh day of the seventh month of 1967 and weighed seven pounds, seven ounces.

Quick Cooling for Fresh Meat

By GAYNOR MADDOX, NEA Food Editor

Q — Please tell me the best way to keep fresh meat until I cook it.

A — To answer you, we quote Reba Staggs, home economics director of the National Livestock and Meat Board.

"Homemakers need to be reminded that fresh meat to be at its best and to be utilized 100 per cent should be stored in the refrigerator immediately, or as soon as possible after purchase. Fresh meats or cooked meats which are to be stored frozen should be wrapped carefully in moisture-vapor proof wrapping, frozen quickly at 0 degrees or lower and stored at that same temperature. Leftover meats should be cooled quickly and stored promptly in the refrigerator or freezer. Storage time should be watched carefully so that all fresh or frozen meats are used at the peak of their goodness."

HOMEOWNED UFO'S

While warm weather is still with us, it is smart to remember that unidentified flying objects—such as candy wrappers, for example—can be highly dangerous when whirling around inside moving automobiles. Loose papers suddenly caught in the wind when a window is open will obscure the driver's vision and cause accidents, an auto authority says.

Don't clutter up the back shelf with candy wrappers, unpaid bills, credit card receipts or paper saucers. They could fly.

Photographers often learn of important new technology by attending "the other fellow's" conventions or expositions. It happened to me recently, while visiting the Consumers Electronics Show in Manhattan.

"Playing" there was an audio-visual presentation that captured the attention of many of the 15,000 convention-goers.

The technique was evolved by a firm called Melandrea, using a pair of 35mm slide projectors and a tape recorder. This, by itself, doesn't sound exciting. But wait 'til you hear what they do with these tools.

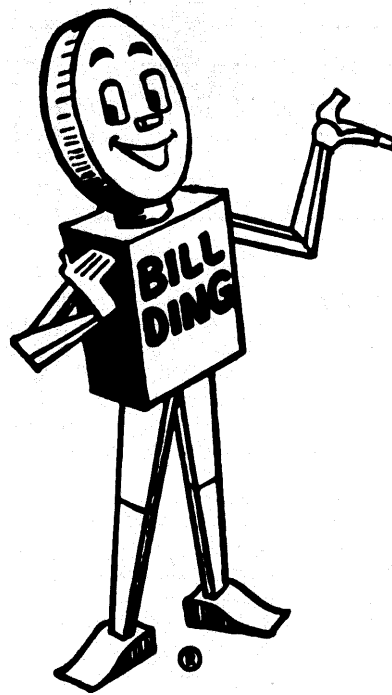

To explain, let's imagine one projector, one screen, but two images... produced by using a 35mm mask with two apertures

—one a circle, the other a square, side by side. That's easy, right? By opaque masking, it would be possible to project either image, or both images, as desired, wouldn't it?

Carrying the concept one step further, the mask could be divided into four segments instead of two. The division might add to the circle-square combination two additional shapes: a rectangle and an oval.

Then any one, any two, any three, or all four, of the images could be projected, at will.

Supposing, however, two 35mm slide projectors are placed side by side, and each projector is fitted with a differ-

Beardstown Site Of New Nursing Home

BEARDSTOWN — Frank (Mike) and Mildred Myers have been given authority by the state of Illinois to remodel and expand the Iron Works building at Fifteenth and Wall streets into a new and modern nursing home facility which will meet the requirements of Medicare.

The Brierly House, at 6th and State street, which Mr. and Mrs. Myers have operated since October of 1960, would not be effected by the new arrangement.

Mr. Myers will continue as administrator of both establishments and Mrs. Myers, a registered nurse, will maintain her work as director of nursing.

The building at 15th and Wall, formerly a skating rink, was purchased several weeks ago from Bud Knippenberg and plans call for its complete remodeling, as well as the addition of wing facilities.

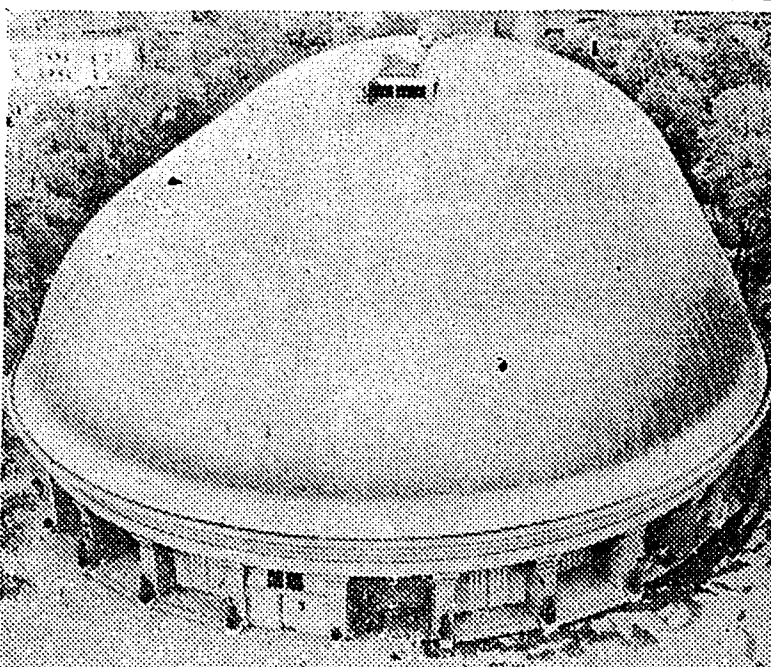

"We will have one of the first nursing homes in the area to qualify for medicare patients under Social Security," Mr. Myers said, "and it is our intention to provide the most modern establishment of its kind."

At first the bed capacity will be 49, but there will be room for expansion to 100 or more beds a lounge, kitchen and other facilities will also be provided.

Mr. Myers said that contracts for the work will be let very soon.

Mormon Shrine Observes Its 100th Year

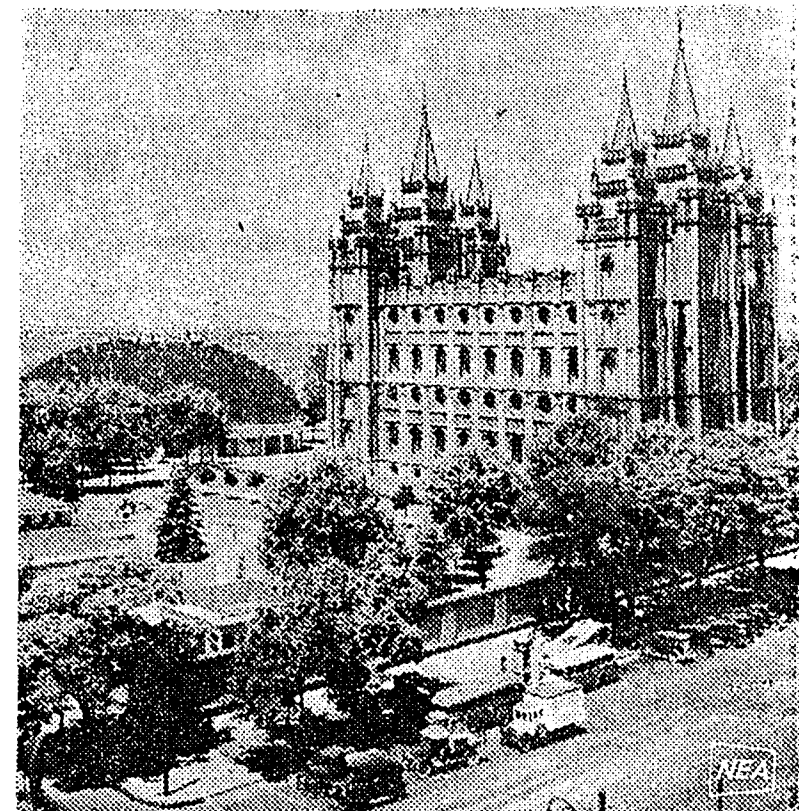

THE MORMON TABERNACLE, acoustical wonder and monumental house of worship of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, is 100 years old. Work on the giant inverted bowl started in 1863, only 16 years after Mormon pioneers arrived in the Salt Lake Valley, led by Brigham Young, after fleeing religious persecution in the Midwest. Built on 44 giant sandstone pillars in the days when oxen were the principal means of transporting materials, it was completed in 1867. Above right, the dome was already formed as the foundation was still being laid for the Mormon Temple, which was started 10 years earlier.

Brigham Young

The tabernacle is 250 feet long, 150 feet wide and 80 feet high. Built before a time of steel girders and tie rods, the members of its massive roof are latticed and pinned together with large wooden pins. Acoustical qualities of the interior are world-famous. Today, along with the Mormon Temple in Salt Lake City's Temple Square, at right, it is one of the principal Mormon Shrines.

LIQUOR ORDINANCE
PITTSFIELD CITY
COUNCIL TOPIC

PITTSFIELD — The Pittsfield liquor ordinance was the main topic of discussion Tuesday night at the city council meeting. Alderman Gerald Dimmitt's motion to review and revise the existing ordinance to meet the needs and demands of Pittsfield carried. Dimmitt's motion had been tabled for nearly a month since it had been agreed that no vote would be taken until all aldermen were present.

Mayor Frank Penstone, hospitalized, could not attend because of his recent shooting mishap, which occurred Tuesday afternoon when he was pursuing a groundhog at his orchard and his 22 pistol discharged accidentally and caused a superficial wound in his left knee. Alderman Richard Bergman Jr. presided in the mayor's place.

Dimmitt, the head of the ordinance committee, explained that he would not go ahead on the possible revision of the controversial liquor ordinance unless he had the approval of Mayor Penstone. As liquor commissioner the mayor has the final say before a new ordinance can be put to vote.

Don Giger, city treasurer, reported a balance of $438,529.57 as of September 1. City clerk Mrs. Katherine Smith reported that the city's income from motor fuel tax had brought in $46,219.52 so far this year. She also reported a refund of $3,733.15 from the Panhandle Eastern since its gas increase had been denied by the Federal Power Commission. This had been an increase by the City of Pittsfield and had not been passed on to the consumer.

In other business, the city clerk was authorized to contact James H. Garver from General Planning and Resource Consultants of St. Louis to assist the city in making sure the new building ordinance is in order to qualify for federal funds for the city's "workable program for community improvement." The city is still having problems getting federal government approval of their long-range plans.

RISING COSTS TO HIKE FERRY RIDE
COST IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP) — The nickel ferry ride—long one of the best bargains in the city—is in danger of being washed away by red ink.

The five-cent fare for the half-hour ride on the Staten Island ferry, with its dramatic view of Manhattan's skyline, has been a fixture since the turn of the century.

City officials announced Thursday that vehicle rates on the ferry are going up 50 percent and off-hour service being decreased to offset increases in the service's annual deficit.

They further warned that if these economies do not prove sufficient, the passenger fare may have to be increased too.

Detroit Takes Over Lead

Wilson Aids Tigers' 5-4 Triumph

DETROIT (AP) — Pitcher Earl Wilson singled in the go-ahead run in Detroit's three-run fourth inning and gained his 21st victory as the Tigers took over possession of first place in the American League by defeating Washington 5-4 Saturday.

The victory, their fourth straight and ninth in the last 11 games, moved the Tigers one game ahead of Minnesota and Boston in the four-way pennant chase. The Twins were beaten by Chicago 5-4 Saturday night and fell into a second place deadlock with the Red Sox, who lost to Baltimore 4-1 in an afternoon game.

Wilson, who has lost 10 games, gave up a run in the third, but the Tigers rallied in the fourth and went ahead to stay. A two-run Washington rally in the ninth fell short.

Singles by Jim Northrup, Norm Cash and Bill Freehan tied the game in the fourth before starter Bob Priddy could get an out in the inning.

Priddy retired Don Wert on a grounder, the runners advancing to second and third, but Wilson followed with a single through the legs of third baseman Bob Severine, driving in Cash and driving out Priddy.

Dick Lines came on for the Senators, and Freehan scored as Dick McAuliffe forced Wilson at second.

Ward Single Lifts Sox Past Twins

CHICAGO (AP) — Pete Ward's run-scoring single clinaxed a four-run explosion in the ninth inning that gave the Chicago White Sox a 5-4 victory over Minnesota Saturday night and knocked the Twins out of a tie for first place in the American League.

The loss dropped Minnesota into a second place tie with Boston, which lost to Baltimore 4-1 Saturday afternoon. The Twins and Red Sox trail Detroit by one game while the fourth place White Sox remain 1½ games off the pace.

The Tigers edged Washington 5-4 in another afternoon game. Dean Chance breezed into the ninth with a 4-1 lead and a six-hitter, but failed to get another out. Tom McCraw led off with a single to center and Ron Hansen singled, McCraw continuing to third as Tony Oliva bobbled the ball.

Rocky Colavito singled past third, scoring McCraw, and Chance booted Duane Josephson's sacrifice bunt, filling the bases. Jim Kaat replaced Chance and wild pitched another run home before Wayne Causey's sacrifice fly tied the score.

Al Worthington then took over for Kaat and refilled the bases with a pair of intentional walks, setting the stage for Ward's winning single to right.

Meredosia Opens With 6-0 Margin Behind Defense

MEREDOSIA — A strong defense that gave up only a total of 65 yards for the afternoon made a first quarter touchdown stand up as Meredosia opened its 1967 football season with a 6-0 margin over the Christian Brothers of Quincy junior varsity, here Saturday afternoon.

Gary Staake broke off tackle for a six-yard score in the opening quarter for all the margin the Indians needed.

In the statistics department Meredosia picked up 17 first downs, gained 64 yards passing on four of six and added 82 rushing yards. CBQ was held to ten first downs, 59 aerial yards on three of 17 tries and managed only six yards on the ground.

HOUSTON (AP) — Lefty Mike Cuellar scattered seven hits for his 14th triumph and Rusty Staub knocked across a pair of runs as the Houston Astros turned back the New York Mets 6-1 Saturday night.

It was Cuellar's third complete game triumph in the Astrodome against the Mets this season.

Sipek Paces 34-0 Runaway By ISD

Tigers Bomb Much Bigger Kincaid Team

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

Sophomore quarterback Ron Sipek threw for three touchdowns and three extra points and Jesse Joyner and Terry Storey each scored twice to lead ISD to a 34-0 surprise victory over a much larger Kincaid team, on the ISD field Saturday afternoon.

Outweighed an average of 23 pounds per man in the line and 22 pounds per man in the backfield, ISD found rare success in the air and banked on a stubborn defense to race past the Ponies with relative ease.

Sipek, moved to quarterback when Terry Storey was switched to end late in the final week of pre-season practice, hit on four of six passes for 147 yards and three scores and connected on three of four for PAT completions.

The ISD defense was especially tough in its own territory, led by Wally Harmasch, Steve Aase, Joyner, and Bill Fox.

While the passing game clicked for the scores, the Tiger ground rush was even more effective in yardage gained.

Led by Joyner with 95 yards in only nine carries and Ron Penn with 39 yards in seven attempts, ISD chewed up 169 yards on the turf for a total offensive output of 316 yards. The total was accomplished despite some first-game jitters that provided a pair of fumbles lost and 80 yards in penalties.

Fumble Sets Up Score

Fox set up the first score when he hit Kincaid quarterback John Ess and caused a fumble which Joyner recovered at the visitors' 28 early in the first period.

After two penalties put ISD back on the Kincaid 45, the speedy Joyner broke loose around end, got a block by Fox on the final defender and scampered the remaining distance for the score. Storey legged the point after.

Steve Baker picked off an Ess pass and ran it back into Kincaid territory later in the frame, but a costly 15-yard penalty stalled the march.

Midway through the second period a third-down quick kick seemingly put ISD in trouble on their own three. Two running plays moved the ball to the seven where on third down Sipek flipped a short flat pass to the right, Storey straight-armed the final defender and romped 93 yards untouched.

The same combination worked on the PAT for a 14-0 halftime count.

TD Called Back

John Adomitis returned an ISD punt 50 yards for a score that was called back by a clipping infraction and Kincaid never threatened seriously again.

ISD mounted a scoring drive late in the third, with Sipek running 18 yards for a key first down. Penn later broke loose for 42 yards around right end to the seven. A 15-yard penalty moved the ball back to the 19 but Sipek hit Storey in the right flat again and the senior speedster scooted the remaining distance on the last play from scrimmage of the period.

Sipek tossed to Baker for the extra point and a 21-0 bulge entering the last stanza.

ATLANTA (AP) — Adolfo Phillips drilled a two-run double in the ninth inning, carrying the Chicago Cubs to a 3-2 victory over Atlanta Saturday night.

Stockholders, patrons and friends of the Winchester Farmers Elevator Co. are invited to open house at the cooperative's new office building at the western edge of Winchester.

It will be held Sunday, Sept. 20. Coffee and doughnuts will be served from 1 to 5 p.m. and there will be registration for door prizes.

The new office, a new 60 foot scale, completes the modern plant, which was begun last year by the erection of a large grain storage facility.

Timeliness Pays Off During Corn Harvest, Says U.I. Engineer

Good timing of corn planting and harvesting operations can help prevent grain losses and often spells the difference between profit and loss, a University of Illinois agricultural engineer told agri-businessmen attending the Corn Quality conference at the University of Illinois.

He especially emphasized rapid, efficient harvesting. "Anything that interferes with harvest is likely to reduce profits," noted Frank W. Andrew.

Barring severe weather, typical Corn Belt conditions permit about 20 to 25 harvesting days from October 20 to November 20. This means that a farmer growing 400 acres of corn yielding 120 bushels per acre should expect to harvest at least 2,000 bushels a day.

Although corn is considered mature at 30-35 per cent moisture, 25 per cent moisture or less allows the best combining and shelling.

Every Delay Costs

"But the longer a standing crop is left in the field after it reaches maturity, the greater are the potential losses due to lodging, ear drop, insects, birds, rodents and storms," said Andrew. "Every fall is different, but records indicate that corn moisture content changes little after October 20. Early planting should increase the chances of corn maturing to 25 per cent moisture or less by harvest time.

Cooling grain to hold it for drying after harvest pressures are past has merit, said Andrew. "Freshly harvested, shelled corn is a valuable, perishable product. Its storageability depends on its moisture content and temperature," Andrew explained.

"For example, 24 per cent moisture shelled corn can be kept at 80° F. for about four days before becoming unmarketable. The same grain held at 40° F. is still marketable or can be dried for storage after 40 days."

Drying grain at low temperatures isn't fast. But since mold doesn't develop rapidly at low temperatures, drying doesn't have to be fast.

Andrew cautioned Corn Belt farmers not to use fan-forced air to cool grain unless harvest is delayed until about November 1 and grain moisture tests 22 per cent or less. Under these conditions it takes at least one-half of a cubic foot of air per minute to cool and store each bushel of corn.

"Fines" A Problem
Broken and cracked kernels spoil about four times as fast as whole kernels because these "fines" tend to reduce air flow through the grain.

"The fines" present a real problem for the operator who wants to dry corn to 12 to 13 per cent moisture for long-term storage of eight months to a year," Andrew explained. "It's encouraging to see that some manufacturers of storing and conditioning equipment are selling a good screening device as part of their complete equipment package."

interest subject to a life estate in the owner.

This method allows the owner to use the property and take the income during his life. At death, the property goes to the remainderman by virtue of the deed and without the necessity of probate. The same result can be achieved with a properly drafted trust.

Can Use Escrow
Another way is to use an escrow arrangement whereby a warranty deed is placed in the hands of a non-interested party with written directions covering disposition. If the deed cannot be recalled, it is considered a present transfer with possession retained by the owner for life.

The proper use of these instruments and directions requires a thorough knowledge of Illinois property law. Also, it is not always wise to avoid probate.

Therefore, none of these devices should be used without an attorney's advice.

Illinois Farm OUTLOOK

CROP REPORTS: FARMERS FRIEND OR FOE?

Farmers have been asking a lot of questions about government crop and livestock reports: Who makes the reports? How? Are they accurate? Do they help or hurt farmers?

The U.S. Department of Agriculture makes most of the reports that farmers are concerned about. The USDA prepares forecasts and estimates of many kinds — including crop production, stocks on hand, the number of livestock on farms, pig crops, cattle on feed, etc.

Farmers supply facts. Most of the information for these reports is supplied by farmers and ranchers — the men who grow the crops and raise the livestock. Many thousands of farmers serve as volunteer unpaid reporters for their communities. They receive, fill out, and return questionnaires to state offices. Crop specialists from these offices also make careful field studies to note crop development, soil moisture and other factors that affect yields. Specialists also interview farmers, using scientific methods like those employed by public opinion polls.

The crop and livestock reports issued by the USDA are about as accurate as the information supplied by farmers. Most reporting farmers turn in good reports. A few try to gum up the works by careless or false reporting. Most of these poor reports are spotted and thrown out by the USDA statisticians.

Forecasts of crop production are begun on July 10 and revised each month until December. The first forecast reflects conditions as of July 1. Later estimates are adjusted to reflect the progress of the crop each month. Forecasts of soybean production are begun on August 10.

Other sources of information. Elevators and mills report amounts of grain on hand at the first of each quarter. The CCC reports stocks on hand each week. The Meat Inspection Division reports the number of livestock slaughtered. Hatcheries report numbers of eggs set and chicks placed, etc.

Prices of crops sometimes fall after crop reports are issued, but prices rise about as often as they go down. Prices go down when supplies are large or increasing. Even if there were no government reports, the big grain companies would know when crops are good or poor; they have employees at many different places. Some travel continuously during the growing season and make their own forecasts of crop production.

Advertising pays. While no one likes to see the prices of his products go down, lower prices are usually necessary in order to sell larger amounts. Producers of soybeans, corn, and wheat are dependent upon buyers in many parts of the world. These buyers want to make their purchases where supplies are large and prices lowest. They have to plan their purchases several months ahead. When they see reports of good crops in the United States, they send more of their orders here. More orders make for bigger exports, helping to prevent greater price declines.

Most businessmen, including many farmers, want more (rather than less) information about their industry. They want the information to help them plan their purchases, production and sales. They know that they need all the information they can get in order to stay in business and make a profit.

Farmers Of Illinois Face Unusual Harvest Problems—Pressures

Farmers and the grain trades are facing a real task and a challenge to their ingenuity, in the harvesting, conditioning and storage of this year's huge corn crop, according to L. F. Stice, Extension Economist in Grain Marketing from the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service.

Stice, speaking at a grain marketing and outlook meeting for Morgan and Scott County farmers and the grain trade at Winchester Thursday night, pointed out that the 1,118 million bushel 1967 Illinois corn crop is one-third larger than last year's 835 million bushel crop and one-fifth more than the previous record 919 million bushel 1965 crop. The job of putting away this year's crop without having heavy losses and distressed prices is further complicated by the fact that the crop is later than normal, follows record 1967 wheat and soybean harvests, and is comes before farmers and the grain trade have fully geared up to handle field shelled corn.

Last fall the grain trade, including county grain dealers, processors and exporters took heavy losses from spoilage in trying to store and ship high moisture corn. This year they will be reluctant to accept more wet corn from farmers than can be handled safely. And although many grain firms have increased their drying and storage capacity, few are prepared to condition and store a crop of this size.

Market Reflects Pressure

Stice pointed out that in several ways market prices for corn and charges for conditioning and storage are already reflecting heavy pressure on marketing facilities. For example, bids for No. 2 corn delivered to elevators in January are 6 to 12 cents a bushel higher than for harvest delivery. In effect, this is a payment for storage and conditioning rather than a forecast of higher corn prices. The urgent demand for storage space is also reflected in a 5 to 6 cents wider difference than a year ago between the price of No. 2 corn and the price of Chicago futures.

Corn moisture discounts also reflect higher market charges for conditioning corn than in 1966. That is, with the same discount scale, the returns for drying $1.00 corn are greater than for drying $1.30 corn. For example 23.5 percent moisture corn is discounted 24 cents a bushel on the 1½ cent scale; that is 1½ cents for each ½ percent of moisture over 15.5 percent. As this corn is dried to 15.5 percent, it will shrink at least 10 percent. At $1.30 cents a bushel the market value of this shrink is 13 cents a bushel and at $1.00 a bushel it is 10 cents. Since the market's payment for drying this corn is the difference between the discount of 24 cents and the value of the shrink, the returns for drying $1.00 corn is 14 cents a bushel (24.0 - 10.0) compared with 11 cents for $1.30 corn only.

At this week's bids of about $1.00 for No. 2 corn, harvest delivery on the 1½ discount scale and $1.26½ for Chicago July futures, the market is bidding someone 30 to 35 cents a bushel for conditioning and storing corn until next July.

To assure these returns the storer of the corn must sell an equal quantity of Chicago July futures at the $1.26 level and buy the contract back before it expires in July, 1968.

In appraising price prospects for 1967 corn and soybeans, Stice pointed out that the surplus from this year's crop would anchor market prices around USDA loan rates of $1.07 for corn and $2.50 for soybeans. Current prices are already at these levels with storage charges deducted. As harvest gets under way prices are likely to work still lower, and corn prices may become severely depressed if farm marketings are heavy. Some price recovery can be expected after crops find a home but whether prices go enough above current levels of $1.00 for corn and $2.50 for soybeans to pay storage costs is debatable. The break even market-loan redemption price next spring will be about $1.12 for corn and $2.65 for soybeans.

600 Million Over Record
The U.S. corn crop of 4.7 billion bushels, which is 600 million bushel over last year's record crop, will exceed our expanding market demand by at least 400 million bushels. Thus the nation's October 1, 1968 carryover stocks of corn are likely to be 1200 or 1300 million bushels. These estimates allow for increases over the past season in livestock feed uses of corn in the U.S. and in exports.

The 1967 U.S. soybean crop of a billion bushel is about 70 million bushel larger than the 1966 production of 932 million bushels. From that crop we added 65 million to our carry over stocks this September 1, even though market use went from 840 million bushels for 1966-67 to 867 million bushels in 1966-67. Market use of soybeans in the current marketing year is expected to make further gains, possibly up to 950 to 975 million bushels. Even then our carryover stock of soybeans on September 1, 1968 is expected to be 125 to 150 million bushels.

Depressing Factor
In commenting on wheat, Stice cited the very large crop of soft red winter wheat — 291 million bushels and almost

Farm Bureau Committee Looks Ahead

Farm Bureau marketing committees will work closely with farmers and the grain trade during the harvest weeks, says Clyde York, chairman of the Morgan county committee.

"We will meet often and try to help hold our troubles down to a minimum. We have also accepted the recommendations made at the Sept. 8 emergency meeting held by the Illinois Agricultural association:

1. Work with the University of Illinois Agricultural Extension Service to inform farmers of the magnitude of the harvest-time problem, the need to store or keep grain off the market at harvest time, the problems and costs involved in handling high-moisture corn, the need for proper care in harvesting and handling corn and soybeans to preserve quality and reduce discounts, and to present information on emergency storage programs.

2. Meet with elevator managers and grain buyers to discuss how Farm Bureau and the grain trade can work together to minimize the problem in the county. These discussions will involve getting information to farmers on moisture discounts and storage and drying charges; determining if storage and handling capacity can be made available in some areas in case facilities in other areas get overloaded with grain; encouraging the prompt loading and dispatching of rail cars and other transportation equipment; and investigating other methods of speeding the flow of grain.

3. Marketing committees also will give consideration to keeping up-to-date files on elevators' discount schedules and storage charges and the availability of storage space and charges for such space.

4. County marketing committees also will work with the IAA marketing department and local elevators in considering a postcard survey of help determine the amount of grain that farmers intend to market during a 60-90 day harvest period.

4-H MEMBERS GET ACHIEVEMENT PINS

These were: Linda Cowan, Mandy Slavens, Jani Foster, Kathy Lewis, Debbie Thomas, Ellen Fanning, Mary Kay Sharrow, and Mary Ann Slater.

New officers were also elected: Kathy Lewis, president; Mary Ann Slater, vice-president; Ellen Fanning, secretary and Mandy Slavens, treasurer.

Mrs. Sid Welles will assist the treasurer with the project to continue the Savings Plan. The sewing group toured a store and chose patterns and materials for their projects. Mrs. David Allison, Mrs. Sid Welles, and Mrs. Victor Wydra accompanied them.

The cooking group planned their project assisted by Mrs. Ruth Massey and Mrs. Roy Doll.

one-third larger than normal — as a depressing force on market prices. The main hope for price recovery and a possibility is that our government can move this wheat to foreign markets under the FOOD FOR PEACE program. The nation's 1967 production of all wheat is estimated to be an all time record of 1.6 billion bushels and prospective market use at 1.5 billion.

"In retrospect, it is now obvious that a year ago many people, including government officials and some students in agriculture, greatly over-estimated the world's market demand for U.S. grains and under-estimated the productivity ability of U.S. farmers," Stice concluded.

BRIMFUL and running over

By Jim Brim

It is amazing when you realize the number of people who put things off — just can't get around to it.

You know, I'm that way about some things too.

One thing that never ceases to astonish me is the number of people who do not get their equipment ready for harvest, who have not gotten their storage facilities ready (or even gotten the new bin erected) before harvest time is upon them.

We have been looking forward to harvest since planting time, but many still won't make any preparations until the beans and corn are ready.

The last few years we have had a shortage of storage space and difficulty in moving our corn crop. This has been increasing because of our big switch to field shelling of one type or another and this year we will field shell more than ever before.

For this reason give some thought to the possibilities and make some arrangements for drying or handling your corn before you harvest.

Make repairs on your equipment, make adjustments now.

Now you should . . .

. . . treat hay fever.

. . . get ready for the World Series.

. . . watch football.

. . . pour concrete feeding floors, walks, driveways, etc.

. . . get ready to sow wheat.

. . . check results of weed control practices.

. . . learn from experience.

Make the most of fresh fruits and vegetables because frost will soon be with us and we will not be able to enjoy many of them until another season.

But these losses have compensations, for we are close to one of the nicer apple producing sections of our country and they are just coming into their own. What greater joy is there in the fall than that of talking a few apples and walk in the woods looking for hickory and hazelnuts while munching one of our Illinois apples whose flavor cannot be beaten?

Although a dollar is only six inches long it is used to measure many things.

Set Crafts Day For Homemakers

The September Crafts Day of the Morgan-Scott Homemakers Extension association will be Tuesday, Sept. 26 at the Cooperative Extension Center, East Morton Road, Jacksonville. Mrs. John Reynolds, Crafts Day Chairman, has announced that there will be an afternoon meeting starting at 1:30 p.m. and an evening meeting starting at 7:00 p.m.

Those attending are asked to bring all kinds of craft projects for display and be prepared to explain their construction.

Agriculture College Plans 'Guest Day'

Approximately 1,000 Illinois high school and junior college students along with their parents and advisers will learn more about the University of Illinois College of Agriculture and career opportunities in agriculture Sept. 30.

In addition, these persons attending the annual student Guest Day sponsored by the U. of I. agricultural college will receive the latest information on costs, admissions, scholarships and housing.

A box lunch will be served in the Stock Pavilion at noon. Ticket costs $1 as does the football game ticket. Game time at Memorial Stadium is 1:30 p.m.

The Guest Day program begins at 8:15 a.m. with registration in the University Auditorium. The University of Pittsburgh vs. the Fighting Illini football game rounds out the active day for the U. of I. campus visitors.

Orville G. Bentley, U. of I. agricultural dean, will welcome guests at 9 a.m. followed by a student panel depicting university life.

Farmers, Grain Trade Face Billion Bushel Illinois Corn Crop

"We are on the brink of the largest corn harvest in history," Ralph Klopfenstein, Continental Grain Co., Chicago, told nearly 350 persons attending the University of Illinois Corn Quality conference last week.

Leading the program of corn industry speakers, he said there would be a corn harvest this fall totaling 4.6 billion bushels. Of that, more than one billion would come from Illinois farms alone.

Klopfenstein was a panel member discussing "Where We Are in Corn Harvesting, Conditioning and Storage." The corn conference, attended by persons representing all segments of the corn industry — from farmer to food processor — was co-sponsored by the Chicago Board of Trade and the U. of I. Cooperative Extension Service.

Field-shelling has clearly become one of the dominant corn harvesting methods in the Corn Belt, Klopfenstein said, and soon it will be the dominant way.

Storage Troubles Mount
Increased production and the swing to field-shelling has created a demand for commercial custom grain drying and storage which has developed into an entire new industry at the country elevator level, he told the industry representatives.

James Gill, Wyoming, Ill., farmer and other panel member, predicted family-sized grain farms will someday average 1,000 acres or more with corn yields consistently topping the 200-bushel mark.

"If landlords prefer not to build storage facilities on farms, corn producers will have no choice but to store their grain at elevators in town," he said. "The grain trade must be ready to store one-half to three-quarters of the crop."

Owner of 400 acres in Stark County, Gill said the corn industry must consider paying a premium for the high-quality corn produced by these large farms.

Should Pay For Quality
"Farmers just don't have the price incentive to dry corn below 15.5 per cent," he related. "Consequently, farmers, country elevators and terminals lose millions of dollars worth of grain through spoilage."

Klopfenstein pointed out farmers are confused and irritated by the grain trade's variable and inconsistent discount scales

Land buyers also expect, with good reason, that land values will go up. Three big economic forces are at work to raise land values. They are (1) Population is growing while land area is not. (2) Our rising standard of living demands land for many purposes. (3) Inflation raises the money value of land.

It is said that farm land is too high because the average rate of return is less than the interest rate on farm mortgages. "Farm land won't pay for itself at these prices."

Why should farm land pay for itself when the buyer borrows to buy it? We don't expect to be able to borrow money to buy a bond and have the interest pay for the bond.

FROM THE CORN CRIB
He was a thoughtful husband, but when it came to gifts he could never please his wife. The gift was always too large or too small, too gaudy or too dull. So instead of trying to get something for her birthday he decided to give her a $50 gift certificate.

When he returned home that evening, he asked her what she got with the gift certificate. "Nothing yet," she replied. "I just went downtown and exchanged it for two $25 certificates."

DEEDS EFFECTIVE AT DEATH

URBANA — Sometimes a person desiring to avoid probate and the costs and delays associated with it at times, will execute a warranty deed during his life with the intent to transfer his real estate as of the time of death.

The deed or deeds might be placed in a safety deposit box or kept at home with a notation "to be given to my son John (or daughter Mary) at my death."

Occasionally, a deed is given to a friend with directions that he give it to John or Mary at the owner's death, unless the deed is taken back before then.

Often No Protest

Many times, the property will go to the person named in the deed simply because no one contests the deed's validity. Under property law, however, a deed is not effective to transfer real estate unless the deed is "delivered" to the grantee or someone acting for him.

It must be put beyond the grantor's control. If he has the right to take it back, there has been no delivery. When a deed of this kind is challenged, the court often holds it invalid.

When a deed effective at death is held invalid, property then passes to heirs according to descent laws — or if the deceased has a will, then according to the will's terms. In either case, it is probable that the property will not go to the persons named in the deed.

It is possible, however, to make a valid transfer of real estate effective at death by using a lifetime deed. One way is to deliver to the grantee a deed which conveys the remainder

Archer Ups Philly Lead To 4 Strokes

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Cowboy George Archer came on like a herd of steers Saturday with three birdies on the last five holes for a three-round, 12-under-par total of 204 and a four-stroke lead in the $110,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

The 6-foot-6 Archer fired a two-under-par 36-34-70 over the 6,708-yard Whitmarsh Valley Country Club course, recovering from a case of putting jitters on the front nine which threatened to carry him back to the field.

Dan Sikes, a 36-year-old veteran of six years on the pro tour, surged past Billy Casper into second place on the wings of a 35-34-69 and a 54-hole total of eight-under-par 208.

The poker-faced Casper scored a third round 36-37-73 and slipped into a two-way tie for fourth, one stroke behind Mason Rudolph, who was at 209.

The 33-year-old Rudolph burned up the course with a 34-33-67, including successive birdie putts on the first two holes of 60 feet each.

The dark-haired Archer, who looks more like a basketball player than a golfer, started the day with a 10-under-par, 36-hole total of 134, three strokes ahead of Casper and six up on Australian Bruce Devlin.

The nine-year pro from Tennessee also carded a birdie with a 50-foot ship shot.

Casper, who wound up tied for fourth with Bob Charles at 210, started out with 10 straight pars and got his only bird on the 11th, where he sank a 40-foot, seven-iron chip. He bogied the 12th and 16th. Charles shot 36-35-71.

Other scores included a 35-36-71 by Jim Colbert, who tied with Dave Marr, 35-37-72, at 212. First round leader Bruce Devlin blew to a 78 and out of contention. Arnold Palmer, who said, "It takes guts to score and I didn't," carded a 37-35-72, for a 54-hole total 214.

The Giants tied the game 4-4 in the eighth on a three-run homer by Mays, his 19th of the season and 561st of his career. Mays' blast followed a bases-loaded sacrifice fly by Willie McCovey.

Bonavena Decisions Mildenberger In 12

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Brute strong Oscar Bonavena of Argentina floored New Germany's Karl Mildenberger four times and hammered out a unanimous 12-round decision Saturday to go into the semifinals of the World Boxing Association tournament to pick a new heavyweight boxing champion.

Referee Harry Krause of Las Vegas, Nev., declared Bonavena the winner by the imposing margin of 56-47. Dr. Jose Stern of Argentina, one of the judges, had it 58-53 and Rudolph Drust of Germany 57-53.

The stocky pride of the Pam-pas sent the southpaw Mildenberger to the canvas with a vicious left to the head in the first round, and the German never fully recovered although he staged a rally in the later rounds.

The Argentinian belted the German into the lower strand of the ropes with a left in the fourth round, knocked him to his knees with a chopping right flush to the face in the seventh and sent Mildenberger flopping on the seat of his pants in the 10th.

The upset victory—Mildenberger, as No. 1 in the WBA ratings was a 4-1 choice—put the rugged Bonavena into the semifinals of the WBA elimination with Thad Spencer of San Francisco and Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky., who won bouts at Houston, and the winner of the Oct. 28 bout in Los Angeles between Floyd Patterson, former two-time champion of New York, and Jerry Quarry of Los Angeles.

The result was a disappointment to a pro-Mildenberger, SRO crowd of 18,000 which packed Frankfurt's outdoor cycling stadium for the fight.

Bonavena, a pound heavier at 204 pounds but shorter at 5-11 than the tall German, 203 pounds and 6-1, dominated the bout except for the fifth and sixth rounds.

The Argentinian lost the fifth round on a low punch and lost the sixth when Mildenberger unleashed a swirling attack that sent Bonavena into temporary retreat.

Mildenberger staged another rally in the ninth, rocking Bonavena with a series of right jabs and jolting him with a straight left, but after being dropped in the 10th he was on the defensive all the way. The Argentinian finished on a strong note.

Both fighters were guaranteed $50,000 with the winner to enter the semifinals with a guarantee of $75,000.

NFL Opens 48th Campaign Today

By MIKE RECHT Associated Press Sports Writer

The National Football League begins its 48th season Sunday with new divisions, three new coaches and a new team, but the same old Green Bay Packers favored to finish on top in December.

The world champion Packers, undefeated in six pre-season games, open defense of their title and seek another shot at the Super Bowl when they host the improved Detroit Lions and their new coach, Joe Schmidt.

New Orleans makes its debut along with Coach Tom Fears against the tough Los Angeles Rams, the only team to beat the Saints in six exhibition games.

Bud Grant, after 10 years in Canadian football, begins his NFL coaching career at Minnesota when the Vikings open their season in St. Louis.

In other games, Dallas is at Cleveland, Atlanta at Baltimore, Chicago at Pittsburgh, Washington at Philadelphia and New York at St. Louis in a full slate of games.

AFL In 3rd Week
The American League's third week features three games Sunday with Houston at Buffalo, Boston at Oakland and Denver at Miami.

Under the new NFL setup of four four-team divisions, the games at Green Bay, Baltimore, Philadelphia and St. Louis take on the added importance of matching teams in the same division.

Older Days In Virginia

By GRACE T. HOLMES
In the fall of the year, the housewife spent many hours peeling and slicing apples and seeding peaches, getting them ready for drying. The apples had to be cut in certain sized slices; the peaches were halved.

On a nearby low shed a portion of the roof was covered with paper and then with cloth. The slices were spread on the cloth and when all was just so the whole was covered with mosquito bar to keep off flies and other insects.

Throughout the day the housewife watched for rain clouds and the slices had to be brought in before the dew fell and this procedure was followed day after day until they were dried.

The peach halves were not so tedious, but the same procedure was followed. Fried dried apple pies were considered a luxury.

Do you remember—
The Cumberland Presbyterian church had the distinction of having the first pipe organ in the city. It was too small for an out-of-town church that had used it and the Cumberland church purchased it. Mr. Luther Paschal was instructed in the operation of the organ and for a number of years served as organist. Occasionally there was a recital to which the public was invited.

Do you remember—
When instead of applauding we gave the "Chautauqua Salute" which was done by waving your handkerchief.

When you started on a picnic, one of your mother's parting admonitions was "Don't go near any water."

Do you know that in the 1850s if an aching tooth had a cavity, the end of a knitting needle was well heated and inserted in the cavity to kill the nerve.

This remedy doubtless would still work if anybody wants to try it.

In 1890, boys wore kilt dresses until about old enough to go to school. The father of one boy came home with two nice wool jersey suits, one navy and one brown. For a time the boy refused to try them on and when he did was so ashamed he lost no time removing them. Times have changed and so have boys.

Do you remember—
The box social where the girls filled a large shoe box with food, attractively decorated the outside of the box so when auctioned off it would bring a better price. Her name was included inside the box and the young man who purchased it was her partner for supper. Some over-anxious young man sometimes learned how his girlfriend's box was decorated and when he bid for it he was sure she would be his supper partner. Money was used for school and church purposes.

Do you remember—
A day enjoyed by most living in a neighborhood, when a neighbor butchered. Together they had a big dinner at noon. Later the sausage was made, also head cheese, souse, liverwurst, etc. The lard was rendered and the cracklings in the bottom of the kettle were removed, and were often used to make "crackling corn bread." This was rich and many enjoyed it.

Do you remember—
The man who walked down the street one Sunday morning, carrying a Sunday newspaper, the first that came to town. He was eyed by every passerby and was considered beyond redemption.

We are told that the first through train from Bloomington will pass over our road on Monday next, and a new timetable will be adopted. That's good.

SWEET POTATOES — These delicious esculents are making their appearance on our streets, but as yet at such prices, that none but those who have deep pockets can buy. We poor printers must bide our time. Don't some of our subscribers want their potatoes noticed? How are we to judge without a sample? The larger variety of samples, and the more of them, will ensure the best digested consideration. It would not bother us in the least to receive a cartload, though our expectations do not reach above a much smaller measure.

Our Merchants are very busy receiving their fall stocks of goods, which we are told are magnificent. For details see our advertising columns next week. From the Beardstown Central Illinoian:

Business is assuming a shape here now that looks healthy.

The Brewery is getting on its feet — it looks "magnifique."

Why cannot a base ball club be organized here, as in other cities? Let this be looked into!

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

By STELLA

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 17 —
Born today, you are on the surface an uncomplicated person, easy to get to know and easy to understand. Those who take the trouble in the interest of friendship to dig beneath the surface, soon find that you have depths of feeling, complications of motives, and altogether different responses from those they originally associated with you. For you are a person who will let the world see you as it will — developing in your way privately.

Quiet pursuits are more to your taste than those which take a great deal of physical energy. You have no objection to the most difficult mental tasks, but chores which require you to pitch in physically leave you cold. You seem to be emotionally geared to the type of work that would keep you involved in detailed paper work, laboratory work, and the like; knowing this, you should see to it that you get proper training.

In your personal relationships you are generally the "giver" rather than the "taker." Nor does this displease you, for you are much better equipped to give than to take. You do not like being obligated to anyone for anything, and would much rather have paid all your debts in advance through being the first in generosity of self, possessions, etc.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

September, 1867

The cathedral in Frankfurt was burned down recently. The foundation of the church dates from the Roman Empire, though the building was inaugurated in 1239, and has been used for the coronation of the kings and emperors of Germany. Its loss is a misfortune, not only to the town, but also to the numerous tourists in Europe.

It appears from recent accounts that the insurrection in Crete is so far from being suppressed that the women have actually formed a battalion, and that their example is creating quite a furore of enthusiasm.

NFO Hears Plan For Developing 'Grain Bank'

Morgan County NFO met for a dinner at Hamilton's restaurant in Jacksonville Tuesday evening. Edgar Robinson, Jr., president, conducted the business meeting.

Ezra Wenger, grain coordinator of this area, explained the establishment of a grain bank program. He advised members to store their grain at harvest time and to put one-half of their crop in the NFO grain bank where corn cannot be sold for less than $1.50 per bushel, soybeans not less than $3.00 per bushel and wheat for not less than $2.00 per bushel.

"Success in grain programs depends entirely on farmers holding and storing grain at harvest time," he said. "By doing this, NFO farmers build volume sales, and volume sales command not only attention, but premium prices."

"Unfortunately, grain prices are still nominally 'set' in the pit of the Chicago Board of Trade, where speculators and hedgers use a forum of babble, shout and hand signals to name the ever-fluctuating price on farm grain production. This system could evaporate tomorrow if farmers wanted it to. Producers have the production — all they have to do is hold it together for a price."

Grazing Allowed On Idled Acres

Farmers who diverted acreage under the 1967 feed grain diversion programs now may graze this acreage without losing program benefits, Lester E. Martin, chairman, Morgan County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, announces.

Authority was recently granted to ASC State committees to extend to seven months the free grazing period for livestock on lands taken out of production under the annual commodity diversion program. The starting date for such grazing, therefore was Sept. 15, marking the end of the period during which the no-grazing provision was in effect under the diversion programs.

"Extension of the free grazing period," the chairman stated, "will give farmers an additional month each year for grazing livestock on these diverted croplands. It will permit program participants to glean their fields without the expense of erecting fences between lands on which they have grown crops and those they have diverted."

Morgan county farms participating in this year's commodity diversion program number 1098.

CORRY, Pa. (AP) — A floor rug dropped through a hole in the back seat, fell on a hot muffler and set afire a car carrying four Roman Catholic nuns.

"By all means, use it," one urged him.

Find Soybean Oil Adaptable For Nylon 9

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government researchers hold out favorable prospects for using soybean oil as the principal raw material in producing commercial nylon 9, a type used in several manufacturing industries.

Dr. John C. Cowan of Agricultural Research Service reported to the American Chemical Society that soy nylon has properties not now available in domestic nylon 9, that it would cost less than the imported product and that the bean oil is available at stable prices.

Nylon 9 is used in metal coatings, electrical parts, moldings and some textile fibers and films. It absorbs less moisture and resists distortion more than most nylon produced commercially in the United States.

Cowan said studies made at the Northern Utilization Research Laboratory, Peoria, Ill., indicated soy nylon could be produced for less than 80 cents a pound. Imports from Europe now sell from $1.50 to $2.50 a pound.

Rockets Dominate Edge Over Calhoun

By REG ANKROM

The Routt Rockets found revenge Friday night against the Calhoun Warriors, winning easily by a 25-6 score. The Warriors defeated Routt last year 20-13 in the opening game of the season for both teams.

It was a different story this year, however, with four Rocket gridmen finding their way into the end zone.

Veteran fullback Paul Lambert pushed his way to the end zone from the three-yard line in the second quarter to give Routt their first score. The conversion by Charlie Kaufman added to the credit.

Quarterback Loyd Krumlauf, next went on the Routt scoreboard with a dash from the seven-yard line, to give Routt a 13-0 edge at the half.

In the third quarter, right halfback Kaufmann found a hole in the Warrior defense to charge into the end zone from the Calhoun four.

Calhoun, at this point, braced themselves for an attempt to get on the board. Quarterback Rick Angel sent fullback Jerry Crader downfield and connected for a scoring 30-yard pass play.

The Calhoun defense tightened somewhat causing Routt to run a number of plays before they could get into scoring position. The scoring play came on a pass from Krumlauf to left end John Costa, who charged past the safety and into the end zone, bringing the score to 25-6.

It was the first game of the season for both teams and both were slack in the first few minutes of play. Routt showed good recovery midway through the first quarter and from that point on outclassed the Calhoun Warriors in offense and defense.

Calhoun managed a tough defense but was overpowered by Rocket offense. Routt's ground gainers, despite a disadvantage in weight, drove for 227 yards. Calhoun faced with a tight Routt defense, was able to manage only 164 yards on the ground.

Routt's ability to control the ball made the difference in the game. In the third quarter, Calhoun was able to run off only eight plays, including two punts. Routt kept the ball in that quarter for nine of the 12 minutes.

Routt's 190-pound Lambert played the lead role in rushing with 125 yards. Calhoun's leading ground-gainer, Dennis Angel, managed only 29 yards.

Both teams went into the penalty column. Clipping and defensive pass interference set Routt back 30 yards in the game. The Rockets also were called with four five-yard setbacks. Calhoun managed to keep their penalty record slightly clearer with a total of 35 yards lost to penalties.

As the game neared the gun, Calhoun went to the air. Warrior quarterback Angel tossed five incomplete passes. His brother, halfback Denny Angel, received lateral passes three times and attempted to pass them with no success.

The Cardinals, who have been in first place since June 18, are making the 1967 race the biggest National League runaway since 1955 when the then Brooklyn Dodgers clinched the title Sept. 8. The Dodgers did that by winning 22 of their first 24 games.

Manager Gene Mauch of the Philadelphia Phillies, whose team lost 10 straight games and the pennant to St. Louis at the tailend of the 1964 season, said this week after his club dropped two of three games to the front-runners, "They've (the Cards) kept playing good ball, and all they have to do is keep their cool."

After the three-game series in Cincinnati, St. Louis moves to Philadelphia for three games. Then the Redbirds return to Busch Stadium for a four-game stand with Atlanta Sept. 21-24. St. Louis fans are expecting the Cards to have the flag clinched about the time they return home to open the Atlanta series.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Willie McCovey slammed two home runs and Willie Mays slugged another, powering the San Francisco Giants to a 6-3 triumph over Pittsburgh Friday night.

McCovey's second homer and 27th of the season followed a walk to Mays and put the Giants in front 4-3 in the sixth inning. McCovey was credited with an inside-the-park homer in the fourth when Willie Stargell missed a shoestring catch of his bloop to left and the ball rolled to the wall.

Maury Wills singled and Matty Alou tripled for the first Pittsburgh run in the third. The Pirates added two more in the fifth on singles by Wills, Alou and Roberto Clemente, a double play and a wild pitch.

Mantle Paces N.Y. Win 5-1

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle rapped three singles and drove in two runs, leading the New York Yankees past Cleveland 5-1 Friday night.

Mantle singled home Horace Clarke with the first run in the first inning, then capped a tie-breaking, three-run rally in the fifth with another single that drove in Clarke.

The Indians ended a 29-inning scoreless string in the third when pitcher John O'Donoghue walked, went to second on a ground out and scored on a single by Leon Wagner.

Orioles Snap Sox Pennant Drive 6-2

BOSTON (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles, helped by Frank Robinson's 29th homer, snapped Boston's four-game winning streak and interrupted the Red Sox' drive for the American League pennant with a 6-2 victory Friday night.

The defeat dropped the Red Sox out of a first place tie with Minnesota, pending the outcome of the Twins' night game with the Chicago White Sox.

The defeat, coupled with Detroit's victory over Washington and Minnesota's loss to Chicago, threw the Red Sox into a three-way tie for first place with the Twins and Tigers.

The Orioles, who had won only two of their 11 previous games, capitalized on the wildness of Boston starter Dave Morehead and some shoddy Red Sox fielding to nail down the decision early.

Frank Robinson, who lost a home run bid because of a stiff headwind in the first inning, made sure in the seventh with a rifle-like shot into the screen off Darrell Brandon, the third of four Boston pitchers.

Tom Phoebus checked the Red Sox on two hits until Reggie Smith cracked his 15th homer in the fifth. Boston added another run on a double by Carl Yastrzemski and a single by Ken Harrelson in the sixth.

Jenkins Cops 18th As Cubs Win, 7-1

ATLANTA (AP) — Ferguson Jenkins broke a club strikeout record that had stood for more than half a century Friday night as he pitched the Chicago Cubs to a 7-1 victory over Atlanta.

Jenkins stopped the Braves on five outs in breezing to his 18th victory in 30 decisions. His two strikeouts gave him 206 for the season, topping by one the Cubs' mark set by Orval Overall in 1909.

The Cubs took a 3-0 lead in the first inning against Atlanta starter Clay Carroll, with successive doubles by Ron Santo and Ernie Banks driving in all three runs. Banks delivered another run with a single after Santo tripled in the Cubs' three-run eighth.

Eisenhower Ground Game Buries Jacks

DECATUR — A strong Decatur Eisenhower rushing offensive, led by Perry Johnson's three ground scores, rolled to a 19-0 opening game victory over a sluggish Jacksonville squad, in a Capital Conference engagement here Friday evening.

Decatur ground out 233 yards on the ground and took advantage of a pair of JHS fumbles and a blocked punt to set up their touchdowns.

After a scoreless opening period Eisenhower scored the only TD it needed when Johnson, a speedy 195-pound junior halfback, scooted 18 yards around right end almost untouched for a score with only 1:43 to play in the half.

Penalties, a Crimson bugaboo all evening, killed a Crimson threat at the start of the second half and a blocked punt set up the second Eisenhower TD.

Eisenhower blocked a Steve Gaudio punt and recovered on the Jacksonville 28 early in the third period and Johnson again broke loose for a 28-yard scamper, again around right end. Steve Bellinger booted the point after for a 13-0 difference with eight minutes left in the quarter.

Jim Bruner fumbled on the next Crimson play from scrimmage, giving Eisenhower the pigskin on the JHS 19. After a penalty nullified a TD carry by speedy quarterback Bill Madlock, Madlock legged the ball eight and 13 yards down to the two from where Johnson busted over and a 19-0 score with 6:20 to play in the stanza.

Jacksonville showed spurts of offensive power throughout the game, but was hurt by 70 yards in costly penalties, two fumbles, the punt block and a pass interception.

Benny Richardson ran for 48 yards before being injured early in the third quarter and Bruner carried for 38 yards. Duane Mounts was six for 18 in the passing department, hitting four of his first six, and John Mathews added two of three as Jacksonville rolled up 112 yards through the air.

Neither team threatened from its most serious threat of the half, a drive that was again thwarted by a penalty. Starting on his own 20, Richardson got ten on two straight carries to the 30 before Mathews hit junior end Terry Ormiston for 27 to the Eisenhower 35. A clipping penalty on the next play, two incomplete aeriels and a loss on the next pass attempt killed the scoring shot.

Detroit Rallies For 5-4 Triumph

DETROIT (AP) — Willie Horton's two-out, run-scoring single in the ninth inning gave Detroit a 5-4 come-from-behind victory over Washington Friday night and shot the Tigers into a three-way tie for the American League lead.

The victory brought the Tigers' record to 84-64, the same as Minnesota and Boston, which both lost.

The Tigers also appeared headed for a loss until Bill Freehan socked a two-out, three-run homer in the eighth inning.

Jim Northrup singled, Darold Knowles walked Norm Cash and Freehan slammed a home run into the left field seats, tying the game. The homer was Freehan's 20th of the season.

With one out Dick McAuliffe singled, then was sacrificed to second. Casey Cox walked Al

Kaline intentionally, bringing Horton to the plate.

Archer Ups Philly Lead To 4 Strokes

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Cowboy George Archer came on like a herd of steers Saturday with three birdies on the last five holes for a three-round, 12-under-par total of 204 and a four-stroke lead in the $110,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

The 6-foot-6 Archer fired a two-under-par 36-34-70 over the 6,708-yard Whitmarsh Valley Country Club course, recovering from a case of putting jitters on the front nine which threatened to carry him back to the field.

Dan Sikes, a 36-year-old veteran of six years on the pro tour, surged past Billy Casper into second place on the wings of a 35-34-69 and a 54-hole total of eight-under-par 208.

The poker-faced Casper scored a third round 36-37-73 and slipped into a two-way tie for fourth, one stroke behind Mason Rudolph, who was at 209.

The 33-year-old Rudolph burned up the course with a 34-33-67, including successive birdie putts on the first two holes of 60 feet each.

The dark-haired Archer, who looks more like a basketball player than a golfer, started the day with a 10-under-par, 36-hole total of 134, three strokes ahead of Casper and six up on Australian Bruce Devlin.

The nine-year pro from Tennessee also carded a birdie with a 50-foot ship shot.

Casper, who wound up tied for fourth with Bob Charles at 210, started out with 10 straight pars and got his only bird on the 11th, where he sank a 40-foot, seven-iron chip. He bogied the 12th and 16th. Charles shot 36-35-71.

Other scores included a 35-36-71 by Jim Colbert, who tied with Dave Marr, 35-37-72, at 212. First round leader Bruce Devlin blew to a 78 and out of contention. Arnold Palmer, who said, "It takes guts to score and I didn't," carded a 37-35-72, for a 54-hole total 214.

Bonavena Decisions Mildenerger In 12

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Brute strong Oscar Bonavena of Argentina floored West Germany's Karl Mildenerger four times and hammered out a unanimous 12-round decision Saturday to go into the semifinals of the World Boxing Association tournament to pick a new heavyweight boxing champion.

Referee Harry Krause of Las Vegas, Nev., declared Bonavena the winner by the imposing margin of 56-47. Dr. Jose Stern of Argentina, one of the judges, had it 58-53 and Rudolph Dring of Germany 57-53.

The stocky pride of the Pam-pas sent the southpaw Mildenerger to the canvas with a vicious left to the head in the first round, and the German never fully recovered although he staged a rally in the later rounds.

The Argentinian belted the German into the lower strand of the ropes with a left in the fourth round, knocked him to his knees with a chopping right flush to the face in the seventh and sent Mildenerger flopping on the seat of his pants in the 10th.

The upset victory—Mildenerger, as No. 1 in the WBA ratings was a 4-1 choice—put the rugged Bonavena into the semifinals of the WBA elimination with Thad Spencer of San Francisco and Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky., who won bouts at Houston, and the winner of the Oct. 28 bout in Los Angeles between Floyd Patterson, former two-time champion of New York, and Jerry Quarry of Los Angeles.

The result was a disappointment to a pro-Mildenerger, SRO crowd of 16,000 which packed Frankfurt's outdoor cycling stadium for the fight.

Bonavena, a pound heavier at 204 pounds but shorter at 5-11 than the tall German, 203 pounds and 6-1, dominated the bout except for the fifth and sixth rounds.

The Argentinian lost the fifth round on a low punch and lost the sixth when Mildenerger unleashed a swirling attack that sent Bonavena into temporary retreat.

Mildenerger staged another rally in the ninth, rocking Bonavena with a series of right jabs and jolting him with a straight left, but after being dropped in the 10th he was on the defensive all the way. The Argentinian finished on a strong note.

Both fighters were guaranteed $50,000 with the winner to enter the semifinal with a guarantee of $75,000.

The elimination was organized to pick a successor to Cassius Clay, or Muhammad Ali, whose crown was stripped from him by the WBA when he refused to respond to a draft by the U.S. military services.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dick Groat of the San Francisco Giants, who vaulted from Duke University to Major League stardom, announced Saturday he was retiring from baseball at the end of the season.

Groat, who never played a game in the minor leagues, was relegated to part-time duty this year with the Philadelphia Phillies and Giants after 13 years as a regular with Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Philadelphia.

He has a .163 batting average with 15 hits in 92 at-bats this season, compared to a lifetime mark of .280 through 1966.

In 1960, Groat won the National League's Most Valuable Player award and led the Pirates to the pennant and a World Series victory over the Yankees. He batted .325, best of his career.

Groat, an All-America basketball player at Duke, received a bonus estimated at $25,000 to sign with the Pirates in 1952.

A native of Swissvale, Pa., a Pittsburgh suburb, Groat is considered one of the leading candidates to manage the Pirates next season.

Steve Brewster with a tie for third in the high jump. The IBSS tandem team of Bill Zimmerman and Al Dudley came in fourth.

The Warriors will entertain Nebraska and Kentucky in a triangular meet next Saturday at 9:30 a.m. IBSS has 25 out for the track team this season, the largest number in several years.

NFL Opens 48th Campaign Today

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer

The National Football League begins its 48th season Sunday with new divisions, three new coaches and a new team, but the same old Green Bay Packers favored to finish on top in December.

The world champion Packers, undefeated in six pre-season games, open defense of their title and seek another shot at the Super Bowl when they host the improved Detroit Lions and their new coach, Joe Schmidt.

New Orleans makes its debut along with Coach Tom Fears against the tough Los Angeles Rams, the only team to beat the Saints in six exhibition games.

Bud Grant, after 10 years in Canadian football, begins his NFL coaching career at Minnesota when the Vikings enter into San Francisco.

In other games, Dallas is at Cleveland, Atlanta at Baltimore, Chicago at Pittsburgh, Washington at Philadelphia and New York at St. Louis in a full slate of games.

AFL in 3rd Week

The American League's third week features three games Sunday with Houston at Buffalo, Boston at Oakland and Denver at Miami.

Under the new NFL setup of four four-team divisions, the games at Green Bay, Baltimore, Philadelphia and St. Louis take on the added importance of matching teams in the same division.

The veteran Packers rule a strong favorite against the Lions with their tight-fisted defense, Bart Starr at quarterback and Donny Anderson, Jim Garbowski, Elijah Pitts and Ben Wilson alternating in the backfield where Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung starred for nine seasons.

Karl Sweetan is likely to call the signals for the Lions, who will be missing injured rookie running back Nick Eddy, but will have freshman Mel Farr carrying the ball in the Central Division game. Gone via trade is defensive tackle Roger Brown.

John Unitas, bothered by injuries in recent years, gives Baltimore an edge over the Falcons after hitting 67 per cent of his passes as the Colts won four of five pre-season contests.

The Falcons will start Randy Johnson at quarterback with Tommy McDonald, acquired from the Rams, a new receiver in this Coastal Division meeting. Sonny Jurgensen of Washington and Norm Sneed of Philadelphia are expected to hook up in a passing duel between contenders, along with Dallas, in the Capitol Division.

St. Louis, a pick in the Century Division until quarterback Charley Johnson was called into the Army, pins its hopes on rookie Jim Hart against the Giants.

The Giants, last in the NFL last season at 1-12-1, look for improvement with Fran Tarkenton at quarterback and running back Tucker Frederickson returning after missing 1966 with a knee injury.

Los Angeles, a favorite in the Coastal Division, is favored to duplicate its 16-7 exhibition victory over the Saints, who break in with Bill Kilmer at quarterback and Jim Taylor in the backfield.

Contenders Matched

The Dallas-Cleveland game matches contenders in last season's Eastern Division with Don Meredith still throwing to Bob Hayes for the Cowboys and Frank Ryan throwing and Leroy Kelly running for the Browns. Both clubs slumped in the exhibition season.

Grant has a choice of Ron VanderKelen, Bob Berry or Joe Kapp at quarterback to replace the traded Tarkenton against the optimistic 49ers and John Brodie, Ken Willard, Dave Parks and Co.

Gale Sayers and either young Larry Rakestraw or veteran Rudy Bukich carry Chicago's hopes against the Steelers, who are counting on a good year from quarterback Bill Nelsen.

In the AFL, Buffalo, coming off a fourth quarter 20-17 victory over the New York Jets last Sunday, are expected to start with Jack Kemp this week against the surprising Oilers, who battled Kansas City before losing 25-20.

Boston still seeks its first victory after two defeats by bringing alive its running game, led by Jim Nance. The Raiders come off a 51-0 balloon-breaker over Denver.

The Broncos will try to put more air into the balloon against the Dolphins, despite the loss of Cookie Gilchrist to injury. Steve Tensi of Denver and John St

Routt Takes 25-6 Win; JHS Blanked 19-0

By REG ANKROM

The Routt Rockets found revenge Friday night against the Calhoun Warriors, winning easily by a 25-6 score. The Warriors defeated Routt last year 20-13 in the opening game of the season for both teams.

It was a different story this year, however, with four Rocket gridmen finding their way into the end zone.

Veteran fullback Paul Lambert pushed his way to the end zone from the three-yard line in the second quarter to give Routt their first score. The conversion by Charlie Kaufman added to the credit.

Quarterback Loyd Krumlauf next went on the Routt scoreboard with a dash from the seven-yard line, to give Routt a 13-0 edge at the half.

In the third quarter, right halfback Kaufmann found a hole in the Warrior defense to charge into the end zone from the Calhoun four.

Calhoun, at this point, braced themselves for an attempt to get on the board. Quarterback Rick Angel sent fullback Jerry Crader downfield and connected for a scoring 30-yard pass play.

The Calhoun defense tightened somewhat causing Routt to run a number of plays before they could get into scoring position. The scoring play came on a pass from Krumlauf to left end John Costa, who charged past the safety and into the end zone, bringing the score to 25-6.

It was the first game of the season for both teams and both were slack in the first few minutes of play. Routt showed good recovery midway through the first quarter and from that point on outclassed the Calhoun Warriors in offense and defense.

Calhoun managed a tough defense but was overpowered by Rocket offense. Routt's ground gainers, despite a disadvantage in weight, drove for 227 yards. Calhoun faced with a tight Routt defense, was able to manage only 164 yards on the ground.

Routt's ability to control the ball made the difference in the game. In the third quarter, Calhoun was able to run off only eight plays, including two punts. Routt kept the ball in that quarter for nine of the 12 minutes.

Routt's 190-pound Lambert played the lead role in rushing with 125 yards. Calhoun's leading ground-gainer, Dennis Angel, managed only 29 yards.

Both teams went into the penalty column. Clipping and defensive pass interference set Routt back 30 yards in the game. The Rockets also were called with four five-yard setbacks. Calhoun managed to keep their penalty record slightly clearer with a total of 35 yards lost to penalties.

As the game neared the gun, Calhoun went to the air. Warrior quarterback Angel tossed five incomplete passes. His brother, halfback Denny Angel, received lateral passes three times and attempted to pass them with no success.

McCovey, Mays Power Giants To 6-3 Triumph

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Willie McCovey slammed two home runs and Willie Mays slugged another, powering the San Francisco Giants to a 6-3 triumph over Pittsburgh Friday night.

McCovey's second homer and 27th of the season followed a walk to Mays and put the Giants in front 4-3 in the sixth inning. McCovey was credited with an inside-the-park homer in the fourth when Willie Stargell missed a shoestring catch of his bloop to left and the ball rolled to the wall.

Maury Wills singled and Matty Alou tripled for the first Pittsburgh run in the third. The Pirates added two more in the fifth on singles by Wills, Alou and Roberto Clemente, a double play and a wild pitch.

Mantle Paces N.Y. Win 5-1

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle rapped three singles and drove in two runs, leading the New York Yankees past Cleveland 5-1 Friday night.

Mantle singled home Horace Clarke with the first run in the first inning, then capped a tie-breaking, three-run rally in the fifth with another single that drove in Clarke.

The Indians ended a 20-inning scoreless string in the third when pitcher John O'Donoghue walked, went to second on a ground out and scored on a single by Leon Wagner.

Orioles Snap Sox Pennant Drive 6-2

BOSTON (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles, helped by Frank Robinson's 29th homer, snapped Boston's four-game winning streak and interrupted the Red Sox' drive for the American League pennant with a 6-2 victory Friday night.

The defeat dropped the Red Sox out of a first place tie with Minnesota, pending the outcome of the Twins' night game with the Chicago White Sox.

The defeat, coupled with Detroit's victory over Washington and Minnesota's loss to Chicago, threw the Red Sox into a three-way tie for first place with the Twins and Tigers.

The Orioles, who had won only two of their 11 previous games, capitalized on the wildness of Boston starter Dave Morehead and some shoddy Red Sox fielding to nail down the decision early. Frank Robinson, who lost a home run bid because of a stiff headwind in the first inning, made sure in the seventh with a rifle-like shot into the screen off Darrell Brandon, the third of four Boston pitchers.

Tom Phoebus checked the Red Sox on two hits until Reggie Smith cracked his 15th homer in the fifth. Boston added another run on a double by Carl Yastrzemski and a single by Ken Harrelson in the sixth.

Jenkins Cops 18th As Cubs Win, 7-1

ATLANTA (AP) — Ferguson Jenkins broke a club strikeout record that had stood for more than half a century Friday night as he pitched the Chicago Cubs to a 7-1 victory over Atlanta.

Jenkins stopped the Braves on five outs in breezing to his 18th victory in 30 decisions. His two strikeouts gave him 206 for the season, topping by one the Cubs' mark set by Orval Overall in 1909.

The Cubs took a 3-0 lead in the first inning against Atlanta, starter Clay Carroll, with successive doubles by Ron Santo and Ernie Banks driving in all three runs. Banks delivered another run with a single after Santo tripled in the Cubs' three-run eighth.

Eisenhower Ground Game Buries Jacks

DECATUR — A strong Decatur Eisenhower rushing offensive, led by Perry Johnson's three ground scores, rolled to a 19-0 opening game victory over a sluggish Jacksonville squad, in a Capitol Conference engagement here Friday evening.

Decatur ground out 233 yards on the ground and took advantage of a pair of JHS fumbles and a blocked punt to set up their touchdowns.

After a scoreless opening period Eisenhower scored the only TD it needed when Johnson, a speedy 195-pound junior half-back, scooted 18 yards around right end almost untouched for a score with only 1:43 to play in the half.

Penalties, a Crimson bugaboo all evening, killed a Crimson threat at the start of the second half and a blocked punt set up the second Eisenhower TD.

Eisenhower blocked a Steve Gaudio punt and recovered on the Jacksonville 28 early in the third period and Johnson again broke loose for a 28-yard scamper, again around right end. Steve Bellinger booted the point after for a 13-0 difference with eight minutes left in the quarter.

Start Scoring Drive
Neither team threatened from there until a short punt gave the hosts the ball on the Jacksonville 44 and the first scoring drive of the season got underway.

Madlock scooted left end for 12 to the 31 and Williams chewing up six to the 25. Madlock added another first down with eight to the 18 from where Johnson went almost untouched the remaining distance around right end for the score. The boot for the point after sailed wide with 1:43 showing in the half.

Jacksonville came back with its most serious threat of the game, but was hurt by 70 yards in costly penalties, two fumbles, the punt block and a pass interception.

Benny Richardson ran for 48 yards before being injured early in the third quarter and Bruner carried for 38 yards. Duane Mounts was six for 18 in the passing department, hitting four of his first six, and John Mathews added two of three as Jacksonville rolled up 112 yards through the air.

Penalties Hurt
Penalties bogged down what promised to be a potent Jacksonville offense in the opening half. Seven penalties totaling 65 yards were whistled against the Crimson.

An inside kick by JHS on the opening whistle failed and gave Eisenhower the ball on their own 47. The Panthers moved the ball to the Jacksonville 40 before bogging down.

Two series later in the first period Richardson picked up a pair of first downs on the ground and Jacksonville ad-

Detroit Rallies For 5-4 Triumph

DETROIT (AP) — Willie Horton's two-out, run-scoring single in the ninth inning gave Detroit a 5-4 come-from-behind victory over Washington Friday night and shot the Tigers into a three-way tie for the American League lead.

The victory brought the Tigers' record to 84-64, the same as Minnesota and Boston, which both lost.

The Tigers also appeared headed for a loss until Bill Freehan socked a two-out, three-run homer in the eighth inning. Jim Northrup singled, Darold Knowles walked Norm Cash and Freehan slammed a home run into the left field seats, tying the game. The homer was Freehan's 20th of the season.

With one out Dick McAuliffe singled, then was sacrificed to second. Casey Cox walked Al

Kaline intentionally, bringing Horton to the plate.

On Cox' first pitch Horton lofted a four-pitch between home and first base, which first baseman Dick Nen and catcher Paul Casanova both went after.

But the ball fell between them, and Horton took advantage of the break by rifling a single to left field, driving in McAuliffe with the winning run.

Cards May Clinch Pennant On Road

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Manager Red Schoendienst, always the cautious one, remarked before his St. Louis Cardinals left this week on a six-game road trip. "This could be the clinching trip... if we play over .500 baseball."

The Cardinals took a 10½ games lead into Friday night's

"We can't get too excited or we'll blow the whole thing. There's always a lull before you win it. We're still fighting."

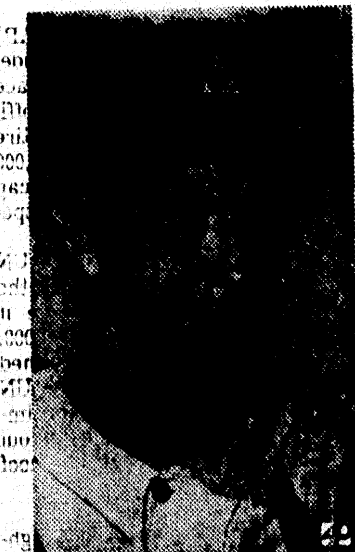

The Cardinals, who have been in first place since June 18, are making the 1967 race the biggest National League runaway since 1955 when the then Brooklyn Dodgers clinched the title Sept. 8. The Dodgers did that by winning 22 of their first 24 games.

Manager Gene Mauch of the Philadelphia Phillies, whose team lost 10 straight games and the pennant to St. Louis at the tailend of the 1964 season, said this week after his club dropped two of three games to the front-runners. "They've (the Cards) kept playing good ball, and all they have to do is keep their cool."

After the three-game series in Cincinnati, St. Louis moves to Philadelphia for three games. Then the Redbirds return to Busch Stadium for a four-game stand with Atlanta Sept. 21-24. St. Louis fans are expecting the Cards to have the flag clinched about the time they return home to open the Atlanta series.

Student Guide For Aeronautics

Reviewed By Walter B. Hendrickson, Jr.

High School students interested in preparing a Science Fair project on flying, or those just interested in aviation, will find much useful information in "A Student Guide for Aeronautics" by Merrill E. Tower published by Aero Publishers.

While this book was first published in 1962 the basic concepts of aviation described still remain true. The student working on a science fair project will find inspiration here to make a new and original project.

The book also shows experiments that will demonstrate many of the basic principles of flight. Included with the book is a circular plastic slide rule, called an Aero Navigational Computer, especially designed for solving problems related to flight, such as air speed and fuel consumption.

The "Student Guide for Aeronautics" is intended as a work book for the author's High School level text on "Basic Aeronautics." Both follow the same pattern and cover the same subject matter very closely. They discuss such things as: the theory of flight, aircraft structures, engines, jets, rockets, navigation, etc.

In the preface of A Student Guide to Aeronautics Merrill E. Tower says he is, "Convinced that extensive activities such as experiments, projects, drills and exercises are essential for the acquiring of a thorough aviation knowledge that will be retained by the student." Furthermore the author attempts to promote independent thinking by introducing numerous thought questions that are closely related to the topics being studied in the textbook.

An Old Letter

By Mrs. Otto Dorr

teacher from Vermont adventured by steamboat far up the Mississippi River to a new location.

A letter to her pupils in Chandlerville remains clearly written one hundred nineteen years after.

(The original of this letter is a valued possession of Mrs. Dorr's, she reports in a note to the editor.)

Long-Ago Letter

Stillwater, June 6, 1848

Dear Emily and Louisa, I have a few moments more, which I cheerfully devote to your service. Though I am far, far, distant from you, my interest has not in the least diminished.

How have you been since I left you? Are you in school? If not are you continuing your studies at home? How and where are your cousins, Knowlton, Caroline, and Abby?

I would delight to see you all. I cannot think that I shall not see you again. I think we could spend an hour very pleasantly together.

Volunteer Teachers

When Governor Slade of Vermont learned that the children of Illinois pioneers had few teachers for their one room schools he asked for volunteers who would go to Illinois if sufficient tuition and board arrangements were guaranteed. The usual fee for each pupil was $2.25 cents for a six week term, if subscriptions were paid and the teacher willing the school continued.

One of these volunteer teachers was Miss Amanda Hostford whose classes thrived until some of the parents found themselves unable to provide tuition costs.

Dr. Chandler Aids
Since wages were guaranteed for a year someone had to provide these subscription dues, for unfortunate pupils because of the signed agreement. This fell to Dr. Charles Chandler of Chandlerville.

The school continued until May 1848, when Exhibition Day songs, recitations and exercises closed the last term. Then the

Some incidents connected with my travels might interest you. I would like to tell you about Galena and towns above there on the Mississippi river, about the Indian Villages, their huts, their manner of preserving the dead, their dress and personal appearance, but time and space will not now permit. I visited Fort Snelling previous to coming to this place.

It is at the head of navigation. St. Peters is a beautiful place opposite the Garrison. This is nearly a French and Catholic Settlement, and indeed nearly every town on the river from St. Louis up has one or more Catholic Churches in it.

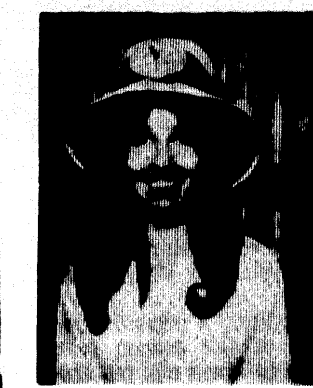

The scenery on either side of the river is beautiful, some places surpassing any thing that I ever saw. Maiden Rock on Lake Pippin is 750 feet high and there are others still more magnificent than this.

The farther up we ascended the more striking were the beauties. Nature seems to have

Teen Scene

How To (Ugh) Study

By Christine Hembrough

Well, as they say "All good things must come to an end." Boo hoo. I don't want summer to go.

Oh well, now that school is here again — here are some tips that will help you get good grades. I suggest that you save this article for future reference during the school year.

Also, maybe YOU have some suggestions. If so, please send them along.

The first thing for good studying habits is to plan a schedule. Plan a certain time to each day that you can do your work and plan a place to do it.

For me the best time to study is about an hour after I get home or at least to begin within the hour. This way I am more alert and the good TV shows aren't on to distract me. And besides, you got to do it so you might as well do it now. Then STICK to the schedule.

No Friendly "Help"

When you are doing your home work—do it alone. Don't invite a friend over to help you. Chances are that neither of you will ever get it done. This goes for other company too.

No radio and no television. TV and radio will distract your thinking and mix you up, and you probably won't get anything done.

Sharpen That Pencil

Before you begin to study, collect all of the needed materials. This is not to clutter up your working space, it is to save you from temptation and "quitting."

For instance, if you are in the middle of a problem and you need a ruler, down the stairs you go past the phone and near the chosen this remote and seemingly sequestered part to display her charms.

(To Be Continued)

TV. Something is on and you stare at it for a few minutes, then you end up watching the entire TV show and not getting your homework done or the ruler! Also, the phone might ring and it might be for you and there is the temptation to stay and talk awhile up until the while turns into an hour!

Interference Must Go

This temptation brings us to the subject, cutting down on interferences. When you have your study plan all made out, inform your friends of it. If you study at 4-6, then tell them and also tell them that at this time you are not available for talking on the phone or having any unexpected company coming in. You will get done quickly if you can do it without a pattern of stops.

Inform your family also, so that in the middle of a problem your little sister doesn't come knocking on your door wanting to know if you'd like to play doll house.

Then STICK to the ritual. Do not decide that it is alright to talk on the phone to Sandra now since you two have just made up and you want to keep her friendship. If a friend keeps calling you during study hours, then this friend isn't worth having.

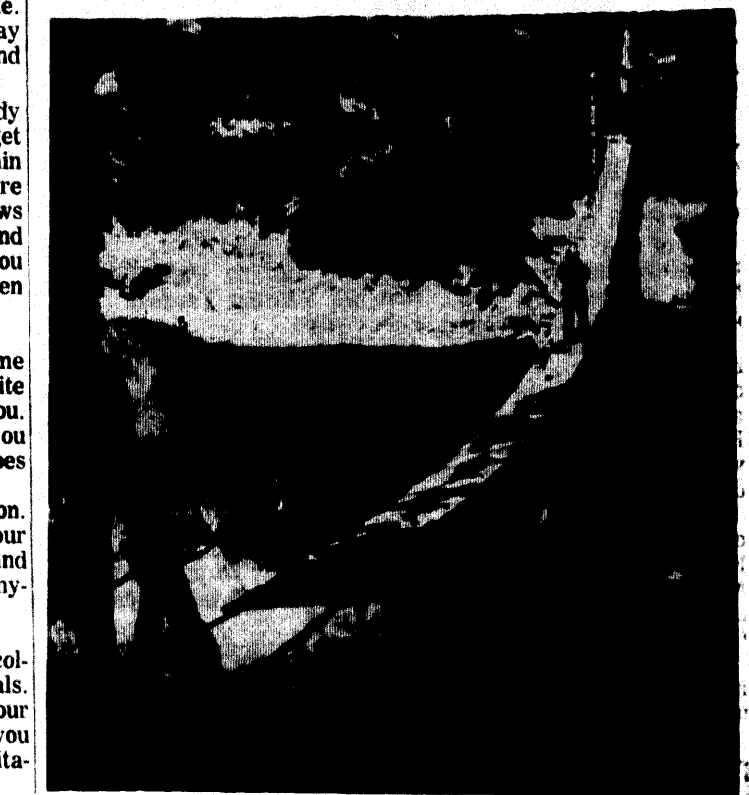

Well, this will do for a starter —we'll have some more suggestions next week. Let me know

SWINGING SUMMER — MONTOUR, Iowa — The Boy Scouts of Montour, Iowa, had a "swinging" summer this year. The members of troop 333 constructed this 125 foot long swinging footbridge over the Iowa River east of town. The bridge is suspended 20 feet above the river and is constructed from 3/4 inch cables, white oak boards and rope handrails.

Business—Market Wrapup

Consumer Item Costs Continue To Rise In Inflation Spiral

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A wave of price increases spread this week over more consumer goods and services.

The increases covered automobiles, appliances, sugar, carpet materials and a wide range of chemicals.

The boosts were a continuation of a trend that in recent months has spread through selective steel products, aluminum items and color television sets.

These indications of inflationary tendencies and mounting congressional opposition to President Johnson's proposal of a 10 per cent surcharge on corporate and individual income taxes spurred the stock market on Wednesday to its biggest rally in several weeks.

A major development on the price front this past week was an announcement by Chrysler Corp. of an increase averaging $133, or 4.6 per cent, on its 1968 models, which went on sale in dealers' showrooms Thursday.

All of the automakers had indicated earlier that prices of the new models would go up because of additional safety and equipment required by the government.

Another factor—although less openly discussed—was the less than expected increase in the cost of steel, which was expected to be about 10 per cent.

Consumers also will be hit directly in the pocketbook by higher prices for household appliances.

General Electric Corp. announced it would go along with other appliance manufacturers and raise prices on its G.E. and Westinghouse lines by 1 to 4 per cent in the 1968 models are introduced next month.

Increases were announced earlier by Admiral Corp., the Motor Division of American Motors Corp., Maytag Co., Philips Corp. and Whirlpool Corp.

Carpet is another consumer item on which prices are going up. Du Pont boosted its price of Dacron polyester staple for use in carpets by 5 to 8 cents a pound. This raised one type from 63 to 68 cents a pound and another from 65 to 73 cents a pound.

When the housewife goes to the supermarket at the end of this month she is going to find that sugar costs more. A number of cane refiners raised wholesale prices of industrial grades and consumer-packaged goods 15 cents per 100 pounds.

Many companies raised prices on a wide variety of chemicals used in industrial processes. It seemed likely that these boosts would keep down the consumer level.

In another development related to consumer prices, the Federal Communications Commission ordered the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. to cut its long distance rates by $100 million effective Nov. 1. This was a modification of an earlier order for a $120-million cut. The additional $20-million reduction will be effective next May 1.

"Prices are rising all around us and, coupled with the possibility of a substantial tax increase, will confront our business with an added burden of costs at the very time we are called upon to make price reductions," AT&T said.

The Commerce Department reported this past week that retail sales increased one per cent during August to their third straight monthly record.

Sales totaled $27,016,000,000, the highest they have topped $27 billion.

It was expected this steady climb would give the government another argument in its attempt to win congressional approval of a 10 per cent surcharge on corporate and individual income taxes as well as reducing the federal budget deficit.

Another Commerce Department report showed that inventories of manufacturing and trade firms declined for the second straight month during July. The drop was only $40 million, compared with $280 million in June, the first in six years in over-all business inventories.

The United Auto Workers Union strike against Ford Motor Corp. dragged into its second week without significant developments. Although their union contracts had expired along with Ford's on Sept. 7, General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp. continued to operate on a day-to-day basis.

General Motors, Chrysler and American Motors Corp. stepped up their output of 1968 models and turned out an estimated 132,900 cars this past week, compared with 116,628 the previous week.

New car sales for the first 10 days of September totaled 89,826 units, off 42,224 for the like period in 1966.

Steel production last week edged up 0.1 per cent to 2,431,000 tons from 2,428,000 tons the previous week.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market weathered some pre-weekend profit taking Friday. Trading was active.

Although losses outnumbered gains, blue chip strength led all the well-known market indicators into plus territory.

Volume eased to 10.27 million shares from Thursday's 12.22 million. The Wednesday turnover also exceeded 12 million.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which showed a loss at mid-session, ended with a gain of 4.04 at 933.48, another new high for the year.

A late buying spurt pushed the averages firmly into higher ground. Analysts said that some of this was due to short covering, the purchase of stock to repay shares borrowed and sold short in the hope of making a profit through a decline in price.

In a bull market, weekend short covering is a usual precaution. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 7 to 340.8 with industrials up 1.3 to a new high for the year, rails up .6 and utilities off .3.

Of 1,482 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 651 declined and 614 advanced. New highs for the year totaled 91 and new lows 18.

Eight of the 15 most active stocks rose, six fell and Goodrich was unchanged.

Tenneco was the most active stock, losing 3/4 at 30 3/4 on 292,900 shares of which 213,000 were traded on an opening block.

The New York Stock Exchange index rose 4 cents to 933.48.

On the American Stock Exchange, gains and losers were almost even, but big gains by certain stocks pushed the average up 7 cents to $27.08.

AT&T Receives Reprieve From FCC Directive

WASHINGTON (AP)—American Telephone & Telegraph Co. won from the Federal Communications Commission Thursday a $20 million temporary reprieve in the $120 million telephone rate cut it is being required to make, and an added profit of about $12 million a year.

But in a 7-0 decision the commission stood firm in its July 5 decision that Bell System profits should be in the 7 to 7 1/2 per cent range. It emphasized, however, that 7 1/2 per cent is not an absolute ceiling and could change with economic conditions.

The FCC ordered AT&T to file by Oct. 2 a plan to cut long distance rates by $100 million a year starting Nov. 1. A further cut of $20 million is scheduled to become effective next May 1.

AT&T, a corporate entity that stands atop the operating, manufacturing and research facilities of the Bell System, also asked the FCC to reduce from $120 million to $75 million the reduction in long distance rates it had ordered. AT&T said it sought the cut to provide $45 million annually to cover further increased payments to independent telephone companies which handle Bell System long distance calls.

AT&T also asked that all investment from investor-supplied funds be included in its rate base—the amount of Bell System property used as a base on which profits are figured.

The company also asked for a profit range of 7 1/2 to 8 1/2 per cent and urged the FCC to hear more evidence on the highly technical issue of separations—how AT&T's properties are divided to determine what part is used for local service and what part for interstate service.

The commission agreed to have its technical experts study further AT&T documents on the separations issue, with a written report to the commission no later than Nov. 15.

The FCC also revoked an earlier order and permitted AT&T to earn a profit on an additional $54 million, which is the Bell System's investment in facilities under construction. FCC sources say this will increase AT&T profit by about $12 million a year. AT&T's total plant used in interstate services is valued by the company at more than $8.4 billion.

WHICH SEX HAS MAJORITY?

Almost unnoticeable is the difference between the male and female population of the United States at various age levels, although men enjoy a slight excess in the total number of women. The gap in numbers between the sexes occurs in the oldest ages because the increase in life expectancy has been greater for women than men. All told, there were 3.6 million more women than men, or 96.4 men for every 100 women in the country, according to 1965 U.S. Bureau of Census statistics.

Elgin Abandons 103-Yr. History In Watchmaking

ELGIN, Ill. (AP)—After 103 years, Elgin National Watch Co. has decided to abandon completely the manufacture of jeweled watch movements in this country.

The decision, announced Friday by Jerome W. Robbins, president and chief executive officer, will result in the closing and sale of an assembly plant in Elgin, S.C.

The South Carolina plant assembles movements for ladies' watches from parts manufactured in Elgin, Ill. These operations will be phased out in 120 days, Robbins said.

Elgin for several years has obtained its movements from men's watches from Master Time, Ltd., in the Virgin Islands and Elgin S.A. in Switzerland.

They assembled them according to Elgin specifications and quality control, Robbins said. Elgin now will look to these sources for ladies' watch movements as well.

Only two other American companies—Bulova and Hamilton—continue any domestic production of jeweled movements, Robbins said.

The discontinued operation affects 200 employees in South Carolina and 75 in Illinois. Robbins said the company has "taken steps which it believes will bring job offers to virtually all affected employees."

The steps were not specified. Elgin will continue its corporate headquarters, its watch division and its Diamond Products Division in Elgin, Ill., with a payroll of 400.

The watch division's operation will be casing and distributing watches. Diamond Products imports industrial diamonds for the manufacture of abrasives and other industrial materials.

SAVINGS & LOAN OFFICIALS ATTEND ST. LOUIS MEETING

A. W. Applebee and I. Newton Mitchell of the Jacksonville Savings and Loan Association will attend the 88th annual convention of the Illinois Savings and Loan League, September 17-20, at the Chase-Park Plaza Hotel in St. Louis.

Financial leaders representing savings and loan trade associations will share the platform with top state and federal supervisory officials, according to League President Charles E. Gilliland of Florida. Delegates from the state's $12-billion savings and loan business also will participate in panel discussions and workshop sessions during the three-day meeting. The convention program will focus upon renewed opportunities for savings growth and full-scale financing following last year's tight money conditions.

Wheat Moves Up, Other Grains Close On Irregular Tone

By ED DE MOCH
CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat futures prices advanced again during the week on the Chicago Board of Trade, but corn futures were lower and other grains closed on an irregular tone.

Trade was, for the most part, slow and directionless in all futures and there appeared to be little to sustain a definite move in either direction.

As a result, prices moved over a narrow range throughout the week, indicating apprehension on the part of traders to assume a position of strength at this time when production of wheat, corn and soybeans is imminent.

When trade closed Friday, wheat futures were 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents higher for week, September 1.47 1/2 to 1.51 1/2; corn, 1.15 1/2 to 1.18 1/2; soybeans, 1.18 1/2 to 1.21 1/2; and soybean oil, 27.25 to 27.50.

Soybean oil closed 9 points lower, September 1, while soybean meal closed 65 points lower, September 1, at 77.00.

The price range in wheat moved about 2 1/2 cents, while prices of soybeans and grains ranged over a span to about 2 cents.

Wheat futures posted advances for the first four sessions of the week, then closed on a regular tone Friday under liquidation and profit taking.

The nearby September beans and soybean meal trades commanded most attention of traders, reflecting tightness of soybeans at Chicago, which has been attributed to a prolonged strike by grain handlers at several ports. September soybeans range of about 5 cents, September soybean meal, need about 300 points.

On Tuesday, the U.S. Department of Agriculture issued estimates of production of wheat, corn and soybeans, as well as an estimate of bushels per acre in the major crops. The report, of course, showed a decrease over the previous month's report.

The corn crop this year, USDA estimated, will total 14.7 billion bushels, when total more than 1.5 billion bushels, and soybeans just 1 billion bushels. All are high amounts.

The spring and durum harvest has just about completed and new crop and soybeans have begun in small quantities to kets, mainly from farms warmer climates.

Corn and soybeans have yet started to move to market in large amounts from the west. These commodities planted from 1 to 3 weeks in many sections because early spring rains and fields. Harvest work made into early frosts, some opinion.

Lord f French Says
It's Spelled Right

EDITOR'S NOTE—It's spelled with a small double f and it causes a lot of confusion. It's not a new word game, nor a riddle. It's the name of an Irish peer who tells why—when it comes to the family title—it's the small things in life that count.

The f French title goes back to 1770. The family motto is: "I'd rather die than be dishonored." "Or to spell it any other way than f French," said Lord f French with a sssssssssmile.

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Writer
LEENAUN, Connemara, Ireland (AP) — Lord Peter Martin Joseph Charles John f French is one of the Frenchs who spells his name f French.

His seat, a castle in Ballinasloe, County Galway, is even spelled Castle f French.

Lord f French is the 7th Baron and 8th Baronet f French.

"So far as I know," he explained in an interview, "we've always been double-f-small."

"Others spell it French, but I believe ours is the original way of spelling it."

Why is French spelled f French?

"It's not snobbery," said Lord f French. "A long time ago two small letters meant one large one. At least that's the theory. Anyhow, I'm perfectly satisfied to let it stand double-f-small."

Does the spelling ever cause confusion?

"All the time," he laughed. "But one gets used to it. After all, I've been f French for 42 years."

He thought for a moment and added: "It was hell, though, when I was a schoolboy. Other boys would come up and say, 'I say, f French, wwwwhy dddddd you ssssssspell your name in such a bbbbbb bloody wwwwww way?'"

Lord f French is happily married and is the father of a son and two daughters—all f Frenches.

The f Frenches seem to attract castle—and vice versa.

Lord f French's handsome sister, born the Hon. Ellen Anna Maria Josephine f French, owns and lives in Kilcolgan Castle, Kilcolgan, County Galway. It is a small castle, having accommodations for only six or seven people at any one time.

She does NOT spell it kkilcolgan Castle.

"I don't spell it that way because it's NOT f French," she laughed. "Only f French is spelled f French."

She bought the castle 10 or 11 years ago and has decorated it with rare charm. She rents it out from time to time. It's much in demand because the hunting and fishing around it are famous.

Of her castle, the Hon. Agnew said: "I let the whole castle, with me thrown in as cook-housekeeper."

Housewives Make Best Temporary Workers

EDITOR'S NOTE—The hiring of temporary workers has become big business in the last decade, and the ranks are largely made up of housewives. During the summer, they invaded the temporary market, but with fall approaching, it's time for the woman who wants short-term work to start preparing. Here are some tips on what the temporary job market has to offer her.

NEW YORK (AP) — Housewives, who have cornered 85 per cent of the temporary work in the United States, have proved themselves more desirable than single women in the field.

That's what Richard Essey, president of the Association of Temporary Personnel Contractors, says.

"The organizational ability which the housewife develops in running a household and raising children are very practical qualities which enable her to adjust rapidly to new surroundings and take new responsibilities in her stride. She is also more apt to be a neat housekeeper at her desk."

"If more housewives knew this, they would have greater confidence in seeking their first temporary job," says Essey.

"Confidence is what they primarily need. And confidence is often based on knowing how to best present themselves—and also on knowing a bit about the temporary job market of 1967."

This year the temporary personnel industry in the United States will pass the $1 billion mark. It has experienced a 700 per cent increase in the last eight years, according to the Stanford Research Institute. During this period companies expanded and diversified, and many new kinds of jobs opened.

The housewife seeking a temporary job must first decide whether she primarily wants quick money, a glamor job or a job in a specific field of interest.

If it's to be quick money, she must appraise her skills. Most personnel contractors test stenographers and typists before sending them out. Many also give free brush-up courses in typing, short-hand, and computer. Some offer the complete course free from the beginning. To decide whether or not this is worth her while, the housewife must balance the comparative pay in her area against the time to be spent training.

If she has a special interest—whether it be fashion, fabrics, music, theater, public service—she might try to get a job in this field. First she should make a list of all the education and work she has done, including voluntary work and hobbies.

In approaching a temporary personnel contractor, she should be specific about the field in which she wants to work. If he cannot place her, she should not give up, for chances are another placement office can.

Often a housewife's primary problem is one of hours. She can only work afternoons or wants to be there when the children get home from school. Personnel contractors can often place such women, because businesses that are growing rapidly are highly adaptable.

"Appearance is also important, especially considering today's fashions," says Essey. "Brightly colored stockings, dresses well above the knees, and mod clothes may be acceptable once you have proved your efficiency. But the woman who dresses conservatively is likely to make her appearance count for more when it comes to job hunting."

While the most common job categories are open to secretaries, typists, clericals, bookkeepers, receptionists, switchboard operators, key punchers, computerists and calculators, varied and special assignments have been increasing rapidly as industry expands into new areas.

Among the facts which a woman should know about temporary assignments:

Temporary job contractors never charge a fee to the employee.

The only deductions they make are the compulsory ones, such as income tax, social security, and unemployment compensation.

As a worker, the housewife is a direct employee of the temporary contractor.

She need not accept every assignment offered her.

HIPPOCRATIC OATH

The oath taken by doctors was named the Hippocratic Oath for the famous Greek physician, Hippocrates, who lived about 400 years before Christ.

TICKET 2 DRIVERS FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Two drivers were ticketed following separate accidents Friday afternoon during a light rain throughout the city.

City police reported that one vehicle was heavily damaged as a result of a collision at the intersection of South Clay and East Morton shortly after four o'clock.

Officers said that a south-bound auto on Clay, driven by Perry A. Lambert of Waverly, collided with an eastbound unit on Morton driven by William B. Burton of Alexander.

Lambert said he was unable to see the Burton auto. Police ticketed Lambert with failure to yield.

Following the collision, the Burton auto struck a utility pole and knocked over a highway sign. The car was towed away. Two autos were damaged west of the intersection of West State and Church street about 3:30 p.m.

A westbound auto, operated by Clarence S. Knott of Roodhouse was stopped for traffic. A second westbound auto, driven by Jeffery A. Leonard of 954 West Lafayette struck the rear of the Knott auto. Leonard said street conditions made it difficult to stop in time.

Leonard was ticketed for following too close, and his car was removed from the scene by a wrecker.

Construction is under way on four ski runs at Beech Mountain, Banner Elk, N.C. They are scheduled for opening in December. At 5,600 feet, this will be the highest ski slope in the eastern United States.

Dedicates Roodhouse Park Stage

ently designed four-position mask.

That's the Melandrea concept. It permits any of eight images, each a different shape, to be projected in any sequence... by merely tripping the slide-changing mechanism of the two projectors simultaneously. This is done automatically by using a tape recorder with a slide-changing pulse on one of the magnetic tape tracks; commentary and background music or sound effects are on the other sound tracks.

The Melandrea suggestion is a truly great advance in slide-sound presentations. The astounding part of the entire concept is that it is nothing more than a simple improvement, using the same tools we photographers have had at our command for several years.

At the 1967 NAVA convention (National Audio-Visual Assn.) in Chicago, another new concept in slide-sound show presentation was introduced. This one, called Pro-Gramo, also uses an existing slide projector for the concept.

Imagine a box-type base five inches high upon which you could place a Kodak Carousel, Nikkormat, Sawyer or some other automatic 35mm slide projector. Inside the base box are all the components of a magnetic tape sound system; on top of the box are the elements of the slide projection system.

Merely plug one into the other... voila!... on with the show.

Instead of a finger-fumbling reel-to-reel system, you have a tape housed in a cartridge about the thickness of a slice of bread, ready for insertion into the unit as simply as putting a slice of bread into a toaster.

Interested in specifications of these Pro-Gramo units? According to Ehrenrich Photo-Optical Industries, national distributors of the automatic sound system is standard 110-volt plug-in; operates for 18 minutes at 3 3/4 inches per second, using 1-mil tape (longer with thinner tape); produces 9 watts of amplifier output; and can use its own 4x6 built-in speaker or remote speaker. The entire unit, with slide projector, weighs only slightly over 25 pounds.

Sounds like a great educational or sales tool, doesn't it?

Another new idea, shown at both of these conventions, is a "wind-blown" tape recorder.

Anyone who has ever threaded a standard reel-to-reel tape recorder may recall "blowing" the end of a tape out from between the reel flanges just before placing the reel on the machine.

That is precisely how Bell and Howell got the idea for its new fully automatic-threading reel-to-reel projector. The trick is done with air jets.

The first jet separates the end of the tape from the reel; the next jet flutters the tape through the recording-playback head channel; the third jet takes over to wait the tape onto the take-up reel, where it is automatically caught and wound.

LUCKY SEVEN

RANSOM, Kan. (AP) — Perhaps the number "7" will be lucky for Chad Robert Strickler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Strickler.

He was born on the seventh day of the seventh month of 1967 and weighed seven pounds, seven ounces.

His father's birthday is Aug. 7 and his parents' anniversary is Sept. 7.

Quick Cooling for Fresh Meat

By GAYNOR MADDOX, NEA Food Editor

Q — Please tell me the best way to keep fresh meat until I cook it.

A — To answer you, we quote Reba Staggs, home economics director of the National Livestock and Meat Board.

"Homemakers need to be reminded that fresh meat to be at its best and to be utilized 100 per cent should be stored in the refrigerator immediately, or as soon as possible after purchase. Fresh meats or cooked meats which are to be stored frozen should be wrapped carefully in moisture-vapor proof wrapping, frozen quickly at 0 degrees or lower and stored at that same temperature.

Leftover meats should be cooled quickly and stored promptly in the refrigerator or freezer.

Storage time should be watched carefully so that all fresh or frozen meats are used at the peak of their goodness."

HOMEOWNED UFO'S

While warm weather is still with us, it is smart to remember that unidentified flying objects—such as candy wrappers, for example—can be highly dangerous when whirling around inside moving automobiles. Loose papers suddenly caught in the wind when a window is open will obscure the driver's vision and cause accidents, an auto authority says.

Don't clutter up the back shelf with candy wrappers, unpaid bills, credit card receipts or paper saucers. They could fly.

Written for AP Newsfeatures

Photographers often learn of important new technology by attending "the other fellow's" conventions or expositions. It happened to me recently, while visiting the Consumers Electronics Show in Manhattan.

"Playing" there was an audio-visual presentation that captured the attention of many of the 15,000 convention-goers.

The technique was evolved by a firm called Melandrea, using a pair of 35mm slide projectors and a tape recorder. This, by itself, doesn't sound exciting. But wait 'til you hear what they do with these tools.

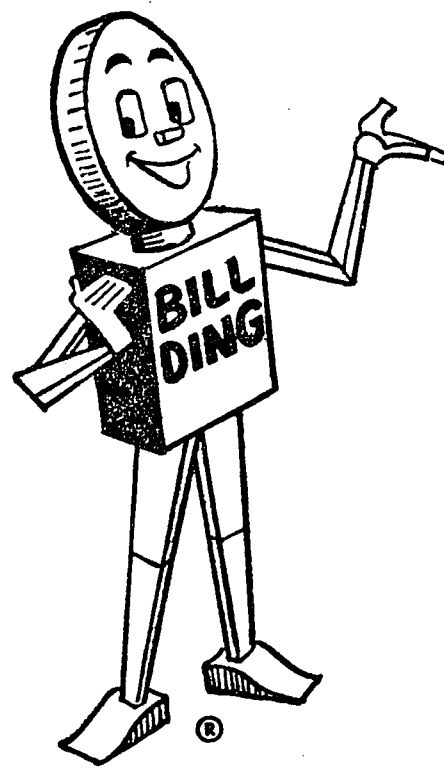

To explain, let's imagine one projector, one screen, but two images... produced by using a 35mm mask with two apertures

—one a circle, the other a square, side by side. That's easy, right? By opaque masking, it would be possible to project either image, or both images, as desired, wouldn't it?

Carrying the concept one step further, the mask could be divided into four segments instead of two. The division might add to the circle-square combination two additional shapes: a rectangle and an oval.

Then any one, any two, any three, or all four, of the images could be projected, at will.

Supposing, however, two 35mm slide projectors are placed side by side, and each projector is fitted with a differ-

LIQUOR ORDINANCE
PITTSFIELD CITY
COUNCIL TOPIC

PITTSFIELD — The Pittsfield liquor ordinance was the main topic of discussion Tuesday night at the city council meeting. Alderman Gerald Dimmitt's motion to review and revise the existing ordinance to meet the needs and demands of Pittsfield carried. Dimmitt's motion had been tabled for nearly a month since it had been agreed that no vote would be taken until all aldermen were present.

Mayor Frank Penstone, hospitalized, could not attend because of his recent shooting mishap, which occurred Tuesday afternoon when he was pursuing a groundhog at his orchard and his 22 pistol discharged accidentally and caused a superficial wound in his left knee. Alderman Richard Bergman Jr. presided in the mayor's place.

Dimmitt, the head of the ordinance committee, explained that he would not go ahead on the possible revision of the controversial liquor ordinance unless he had the approval of Mayor Penstone. As liquor commissioner the mayor has the final say before a new ordinance can be put to vote.

Don Giger, city treasurer, reported a balance of $438,529.57 as of September 1. City clerk, Mrs. Katherine Smith reported that the city's income from motor fuel tax had brought in $46,219.52 so far this year. She also reported a refund of $3,733.15 from the Panhandle Eastern since its gas increase had been denied by the Federal Power Commission. This had been an increase by the City of Pittsfield and had not been passed on to the consumer.

In other business, the city clerk was authorized to contact James H. Garver from General Planning and Resource Consultants of St. Louis to assist the city in making sure the new building ordinance is in order to qualify for federal funds for the city's "workable program for community improvement." The city is still having problems getting federal government approval of their long-range plans.

RISING COSTS TO HIKE FERRY RIDE
COST IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP) — The nickel ferry ride—long one of the best bargains in the city—is in danger of being washed away by red ink.

The five-cent fare for the half-hour ride on the Staten Island ferry, with its dramatic view of Manhattan's skyline, has been a fixture since the turn of the century.

City officials announced Thursday that vehicle rates on the ferry are going up 50 per cent and off-hour service being decreased to offset increases in the service's annual deficit.

They further warned that if these economies do not prove sufficient, the passenger fare may have to be increased too.

CONSTITUTION WEEK in Jacksonville will be observed by the Daughters of the American Revolution. Mayor Byron Holkenbrink signed a proclamation to that effect for Mrs. J. Edmund Dinwiddie of the DAR urging all patriotic, social service, labor, veteran and business groups to recognize that American citizenship represents the dreams and struggles of men through past centuries. Sept. 17 marks the 108th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution of the United States.

General Assembly Will Cut New Swath During 75th Session

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Regardless of whether it passes or repeals a bill, the current session of the 75th Illinois General Assembly will have cut a new swath in history.

There's nothing new in recessing as it did in June until September. The 27th, 28th, and 45th assemblies carried out variations on this. The years were 1871, 1873 and 1907 respectively.

The Republican majority is planning another caboose session in February which may set historical precedent for annual sessions—and appropriations—without specific constitutional authority or legislative precedent.

Critics of the current meeting are calling it "an exercise in futility" because one purpose of reconvening was to override vetoes of Gov. Otto Kerner. Overrides have been accomplished only three times.

A defender of the caboose session, Sen. William Harris of Pontiac, Republican majority whip, said it has already saved nearly a quarter million dollars and it may save added thousands. He said the steps to achieve this will be historical firsts.

Harris said this meeting was needed to accomplish an amendment of the legislature's rules as required under a new statute. The statute and the rule change permit modernization of printing legislative reports and a savings of more than $200,000.

Cut Trip Costs
In addition, while the legislators are in Springfield, they will hold organization meetings of the numerous commissions they staff. This will eliminate thousands of dollars spent on special trips to the capital to organize each commission separately. Over the weekend, in preparation for the mass organization, Speaker Ralph Smith announced scores of appointments of legislators to the commissions.

Wednesday is a significant day in the current session because the GOP majority, with agreement from the Democratic leaders, has designated it as the end of the assembly until February.

If this intent is followed the plan of some lawmakers to begin Monday an attempt to repeal the state inheritance tax law will fall through. More meeting days than the three this week would be needed to pass a repealer. It takes a minimum of five days for a bill to run successfully through the course of both houses.

The Illinois Constitution does not fix a time for final adjournment of the Illinois legislature nor does it state a fiscal year. In fact, legal experts say the Constitution has apparently contradictory language about powers to appropriate.

Fiscal Year Question
The expert opinions also suggest the legislature could pass a law fixing a fiscal year, instead of the two-year fiscal period it now follows.

This attempt to put the state on an annual fiscal and legislative basis may come at the February meeting. Republican legislative leaders have stated their intention to review both receipts from new taxes and how the Kerner administration is spending the money. By then some tax and spending programs will be little more than a half-year old.

Some observers have called the current session a caboose, as the last car in a train of cars is called, others call it a mini or semi-session, because it does not run the customary six months from January through June.

Dirksen Praises Vets From Morgan County In First World War

On the eve of the golden anniversary of World War I veterans of Morgan County, Senator Everett M. Dirksen has praised their courage and stated they are "forever enshrined in the annals of heroism."

Dirksen, in a special greeting to the veterans of Morgan county continued, "The men of Morgan county in the AEF arrived in France in time to face the last mighty attacks of the greatest professional army the world had then ever known."

Sunday, September 24 veterans from Morgan county who participated in that conflict 50 years ago will be honored guests at an anniversary reunion to be held from noon until 6 p.m. at the local American Legion home.

Plans are continuing for the anniversary reunion, which is expected to attract representatives of all local, and many surrounding county patriotic organizations.

In his greetings to the men of Morgan county, veterans of the conflict, Dirksen stated:

"It hardly seems possible to any of us who were part of the First World War that half a century has passed since America entered the terrible conflict even now so recent in our minds' eyes."

"Yet this last April we observed the fiftieth anniversary of the declaration of war against Germany in 1917. How quickly the time has passed."

How Long Ago
"How long ago, indeed, it all was."

"It seems like only yesterday that the security and future of the United States depended on the patriotism and bravery of men like yourselves."

"The men from Morgan County in the AEF arrived in France in time to face the last mighty attacks of the greatest professional army the world had then ever known."

"Before the surviving members of the AEF sailed home, the men from Morgan County were among those whose deeds had been forever enshrined in the annals of heroism."

"It was a glorious record. We shall never forget it, and neither shall our country. Long after we have joined our comrades in arms who have preceded us in death, our country shall remember the gallant men of the AEF."

Barbershop Quartet Needed

Those working on the anniversary celebration have revealed that plans are in the making for a barbershop quartet to attend the gathering, to sing songs from the era.

Food and drink will be provided for the occasion, and even transportation has been donated for those unable to drive to the event.

Reminful of the occasion, a symbolic tomb of the Unknown Soldier has been placed in front of the American Legion home on West College, surrounded with fifty white crosses carrying the names of some of the men who have already departed.

The flag, covering the tomb, was presented by Rep. Paul Findley and had flown over the capitol building in Washington.

The anniversary celebration is open to all veterans of the war, regardless of whether or not they are, or ever were members of a veterans' organization.

Present Report On Special Ed In Scott County

By Naomi Lawson
(Winchester Correspondent)
(Telephone 742-3490)

WINCHESTER — The regular meeting of the Board of Education of Community Unit School District 1 was held Tuesday evening in the Board of Education office in Winchester.

M. W. Kehart, superintendent, reported on pupil and classroom situations and stated the special education classes at Winchester Elementary School are working very well. As the Bluffs School does not have room for the half-time learning disorders class, and the local district has enough pupils in this category for a full time class, the board voted to accept Mrs. Barbara Wade as a full time teacher at the local school.

The board approved the issuance of a contract to Mrs. LaBelle V. Merriman to teach history and mathematics at Winchester High School. The vacancy in the music department at the high school still exists.

City police said Donelson was the driver of a car that struck the Gold Room Beauty Shop at the Dunlap Motor Inn building.

Donelson stated that he pulled into a parking space and was going to enter the hotel. He said he then changed his mind and stepped on the gas, thinking his car was in reverse.

But, the auto jumped forward, ran over the curbing and struck the building. A plate glass window and some concrete blocks were damaged.

Donelson then backed away and left the scene. He left Jacksonville on U.S. 67 and drove 19 miles south of the city before his 1967 model car stopped, due to a broken radiator.

Greene county authorities had been alerted by Jacksonville police to be watching for Donelson's car and they apprehended him on Route 67.

City police then went to Greene county to bring Donelson back to the county jail where he remained overnight.

Pawpaws Ripen Along Bluff Of Illinois River

JERSEYVILLE—The first ripe pawpaws of the current season from the Illinois River bluff lands area were picked Thursday by Rolland Cope of the Nutwood vicinity and delivered to the home of Deputy Sheriff Adolph Schultz in Fieldon.

Schultz admits that he is personally very fond of the wild fruit that pioneer residents often referred to as Illinois bananas.

"Roll Cope delivered about a peck of the pawpaws to my home," Deputy Schultz stated. "When I returned home from Jerseyville Thursday evening, I immediately detected the scent of the fruit. I had a real feast, for I am very fond of pawpaws."

The idea that a frost is necessary to ripen pawpaws is an error, Schultz reported. Old timers may have obtained the idea because the pawpaw matures and becomes ripe about the same time that frost appears in the locality.

The pawpaw is found usually in the bluff lands area along the Illinois river. The bush like small tree seems to thrive best where there is plenty of limestone in the soil.

Wilson Aids Tigers' 5-4 Triumph

DETROIT (AP) — Pitcher Earl Wilson singled in the go-ahead run in Detroit's three-run fourth inning and gained his 21st victory as the Tigers took over possession of first place in the American League by defeating Washington 5-4 Saturday.

The victory, their fourth straight and ninth in the last 11 games, moved the Tigers one game ahead of Minnesota and Boston in the four-way pennant chase. Singles by Jim Northrup, Norm Cash and Bill Freehan tied the game in the fourth before starter Bob Priddy could get an out in the inning.

Priddy retired Don Wert on a grounder, the runners advancing to second and third, but Wilson followed with a single through the legs of third baseman Bob Saverine, driving in Cash and driving out Priddy.

Dick Lines came on for the Senators, and Freehan scored as Dick McAuliffe forced Wilson at second.

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Southern Illinois University used a well divided rushing attack Saturday to beat Northeast Missouri State College 18-7.

It was the season opener for both teams as well as the first games for new coaches Dick Towers of SIU and Marv Braden of the Northeast Missouri Bulldogs.

The Salukis' John Quillen scored in the first quarter on a 31-yard run. Early in the second quarter the bulldogs tied the game on a 47-yard pass by Don Cummings to Steve Garrett.

The Salukis pushed ahead on 3-yard plunge by Tom Wirth and a field goal by Ralph Galloway to lead at the half 16-7.

The only other score came in the third quarter when SIU scored on a safety by dumping Cummings in the end zone.

Sipek Paces 34-0 Runaway By ISD

Tigers Bomb Much Bigger Kincaid Team

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

Sophomore quarterback Ron Sipek threw for three touchdowns and three extra points and Jesse Joyner and Terry Storey each scored twice to lead ISD to a 34-0 surprise victory over a much larger Kincaid team, on the ISD field Saturday afternoon.

Outweighed an average of 23 pounds per man in the line and 22 pounds per man in the backfield, ISD found rare success in the air and banked on a stubborn defense to race past the Ponies with relative ease.

Sipek, moved to quarterback when Terry Storey was switched to end late in the final week of pre-season practice, hit on four of six passes for 147 yards and three scores and connected on three of four for PAT completions.

The ISD defense was especially tough in its own territory, led by Wally Harnasch, Steve Aase, Joyner, and Bill Fox.

While the passing game clicked for the scores, the Tiger ground rush was even more effective in yardage gained.

Led by Joyner with 95 yards in only nine carries and Ron Penn with 39 yards in seven attempts, ISD chewed up 169 yards on the turf for a total offensive output of 316 yards. The total was accomplished despite some first-game jitters that provided a pair of fumbles lost and 80 yards in penalties.

John Adonitis returned an ISD punt 50 yards for a score that was called back by a clipping infraction and Kincaid never threatened seriously again.

ISD mounted a scoring drive late in the third, with Sipek running 18 yards for a key first down. Penn later broke loose for 42 yards around right end to the seven. A 15-yard penalty moved the ball back to the 19 but Sipek hit Storey in the right flat again and the senior speedster scooted the remaining distance on the last play from scrimmage of the period. Sipek tossed to Baker for the extra point and a 21-0 bulge entering the last stanza.

Sipek hit Baker for 25 yards

Rich Nye checked the Braves on six hits, including Cleto Boyer's ninth inning homer, on the way to his 13th victory against nine losses.

Illini Varsity In 57-7 Runaway

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Illinois coach Jim Valek was not especially pleased after his first units crushed the reserves 57-7 today in the Illini's intersquad game tuneup for their Sept. 23 opener at Florida.

The defense had its big plays but most of the offense's big gains came on missed assignments by the second team.

"About the best thing you could say was there were no injuries to speak of," the coach reported after the game which was staged to test several men at new positions and finalize the 44-man traveling squad.

Quarterback Bob Naponic directed the first unit attack, passing for 225 yards on 10 completions in 11 tries. The junior signal caller survived an early breakdown in pass protection which has been a problem for the Illini so far this year.

Archer Ups Philly Lead To 4 Strokes

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Cowboy George Archer came on like a herd of steers Saturday with three birdies on the last five holes for a three-round, 12-under-par total of 204 and a four-stroke lead in the $110,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

The 6-foot-6 Archer fired a two-under-par 36-34-70 over the 6,708-yard Whitmarsh Valley Country Club course, recovering from a case of putting jitters on the front nine which threatened to carry him back to the field.

Dan Sikes, a 36-year-old veteran of six years on the pro tour, surged past Billy Casper into second place on the wings of a 35-34-69 and a 54-hole total of eight-under-par 208.

The poker-faced Casper scored a third round 36-37-73 and slipped into a two-way tie for fourth, one stroke behind Mason Rudolph, who was at 209.

The 33-year-old Rudolph burned up the course with a 34-33-67, including successive birdie putts on the first two holes of 60 feet each.

The dark-haired Archer, who looks more like a basketball player than a golfer, started the day with a 10-under par, 36-hole total of 134, three strokes ahead of Casper and six up on Australian Bruce Devlin.

The nine-year pro from Tennessee also carded a birdie with a 50-foot ship shot.

Casper, who wound up tied for fourth with Bob Charles at 210, started out with 10 straight pars and got his only bird on the 11th, where he sank a 40-foot, seven-inch chip. He bogied the 12th and 16th. Charles shot 36-35-71.

Other scores included a 35-36-71 by Jim Colbert, who tied with Dave Marr, 35-37-72, at 212. First round leader Bruce Devlin blew to a 78 and out of contention. Arnold Palmer, who said, "It takes putts to score and I didn't," carded a 37-35-72, for a 54-hole total 214.

The Giants tied the game 4-4 in the eighth on a three-run homer by Mays, his 19th of the season and 561st of his career. Mays' blast followed a bases-loaded sacrifice fly by Willie McCovey.

Bonavena Decisions Mildenberger In 12

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Brute strong Oscar Bonavena of Argentina floored West Germany's Karl Mildenberger four times and hammered out a unanimous 12-round decision Saturday to go into the semifinals of the World Boxing Association tournament to pick a new heavyweight boxing champion.

Referee Harry Krause of Las Vegas, Nev., declared Bonavena the winner by the imposing margin of 56-47. Dr. Jose Stern of Argentina, one of the judges, had it 58-53 and Rudolph Drust of Germany 57-53.

The stocky pride of the Pam-pas sent the southpaw Mildenberger to the canvas with a vicious left to the head in the first round, and the German never fully recovered although he staged a rally in the later rounds.

The Argentinian belted the German into the lower strand of the ropes with a left in the fourth round, knocked him to his knees with a chopping right flush to the face in the seventh and sent Mildenberger flopping on the seat of his pants in the 10th.

The upset victory—Mildenberger, as No. 1 in the WBA ratings, was a 4-1 choice—put the rugged Bonavena into the semifinals of the WBA elimination with Thad Spencer of San Francisco and Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky., who won bouts at Houston, and the winner of the Oct. 28 bout in Los Angeles between Floyd Patterson, former two-time champion of New York, and Jerry Quarry of Los Angeles.

The result was a disappointment to a pro-Mildenberger, SRO crowd of 18,000 which packed Frankfurt's outdoor cycling stadium for the fight.

Bonavena, a pound heavier at 204 pounds but shorter at 5-11 than the tall German, 203 pounds and 6-1, dominated the bout except for the fifth and sixth rounds.

The Argentinian lost the fifth round on a low punch and lost the sixth when Mildenberger unleashed a swirling attack that sent Bonavena into temporary retreat.

Mildenberger staged another rally in the ninth, rocking Bonavena with a series of right jabs and jolting him with a straight left, but after being dropped in the 10th he was on the defensive all the way. The Argentinian finished on a strong note.

Both fighters were guaranteed $50,000 with the winner to enter the semifinal with a guarantee of $75,000.

The elimination was organized to pick a successor to Cassius Clay, or Muhammad Ali, whose crown was stripped from him by the WBA when he refused to respond to a draft by the U.S. military services.

Central Michigan dominated the first half, scoring all 23 of its points and leading 23-0 until Bradley scored in the final 51 seconds of the half.

Bradley pressed hard the second half. With 1:45 remaining in the game, Bradley blocked a Central Michigan punt and gained a first down on Centralia's 23 yard line.

But on the first play from scrimmage, Centralia's Larry Michalek intercepted a Bradley pass in the end zone, and Central ran out the clock.

St. Louis, a pick in the Century Division until quarterback Charley Johnson was called into the Army, pins its hopes on rookie Jim Hart against the Giants.

The Giants, last in the NFL last season at 1-12-1, look for improvement with Fran Tarkenton at quarterback, and running back Tucker Frederickson returning after missing 1966 with a knee injury.

Los Angeles, a favorite in the Coastal Division, is favored to duplicate its 16-7 exhibition victory over the Saints, who break in with Bill Kilmer at quarterback and Jim Taylor in the backfield.

Contenders Matched
The Dallas-Cleveland game matches contenders in last season's Eastern Division with Don Meredith still throwing to Bob Hayes for the Cowboys and Frank Ryan throwing and Leroy Kelly running for the Browns. Both clubs slumped in the exhibition season.

Grant has a choice of Ron VanderKelen, Bob Berry or Joe Kapp at quarterback to replace the traded Tarkenton against the optimistic 49ers and John Brodie, Ken Willard, Dave Parks and Co.

Gale Sayers and either young Larry Rakestraw or veteran Rudy Kucich carry Chicago's hopes against the Steelers, who are counting on a good year from quarterback Bill Nelsen.

In the AFL, Buffalo, coming off a fourth quarter 20-17 victory over the New York Jets last Sunday, are expected to start with Jack Kemp this week against the surprising Oilers, who battled Kansas City before losing 25-20.

Boston still seeks its first victory after two defeats by binging alive its running game, led by Jim Nance. The Raiders come off a 51-0 balloon-breaker over Denver.

The Broncos will try to put more air into the balloon against the Dolphins, despite the loss of Cookie Gilchrist to injury. Steve Tensi of Denver and John Stofa of Miami trade passes.

Baltimore Orioles derailed Boston's American League pennant charge by defeating the Red Sox 4-1 Saturday on rookie Jim Hardin's nifty three-hitter and Boog Powell's three-run homer.

The Red Sox, defeated twice within 24 hours by the Orioles, were knocked out of a three-way tie with Minnesota and Detroit in the hectic pennant scramble.

The loss dropped the Red Sox one game behind the Tigers, who edged Washington 5-4 Saturday afternoon, and them one-half game back of the Twins, who played at Chicago in a night game.

Hardin, a 24-year-old right-hander drafted from the New York Mets' organization for $12,000 last November, was in command all the way in hurling his seventh victory against two losses.

The Orioles picked up a run in the fourth, but were frustrated for the most part of six innings, leaving nine runners stranded as Boston starter Jim Lorborg bared down in the clutch.

Rico Petrocelli sent Boston off to a 1-0 lead in the second inning with his 16th homer, a hoist over the screen atop the high left field wall.

By REG ANKROM

The Routt Rockets found revenge Friday night against the Calhoun Warriors, winning easily by a 25-6 score. The Warriors defeated Routt last year 20-13 in the opening game of the season for both teams.

It was a different story this year, however, with four Rocket gridmen finding their way into the end zone.

Veteran fullback Paul Lambert pushed his way to the end zone from the three-yard line in the second quarter to give Routt their first score. The conversion by Charlie Kaufmann added to the credit.

Quarterback Loyd Krumlauf, next went on the Routt scoreboard with a dash from the seven-yard line, to give Routt a 13-0 edge at the half.

In the third quarter, right halfback Kaufmann found a hole in the Warrior defense to charge into the end zone from the Calhoun four.

Calhoun, at this point, braced themselves for an attempt to get on the board. Quarterback Rick Angel sent fullback Jerry Crader downfield and connected for a scoring 30-yard pass play.

The Calhoun defense tightened somewhat causing Routt to run a number of plays before they could get into scoring position. The scoring play came on a pass from Krumlauf to left end John Costa, who charged past the safety and into the end zone, bringing the score to 25-6.

It was the first game of the season for both teams and both were slack in the first few minutes of play. Routt showed good recovery midway through the first quarter and from that point on outclassed the Calhoun Warriors in offense and defense.

Calhoun managed a tough defense but was overpowered by Rocket offense. Routt's ground gainers, despite a disadvantage in weight, drove for 227 yards. Calhoun faced with a tight Routt defense, was able to manage only 164 yards on the ground.

Routt's ability to control the ball made the difference in the game. In the third quarter, Calhoun was able to run off only eight plays, including two punts. Routt kept the ball in that quarter for nine of the 12 minutes.

Routt's 190-pound Lambert played the lead role in rushing with 125 yards. Calhoun's leading ground-gainer, Dennis Angel, managed only 29 yards.

Both teams went into the penalty column. Clipping and defensive pass interference set Routt back 30 yards in the game. The Rockets also were called with four five-yard setbacks. Calhoun managed to keep their penalty record slightly clearer with a total of 35 yards lost to penalties.

As the game neared the gun, Calhoun went to the air. Warrior quarterback Angel tossed five incomplete passes. His brother, halfback Denny Angel, received lateral passes three times and attempted to pass them with no success.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Willie McCovey slammed two home runs and Willie Mays slugged another, powering the San Francisco Giants to a 6-3 triumph over Pittsburgh Friday night.

McCovey's second homer and 27th of the season followed a walk to Mays and put the Giants in front 4-3 in the sixth inning. McCovey was credited with an inside-the-park homer in the fourth when Willie Stargell missed a shoestring catch of his bloop to left and the ball rolled to the wall.

Maury Wills singled and Matty Alou tripled for the first Pittsburgh run in the third. The Pirates added two more in the fifth on singles by Wills, Alou and Roberto Clemente, a double play and a wild pitch. San Fran. 100 103 100-6 10 0

Eisenhower Ground Game Buries Jacks

DECATUR — A strong Decatur Eisenhower rushing offensive, led by Perry Johnson's three ground scores, rolled to a 19-0 opening game victory over a sluggish Jacksonville squad, in a Capitol Conference engagement here Friday evening.

Decatur ground out 233 yards on the ground and took advantage of a pair of JHS fumbles and a blocked punt to set up their touchdowns.

After a scoreless opening period Eisenhower scored the only TD it needed when Johnson, a speedy 195-pound junior halfback, scooted 18 yards around right end almost untouched for a score with only 1:43 to play in the half.

Penalties, a Crimson bugaboo all evening, killed a Crimson threat at the start of the second half and a blocked punt set up the second Eisenhower TD.

Eisenhower blocked a Steve Gaudio punt and recovered on the Jacksonville 28 early in the third period and Johnson again broke loose for a 28-yard scamper, again around right end.

Steve Bellinger booted the point after for a 13-0 difference with eight minutes left in the quarter.

Jim Bruner fumbled on the next Crimson play from scrimmage, giving Eisenhower the pigskin on the JHS 19. After a penalty nullified a TD carry by speedy quarterback Bill Madlock, Madlock legged the ball eight and 13 yards down to the two from where Johnson busted over and a 19-0 score with 6:20 to play in the stanza.

Johnson showed spurts of offensive power throughout the game, but was hurt by 70 yards in costly penalties, two fumbles, the punt block and a pass interception.

Benny Richardson ran for 48 yards before being injured early in the third quarter and Bruner carried for 38 yards. Duane Mounts was six for 18 in the passing department, hitting four of his first six, and John Mathews added two of three as Jacksonville rolled up 112 yards through the air.

Orioles Snap Sox Pennant Drive 6-2

BOSTON (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles, helped by Frank Robinson's 29th homer, snapped Boston's four-game winning streak and interrupted the Red Sox' drive for the American League pennant with a 6-2 victory Friday night.

The defeat dropped the Red Sox out of a first place tie with Minnesota, pending the outcome of the Twins' night game with the Chicago White Sox.

The defeat, coupled with Detroit's victory over Washington and Minnesota's loss to Chicago, threw the Red Sox into a three-way tie for first place with the Twins and Tigers.

The Orioles, who had won only two of their 11 previous games, capitalized on the wildness of Boston starter Dave Morehead and some shoddy Red Sox fielding to nail down the decision early. Frank Robinson, who lost a home run bid because of a stiff headwind in the first inning, made sure in the seventh with a rifle-like shot into the screen off Darrell Brandon, the third of four Boston pitchers.

Tom Phoebus checked the Red Sox on two hits until Reggie Smith cracked his 15th homer in the fifth. Boston added another run on a double by Carl Yastrzemski and a single by Ken Harrelson in the sixth. Baltimore 012 010 101-8 0 0

ATLANTA (AP) — Ferguson Jenkins broke a club strikeout record that had stood for more than half a century Friday night as he pitched the Chicago Cubs to a 7-1 victory over Atlanta.

Jenkins stopped the Braves on five outs in breezing to his 18th victory in 30 decisions. His two strikeouts gave him 206 for the season, topping by one the Cubs' mark set by Orval Overall in 1909.

The Cubs took a 3-0 lead in the first inning against Atlanta starter Clay Carroll, with successive doubles by Ron Santo and Ernie Banks driving in all three runs. Banks delivered another run with a single after Santo tripled in the Cubs' three-run eighth.

Detroit Rallies For 5-4 Triumph

DETROIT (AP) — Willie Horton's two-out, run-scoring single in the ninth inning gave Detroit a 5-4 come-from-behind victory over Washington Friday night and shot the Tigers into a three-way tie for the American League lead.

The victory brought the Tigers' record to 34-64, the same as Minnesota and Boston, which both lost.

The Tigers also appeared headed for a loss until Bill Freehan socked a two-out, three-run homer in the eighth inning.

Julim Northrup singled, Darold Knowles walked Norm Cash and Freehan slammed a home run into the left field seats, tying the game. The homer was Freehan's 20th of the season.

With one out Dick McAuliffe singled, then was sacrificed to second. Casey Cox walked Al

Kaline intentionally, bringing Horton to the plate.

On Cox' first pitch Horton lofted a foup pop between home and first base, which first baseman Dick Nen and catcher Paul Casanova both went after.

But the ball fell between them, and Horton took advantage of the break by rifling a single to elft field, driving in McAuliffe with the winning run.

Cards May Clinch Pennant On Road

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Manager Red Schoendienst, always the cautious one, remarked before St. Louis Cardinals left this week on a six-game road trip, "This could be the clinching trip, if we play over .500 baseball."

The Cardinals took a 10½ games lead into Friday night's

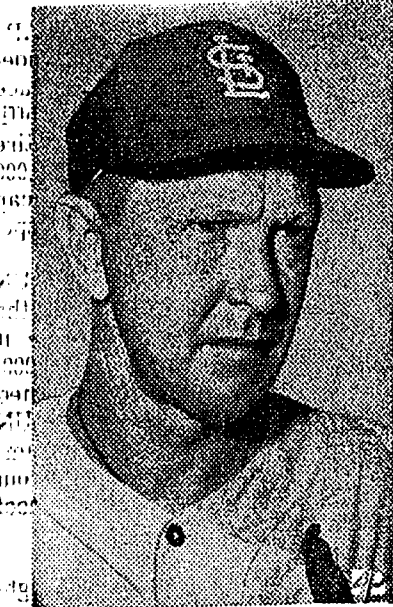

"We can't get too excited or we'll blow the whole thing. There's always a lull before you win it. We're still fighting."

The Cardinals, who have been in first place since June 18, are making the 1967 race the biggest National League runaway since 1955 when the then Brooklyn Dodgers clinched the title Sept. 8. The Dodgers did that by winning 22 of their first 24 games.

Manager Gene Mauch of the Philadelphia Phillies, whose team lost 10 straight games and the pennant to St. Louis at the tailend of the 1964 season, said this week after his club dropped two of three games to the front-runners, "They've (the Cards) kept playing good ball, and all they have to do is keep their cool."

After the three-game series in Cincinnati, St. Louis moves to Philadelphia for three games. Then the Redbirds return to Busch Stadium for a four-game stand with Atlanta Sept. 21-24. St. Louis fans are expecting the Cards to have the flag clinched about the time they return home to open the Atlanta series.

FARMINGTON — The Farmington Farmers and the Havana Ducks both picked up touchdowns in the fourth quarter Friday night to give them a 6-6 tie in their opening games.

Archer Ups Philly Lead To 4 Strokes

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Cowboy George Archer came on like a herd of steers Saturday with three birdies on the last five holes for a three-round, 12-under-par total of 204 and a four-stroke lead in the $110,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

The 6-foot-6 Archer fired a two-under-par 36-34-70 over the 6,708-yard Whittemarsh Valley Country Club course, recovering from a case of putting jitters on the front nine which threatened to carry him back to the field.

Dan Sikes, a 36-year-old veteran of six years on the pro-tour, surged past Billy Casper into second place on the wings of a 35-34-69 and a 54-hole total of eight-under-par 208.

The eight-faced Casper scored a third round 36-37-73 and slipped into a two-way tie for fourth, one stroke behind Mason Rudolph, who was at 209.

The 33-year-old Rudolph burned up the course with a 34-33-67, including successive birdie putts on the first two holes of 60 feet each.

The dark-haired Archer, who looks more like a basketball player than a golfer, started the day with a 10-under par, 36-hole total of 134, three strokes ahead of Casper and six up on Australian Bruce Devlin.

The nine-year pro from Tennessee also carried a birdie with a 50-foot ship shot.

Casper, who wound up tied for fourth with Bob Charles at 210, started out with 10 straight pars and got his only bird on the 11th, where he sank a 40-foot, seven-iron chip. He bogied the 12th and 16th. Charles shot 36-35-71.

Other scores included a 35-36-71 by Jim Colbert, who tied with Dave Marr, 35-37-72, at 212. First round leader Bruce Devlin blew to a 78 and out of contention. Arnold Palmer, who said, "It takes putts to score and I didn't," carded a 37-35-72, for a 54-hole total 214.

Bonavena Decisions Mildenerger In 12

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Brute strong Oscar Bonavena of Argentina felled West Germany's Karl Mildenerger four times and hammered out a unanimous 12-round decision Saturday to go into the semifinals of the World Boxing Association tournament to pick a new heavyweight boxing champion.

Referee Harry Krause of Las Vegas, Nev., declared Bonavena the winner by the imposing margin of 56-47. Dr. Jose Stern of Argentina, one of the judges, had it 58-53 and Rudolph Just of Germany 57-53.

The stocky 57-3 of the Pampas sent the southpaw Mildenerger to the canvas with a vicious left to the head in the first round, and the German never fully recovered although he staged a rally in the later rounds.

The Argentinian belted the German into the lower strand of the ropes with a left in the fourth round, knocked him to his knees with a chopping right flush to the face in the seventh and sent Mildenerger flopping on the seat of his pants in the 10th.

The upset victory—Mildenerger, as No. 1 in the WBA ratings, was a 4-1 choice—put the rugged Bonavena into the semifinals of the WBA elimination with Thad Spencer of San Francisco and Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky., who won bouts at Houston, and the winner of the Oct. 28 bout in Los Angeles between Floyd Patterson, former two-time champion of New York, and Jerry Quarry of Los Angeles.

The result was a disappointment to a pro-Mildenerger, SRO crowd of 18,000 which packed Frankfurt's outdoor cycling stadium for the fight.

Bonavena, a pound heavier at 204 pounds but shorter at 5-11 than the tall German, 203 pounds and 6-1, dominated the bout except for the fifth and sixth rounds.

The Argentinian lost the fifth round on a punch and lost the sixth when Mildenerger unleashed a swirling attack that sent Bonavena into temporary retreat.

Mildenerger staged another rally in the ninth, rocking Bonavena with a series of right jabs and jolting him with a straight left, but after being dropped in the 10th he was on the defensive all the way. The Argentinian finished on a strong note.

Both fighters were guaranteed $50,000 with the winner to enter the semifinal with a guarantee of $75,000.

The elimination was organized to pick a successor to Cassius Clay, or Muhammad Ali, whose crown was stripped from him by the WBA when he refused to respond to a draft by the U.S. military services.

NFL Opens 48th Campaign Today

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The National Football League begins its 48th season Sunday with new divisions, three new coaches and a new team, but the same old Green Bay Packers favored to finish on top in December.

The world champion Packers, undefeated in six pre-season games, open defense of their title and seek another shot at the Super Bowl when they host the improved Detroit Lions and their new coach, Joe Schmidt.

New Orleans makes its debut along with Coach Tom Fears against the tough Los Angeles Rams, the only team to beat the Saints in six exhibition games.

Bud Grant, after 10 years in Canadian football, begins his NFL coaching career at Minnesota when the Vikings enter into San Francisco.

In other games, Dallas is at Cleveland, Atlanta at Baltimore, Chicago at Pittsburgh, Washington at Philadelphia and New York at St. Louis in a full slate of games.

AFL In 3rd Week
The American League's third week features three games Sunday with Houston at Buffalo, Boston at Oakland and Denver at Miami.

Under the new NFL setup of four four-team divisions, the games at Green Bay, Baltimore, Philadelphia and St. Louis take on the added importance of matching teams in the same division.

The veteran Packers rule a strong favorite against the Lions with their tight-fisted defense, Bart Starr at quarterback and Donny Anderson, Jim Grabowski, Elijah Pitts and Ben Wilson alternating in the backfield where Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung starred for nine seasons.

Karl Sweetan is likely to call the signals for the Lions, who will be missing injured rookie running back Nick Eddy, but will have freshman Mel Farr carrying the ball in the Central Division game. Gone via trade is defensive tackle Roger Brown.

Rockets Dominate Edge Over Calhoun

By REG ANKROM

The Routt Rockets found revenge Friday night against the Calhoun Warriors, winning easily by a 25-6 score. The Warriors defeated Routt last year 20-13 in the opening game of the season for both teams.

It was a different story this year, however, with four Rocket gridmen finding their way into the end zone.

Veteran fullback Paul Lambert pushed his way to the end zone from the three-yard line in the second quarter to give Routt their first score. The conversion by Charlie Kaufmann added to the credit.

Quarterback Loyd Krumlauf, next went on the Routt scoreboard with a dash from the seven-yard line, to give Routt a 13-0 edge at the half.

In the third quarter, right halfback Kaufmann found a hole in the Warrior defense to charge into the end zone from the Calhoun four.

Calhoun, at this point, braced themselves for an attempt to get on the board. Quarterback Rick Angel sent fullback Jerry Crader downfield and connected for a scoring 30-yard pass play.

The Calhoun defense tightened somewhat causing Routt to run a number of plays before they could get into scoring position. The scoring play came on a pass from Krumlauf to left end John Costa, who charged past the safety and into the end zone, bringing the score to 25-6.

It was the first game of the season for both teams and both were slack in the first few minutes of play. Routt showed good recovery midway through the first quarter and from that point on outclassed the Calhoun Warriors in offense and defense.

Calhoun managed a tough defense but was overpowered by Rocket offense. Routt's ground gainers, despite a disadvantage in weight, drove for 227 yards. Calhoun faced with a tight Routt defense, was able to manage only 164 yards on the ground.

Routt's ability to control the ball made the difference in the game. In the third quarter, Calhoun was able to run off only eight plays, including two punts. Routt kept the ball in that quarter for nine of the 12 minutes.

Routt's 190-pound Lambert played the lead role in rushing with 125 yards. Calhoun's leading ground-gainer, Dennis Angel, managed only 29 yards.

Both teams went into the penalty column. Clipping and defensive pass interference set Routt back 30 yards in the game. The Rockets also were called with four five-yard setbacks. Calhoun managed to keep their penalty record slightly clearer with a total of 35 yards lost to penalties.

As the game neared the gun, Calhoun went to the air. Warrior quarterback Angel tossed five incomplete passes. His brother, halfback Denny Angel, received lateral passes three times and attempted to pass them with no success.

Orioles Snap Sox Pennant Drive 6-2

BOSTON (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles, helped by Frank Robinson, who lost a home run bid because of a stiff headwind in the first inning, streak and interrupted the Red Sox' drive for the American League pennant with a 6-2 victory Friday night.

The defeat dropped the Red Sox out of a first place tie with Minnesota, pending the outcome of the Twins' night game with the Chicago White Sox.

The defeat, coupled with Detroit's victory over Washington and Minnesota's loss to Chicago, threw the Red Sox into a three-way tie for first place with the Twins and Tigers.

The Orioles, who had won only two of their 11 previous games, capitalized on the wildness of Boston starter Dave Morehead and some shoddy Red Sox fielding to nail down the decision early. Frank Robinson, who lost a home run bid because of a stiff headwind in the first inning, made sure in the seventh with a rifle-like shot into the screen off Darrell Brandon, the third of four Boston pitchers.

Tom Phoebus checked the Red Sox on two hits until Reggie Smith cracked his 15th homer in the fifth. Boston added another run on a double by Carl Yastrzemski and a single by Ken Harrelson in the sixth.

Eisenhower Ground Game Buries Jacks

DECATUR — A strong Decatur Eisenhower rushing offensive, led by Perry Johnson's three ground scores, rolled to a 19-0 opening game victory over a sluggish Jacksonville squad, in a Capital Conference engagement here Friday evening.

Decatur ground out 233 yards on the ground and took advantage of a pair of JHS fumbles and a blocked punt to set up their touchdowns.

After a scoreless opening period Eisenhower scored the only TD it needed when Johnson, a speedy 195-pound junior halfback, scooted 18 yards around right end almost untouched for a score with only 1:43 to play in the half.

Penalties, a Crimson bugaboo all evening, killed a Crimson threat at the start of the second half and a blocked punt set up the second Eisenhower TD.

Eisenhower blocked a Steve Gaudio punt and recovered on the Jacksonville 28 early in the third period and Johnson again broke loose for a 28-yard scamper, again around right end. Steve Bellinger booted the point after for a 13-0 difference with eight minutes left in the quarter.

Jim Bruner fumbled on the next Crimson play from scrimmage, giving Eisenhower the pigskin on the JHS 19. After a penalty nullified a TD carry by speedy quarterback Bill Madlock, Madlock legged the ball eight and 13 yards down to the two from where Johnson busted over and a 19-0 score with 6:20 to play in the stanza.

Jacksonville showed spurts of offensive power throughout the game, but was hurt by 70 yards in costly penalties, two fumbles, the punt block and a pass interception.

Benny Richardson ran for 48 yards before being injured early in the third quarter and Bruner carried for 38 yards. Duane Mounts was six for 18 in the passing department, hitting four of his first six, and John Mathews added two of three as Jacksonville rolled up 112 yards through the air.

Penalties hurt
Penalties bogged down what promised to be a potent Jacksonville offense in the opening half. Seven penalties totaling 65 yards were whistled against the Crimson.

An inside kick by JHS on the opening whistle failed and gave Eisenhower the ball on their own 47. The Panthers moved the ball to the Jacksonville 40 before bogging down.

Two series later in the first period Richardson picked up a pair of first downs on the ground and Jacksonville advanced the pigskin from their own 17 into Eisenhower territory.

Mounts hit Tom Phillips for 12 yards to the JHS 43 and then flipped to Mathews for four and a first to the Panther 43. Then two straight in-motion walkoffs moved the ball back into JHS ground before Lionel Williams picked off a Mounts aerial and returned it to the Crimson 44.

After Jacksonville held on their own 30, the Crimson again moved into Eisenhower's side before another penalty stalled the threat.

Neither team threatened from there until a short punt gave the hosts the ball on the Jacksonville 44 and the first scoring drive of the season got underway.

Madlock scooted left end for 12 to the 31 and Williams chewed up six to the 25. Madlock added another first down with a 18 from where Johnson went almost untouched the remaining distance around right end for the score. The boot for the point after sailed wide with 1:43 showing in the half.

Jacksonville came back with its most serious threat of the half, a drive that was again thwarted by a penalty. Starting on his own 20, Richardson got ten on two straight carries to the 30 before Mathews hit junior end Terry Ormiston for 27 to the Eisenhower 35. A clipping penalty on the next play, two incomplete aerials and a loss on the next pass attempt killed the scoring shot.

game at Cincinnati. Any combination of six St. Louis victories or losses by runnerup San Francisco will give the Redbirds their second National League pennant in four years.

Catcher Tim McCarver, a hero in the 1964 World Series in which the Cardinals defeated the New York Yankees, summed up the feeling of the St. Louis players this way:

"We can't get too excited or we'll blow the whole thing. There's always a lull before you win it. We're still fighting."

The Cardinals, who have been in first place since June 18, are making the 1967 race the biggest National League runaway since 1955 when the then Brooklyn Dodgers clinched the title Sept. 8. The Dodgers did that by winning 22 of their first 24 games.

Manager Gene Mauch of the Philadelphia Phillies, whose team lost 10 straight games and the pennant to St. Louis at the tailend of the 1964 season, said this week after his club dropped two of three games to the front-runners, "They've (the Cards) kept playing good ball, and all they have to do is keep their cool."

After the three-game series in Cincinnati, St. Louis moves to Philadelphia for three games. Then the Redbirds return to Busch Stadium for a four-game stand with Atlanta Sept. 21-24. St. Louis fans are expecting the Cards to have the flag clinched about the time they return home to open the Atlanta series.

Prayer Poem

The Restless Blues

By Mary Pence Claywell

I wonder why we are so blue,
When there is no great need,
And why we can't be CONTENT
To "Pasture" where You Feed:
We often fret and stew around,
About a trivial thing . . .
And worry over incidents,
That really pack no sting,
Except the evil thoughts we breed.

When we are discontent . . .
And let them rile our hearts and souls,
Until our strength . . . is spent;
Oh Help us, Lord, this day,
We ask,
And please Replace, we pray,
The nagging longing for the things,
We do not need . . . TODAY.
And give us THANKFULNESS instead,
That we may pause and see
The BEAUTY of the PRECIOUS THINGS, That DAILY . . . come from THEE!

Student Guide For Aeronautics

Reviewed By Walter B. Hendrickson, Jr.

High School students interested in preparing a Science Fair project on flying, or those just interested in aviation, will find much useful information in "A Student Guide for Aeronautics" by Merrill E. Tower published by Aero Publishers.

While this book was first published in 1952 the basic concepts of aviation described still remain true. The student working on a science fair project will find inspiration here to make a new and original project.

Experiments
The book also shows experiments that will demonstrate many of the basic principles of flight. Included with the book is a circular plastic slide rule, called an Aero Navigational Computer, especially designed for solving problems related to flight, such as air speed and fuel consumption.

The "Student Guide for Aeronautics" is intended as a work book for the author's High School level text on "Basic Aeronautics." Both follow the same pattern and cover the same subject matter very closely. They discuss such things as: the theory of flight, aircraft structures, engines, jets, rockets, navigation, etc.

In the preface of A Student Guide to Aeronautics Merrill E. Tower says he is, "Convinced that extensive activities such as experiments, projects, drills and exercises are essential for the acquiring of a thorough aviation knowledge that will be retained by the student." Furthermore the author attempts to promote independent thinking by introducing numerous thought questions that are closely related to the topics being studied in the textbook.

An Old Letter

By Mrs. Otto Dorr

teacher from Vermont adventured by steamboat far up the Mississippi River to a new location.

A letter to her pupils in Chandler remains clearly written one hundred nineteen years afterward.

(The original of this letter is a valued possession of Mrs. Dorr's, she reports in a note to the editor.)
Long-Ago Letter
Stillwater, June 6, 1848
Dear Emily and Louisa,
I have a few moments more, which I cheerfully devote to your service. Though I am far, far, distant from you, my interest has not in the least diminished.

How have you been since I left you? Are you in school? If not are you continuing your studies at home? How and where are your cousins, Knowlton, Caroline, and Abby?
I would delight to see you all. I cannot think that I shall not see you again. I think we could spend an hour very pleasantly together.

Volunteer Teachers

When Governor Slade of Vermont learned that the children of Illinois pioneers had few teachers for their one room schools he asked for volunteers who would go to Illinois if sufficient tuition and board arrangements were guaranteed. The usual fee for each pupil was $2.25 cents for a six week term, if subscriptions were paid and the teacher willing the school continued.

One of these volunteer teachers was Miss Amanda Hordford whose classes thrived until some of the parents found themselves unable to provide tuition costs.

Dr. Chandler Aids
Since wages were guaranteed for a year someone had to provide these subscription dues, for unfortunate pupils because of the signed agreement. This fell to Dr. Charles Chandler of Chandlerville.

The school continued until May 1848, when Exhibition Day songs, recitations and exercises closed the last term. Then the

How To (Ugh) Study

By Christine Hembrough

Well, as they say "All good things must come to an end." Boo hoo. I don't want summer to go.

Oh well, now that school is here again — here are some tips that will help you get good grades. I suggest that you save this article for future reference during the school year.

Also, maybe YOU have some suggestions. If so, please send them along.

The first thing for good studying habits is to plan a schedule. Plan a certain time to each day that you can do your work and plan a place to do it.

For me the best time to study is about an hour after I get home or at least to begin within the hour. This way I am more alert and the good TV shows aren't on to distract me. And besides, you got to do it so you might as well do it now. Then STICK to the schedule.

No Friendly "Help"
When you are doing your home work—do it alone. Don't invite a friend over to help you. Chances are that neither of you will ever get it done. This goes for other company too.

No radio and no television.
TV and radio will distract your thinking and mix you up, and you probably won't get anything done.

Sharpen That Pencil
Before you begin to study, collect all of the needed materials. This is not to clutter up your working space, it is to save you from temptation and "quitting."

For instance, if you are in the middle of a problem and you need a ruler, down the stairs you go past the phone and near the chosen this remote and seemingly sequestered part to display her charms.

(To Be Continued)

TV. Something is on and you stare at it for a few minutes, then you end up watching the entire TV show and not getting your homework done or the ruler! Also, the phone might ring and it might be for you and there is the temptation to stay and talk awhile up until the while turns into an hour!

Interference Must Go
This temptation brings us to the subject, cutting down on interferences. When you have your study plan all made out, inform your friends of it. If you study at 4-6, then tell them and also tell them that at this time you are not available for talking on the phone or having any unexpected company coming in. You will get done quickly if you can do it without a pattern of stops.

Inform your family also, so that in the middle of a problem your little sister doesn't come knocking on your door wanting to know if you'd like to play doll house.

Then STICK to the ritual. Do not decide that it is alright to talk on the phone to Sandra now since you two have just made up and you want to keep her friendship. If a friend keeps calling you during study hours, then this friend isn't worth having.

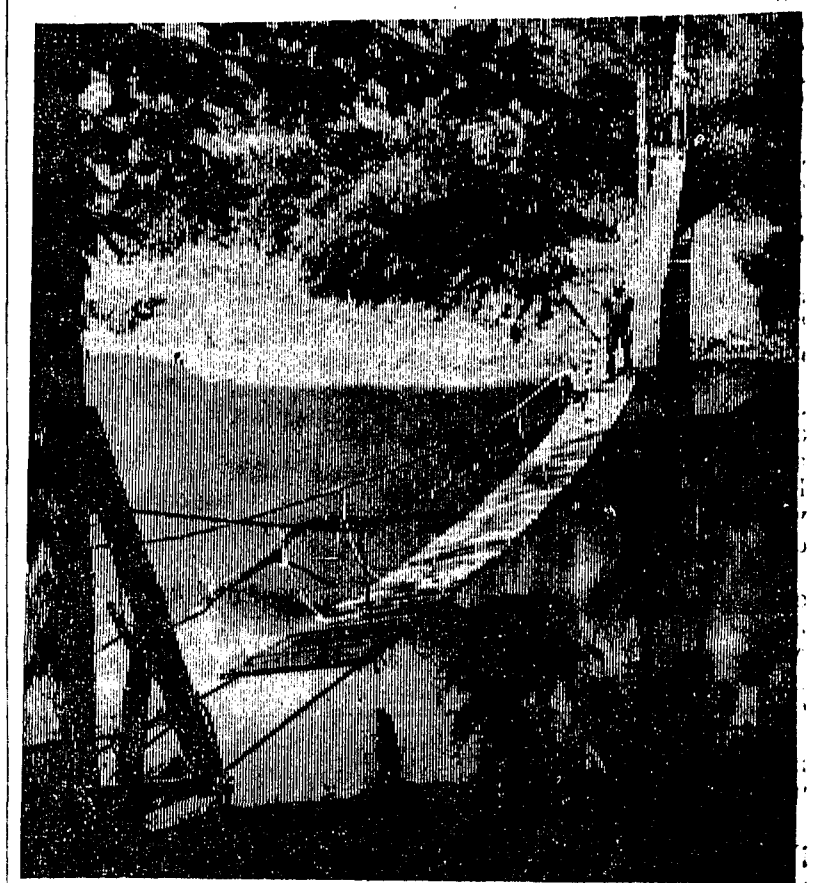

Well, this will do for a starter —we'll have some more suggestions next week. Let me know

Business—Market Wrapup

Consumer Item Costs Continue To Rise In Inflation Spiral

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A wave of price increases spread this past week over more consumer and industrial products.

It covered automobiles, appliances, sugar, carpet materials and a wide range of chemicals.

The boosts were a continuation of a trend that in recent months has spread through selective steel products, aluminum items and color television sets.

These indications of inflationary tendencies and mounting congressional opposition to President Johnson's proposal of a 10 per cent surcharge on corporate and individual income taxes spurred the stock market on Wednesday to its biggest rally in several weeks.

A major development on the price front this past week was an announcement by Chrysler Corp. of an increase averaging $133, or 4.6 per cent, on its 1968 models, which went on sale in dealers' showrooms Thursday.

All of the automakers had indicated earlier that prices of the new models would go up because of additional safety and anti-smog equipment required by the government.

Another factor—although less openly discussed—was the new contract which sooner or later will be agreed upon with the United Auto Workers Union.

Consumers also will be hit directly in the pocketbook by higher prices for household appliances.

General Electric Corp. announced it would go along with other appliance manufacturers and raise prices on its G.E. and Hotpoint lines by 1 to 4 per cent when the 1968 models are introduced next month.

Increases were announced earlier by Admiral Corp., the Kelvinator Division of American Motors Corp., Maytag Co., Philco-Ford Corp., and Whirlpool Corp.

Carpeters are another consumer item on which prices are going up. Du Pont boosted its price of Dacron polyester staple for use in carpets by 5 to 8 cents a pound. This raised one type from 63 to 68 cents a pound and another from 65 to 73 cents a pound.

When the housewife goes to the supermarket at the end of this month she is going to find that sugar costs more. A number of cane refiners raised wholesale prices of industrial grades and consumer-packaged goods 15 cents per 100 pounds.

Many companies raised prices on a wide variety of chemicals used in industrial processes. It seemed likely that these boosts would seep down to the consumer level.

In another development related to consumer prices, the Federal Communications Commission ordered the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. to cut its long distance rates by $100 million effective Nov. 1. This was a modification of an earlier order for a $120-million cut. The additional $20-million reduction will be effective next May 1.

"Prices are rising all around us and, coupled with the possibility of a substantial tax increase, will confront our business with an added burden of costs at the very time we are called upon to make price reductions," AT&T said.

The Commerce Department reported this past week that retail sales increased one per cent during August to their third straight monthly record.

Sales totaled $27,016,000,000, the longest time they have topped $27 billion.

It was expected this steady climb would give the government another argument in its attempt to win congressional approval of a 10 per cent surcharge on corporate and individual income taxes as a means of curbing inflation as well as reducing the federal budget deficit.

Another Commerce Department report showed that inventories of manufacturing and trade firms declined for the second straight month during July. The drop was only $40 million, compared with $280 million in June, the first in six years in over-all business inventories.

The United Auto Workers Union strike against Ford Motor Co. dragged into its second week without significant developments. Although their union contracts had expired along with Ford's on Sept. 7, General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp. continued to operate on a day-to-day basis.

General Motors, Chrysler and American Motors Corp. stepped up their output of 1968 models and turned out an estimated 132,900 cars this past week, compared with 116,628 the previous week.

New car sales for the first 10 days of September totaled 89,826 units, off 48,224 for the like period in 1966.

Steel production last week edged up 0.1 per cent to 2,431,000 tons from 2,428,000 tons the previous week.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market weathered some pre-weekend profit taking Friday. Trading was active.

Although losses outnumbered gains, blue chip strength led all the well-known market indicators into plus territory.

Volume eased to 10.27 million shares from Thursday's 12.29 million. The Wednesday turnover also exceeded 12 million.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which showed a loss at mid-session, ended with a gain of 4.04 at 933.48, another new high for the year.

A late buying spurt pushed the averages firmly into higher ground. Analysts said that some of this was due to short covering, the purchase of stock to repay shares borrowed and sold short in the hope of making a profit through a decline in price.

In a bull market, weekend short covering is a usual precaution.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose .7 to 340.8 with industrials up 1.3 to a new high for the year, rails up .6 and utilities off .3.

Of 1,482 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 651 declined and 614 advanced. New highs for the year totaled 91 and new lows 18.

Eight of the 15 most active stocks rose, six fell and Goodrich was unchanged.

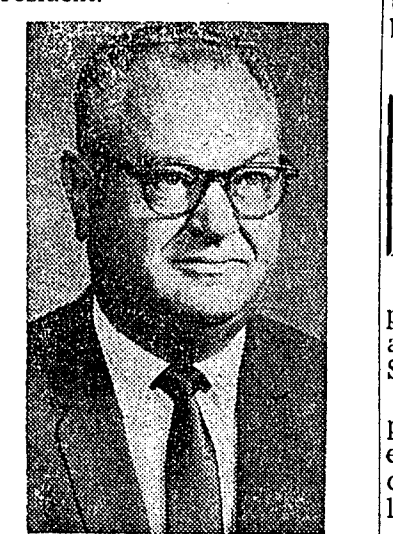

Tenneco was the most active stock, losing ¾ at 30¼ on 292,900 shares of which 213,000 were traded on an opening block.

The New York Stock Exchange index rose 4 cents to 933.48.

On the American Stock Exchange, gainers and losers were almost even, but big gains by certain stocks pushed the average up 7 cents to $29.08.

AT&T Receives Reprieve From FCC Directive

WASHINGTON (AP)—American Telephone & Telegraph Co. won from the Federal Communications Commission Thursday a $20 million temporary reprieve in the $120 million telephone rate cut it is being required to make, and an added profit of about $12 million a year.

But in a 7-0 decision the commission stood firm in its July 5 decision that Bell System profits should be in the 7 to 7½ per cent range. It emphasized, however, that 7½ per cent is not an absolute ceiling and could change with economic conditions.

The FCC ordered AT&T to file by Oct. 2 a plan to cut long distance rates by $100 million a year starting Nov. 1. A further cut of $20 million is scheduled to become effective next May 1.

AT&T, a corporate entity that stands atop the operating, manufacturing and research facilities of the Bell System, also asked the FCC to reduce from $120 million to $75 million the reduction in long distance rates it had ordered. AT&T said it sought the cut to provide $45 million annually to cover further increased payments to independent telephone companies which handle Bell System long distance calls.

AT&T also asked that all investment from investor-supplied funds be included in its rate base—the amount of Bell System property used as a base on which profits are figured.

The company also asked for a profit range of 7½ to 8½ per cent and urged the FCC to hear more evidence on the highly technical issue of separations—how AT&T's properties are divided to determine what part is used for local service and what part for interstate service.

The commission agreed to have its technical experts study further AT&T documents on the separations issue, with a written report to the commission no later than Nov. 15.

The FCC also revoked an earlier order and permitted AT&T to earn a profit on an additional $544 million, which is the Bell System's investment in facilities under construction. FCC sources say this will increase AT&T profit by about $12 million a year. AT&T's total plant used in interstate services is valued by the company at more than $8.4 billion.

WHICH SEX HAS MAJORITY?

Almost unnoticeable is the difference between the male and female population of the United States at various age levels, although men enjoy a slight excess in the total number of women. The gap in numbers between the sexes occurs in the oldest ages because the increase in life expectancy has been greater for women than men. All told, there were 3.6 million more women than men, or 96.4 men for every 100 women in the country, according to 1965 U.S. Bureau of Census statistics.

Elgin Abandons 103-Yr. History In Watchmaking

ELGIN, Ill. (AP)—After 103 years, Elgin National Watch Co. has decided to abandon completely the manufacture of jeweled watch movements in this country.

The decision, announced Friday by Jerome W. Robbins, president and chief executive officer, will result in the closing and sale of an assembly plant in Elgin, S.C.

The South Carolina plant assembles movements for ladies' watches from parts manufactured in Elgin, Ill. These operations will be phased out in 120 days, Robbins said.

Elgin for several years has obtained its movements for men's watches from Master Time, Ltd., in the Virgin Islands and Elgin S.A. in Switzerland.

They assembled them according to Elgin specifications and quality control, Robbins said. Elgin now will look to these sources for ladies' watch movements as well.

Only two other American companies—Bulova and Hamilton—continue any domestic production of jeweled movements, Robbins said.

The discontinued operation affects 200 employees in South Carolina and 75 in Illinois. Robbins said the company has "taken steps which it believes will bring job offers to virtually all affected employees."

The steps were not specified. Elgin will continue its corporate headquarters, its watch division and its Diamond Products Division in Elgin, Ill., with a payroll of 400.

The watch division's operation will be casing and distributing watches.

Diamond Products imports industrial diamonds for the manufacture of abrasives and other industrial materials.

SAVINGS & LOAN OFFICIALS ATTEND ST. LOUIS MEETING

A. W. Applebee and I. Newton Mitchell of the Jacksonville Savings and Loan Association will attend the 88th annual convention of the Illinois Savings and Loan League, September 17-20, at the Chase-Park Plaza Hotel in St. Louis.

Financial leaders representing savings and loan trade associations will share the platform with top state and federal supervisory officials, according to League President Charles E. Gilliland of Flora. Delegates from the state's $12-billion savings and loan business also will participate in panel discussions and workshop sessions during the three-day meeting. The convention program will focus upon renewed opportunities for savings growth and full-scale financing following last year's tight money conditions.

Wheat Moves Up, Other Grains Close On Irregular Tone

By ED DE MOCH

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat futures prices advanced again during the week on the Chicago Board of Trade, but corn futures were lower and other grains closed on an irregular tone.

Trade was, for the most part, slow and directionless in all futures and there appeared to be little to sustain a definite move in either direction.

As a result, prices moved over a narrow range throughout the week, indicating apprehension on the part of traders to assume a position of any strength at this time when record production of wheat, corn and soybeans is imminent.

When trade closed Friday, wheat futures were 1¼ to 2¼ cents a bushel higher for the week, September 1.47½; corn was ¼ to 1½ cents lower, September 1.18-18½; oats were unchanged to 1½ cents lower, September 70½ cents; rye was ¾ lower to ¾ higher, September 1.15½; and soybeans were 1½ cents lower to ¼ higher, September 2.72½-¾.

Soybean oil closed 1 to 6 points lower, September 9.08-09, while soybean meal closed 10 to 65 points lower, September 77.00-25.

The price range in wheat covered about 2½ cents, while prices of soybeans and other grains ranged over a span of ½ to about 2 cents.

Wheat futures posted advances for the first four sessions of the week, then closed on an irregular tone Friday under liquidation and profit taking.

The nearby September soybeans and soybean meal contracts commanded most of the attention of traders, reflecting a tightness of soybeans at Chicago which has been attributed, in part, to a prolonged strike of grain handlers at several elevators. September soybeans had a range of about 5 cents while September soybean meal spanned about 300 points.

On Tuesday, the U.S. Department of Agriculture issued its estimates of production in 1967 of wheat, corn and soybeans, as well as an estimate of bushels per acre in the major commodities. The report, of conditions as of Sept. 1, showed an increase over the previous month's report.

The corn crop this year, the USDA estimated, will total nearly 4.7 billion bushels; wheat will total more than 1.5 billion bushels, and soybeans just over 1 billion bushels. All are record high amounts.

The spring and durum wheat harvest has just about been completed and new crop corn and soybeans have begun moving in small quantities to markets, mainly from farms in the warmer climates.

Corn and soybeans have not yet started to move to markets in large amounts from the Midwest. These commodities were planted from 1 to 3 weeks late in many sections because of early spring rains and wet fields. Harvest work may run into early frosts, some traders opined.

TICKET 2 DRIVERS FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Two drivers were ticketed following separate accidents Friday afternoon during a light rain throughout the city.

City police reported that one vehicle was heavily damaged as a result of a collision at the intersection of South Clay and East Morton shortly after four o'clock.

Officers said that a southbound auto on Clay, driven by Perry A. Lambert of Waverly, collided with an eastbound unit on Morton driven by William B. Burton of Alexander.

Lambert said he was unable to see the Burton auto. Police ticketed Lambert with failure to yield.

Following the collision, the Burton auto struck a utility pole and knocked over a highway sign. The car was towed away. Two autos were damaged west of the intersection of West State and Church street about 3:30 p.m.

A westbound auto, operated by Clarence S. Knott of Roodhouse was stopped for traffic. A second westbound auto, driven by Jeffery A. Leonard of 954 West Lafayette struck the rear of the Knott auto. Leonard said street conditions made it difficult to stop in time.

Leonard was ticketed for following too close, and his car was removed from the scene by a wrecker.

Construction is under way on four ski runs at Beech Mountain, Banner Elk, N.C. They are scheduled for opening in December. At 5,600 feet, this will be the highest ski slope in the eastern United States.

CONSTITUTION WEEK in Jacksonville will be observed by the Daughters of the American Revolution. Mayor Byron Holkenbrink signed a proclamation to that effect for Mrs. J. Edmund Dinwiddie of the DAR urging all patriotic, social service, labor, veteran and business groups to recognize that American citizenship represents the dreams and struggles of men through past centuries. Sept. 17 marks the 108th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution of the United States.

General Assembly Will Cut New Swath During 75th Session

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Regardless of whether it passes or repeals a bill, the current session of the 75th Illinois General Assembly will have cut a new swath in history.

There's nothing new in recessing as it did in June until September. The 27th, 28th, and 45th assemblies carried out variations on this. The years were 1871, 1873 and 1907 respectively.

The Republican majority is planning another caboose session in February which may set historical precedent for annual sessions—and appropriations without specific constitutional authority or legislative precedent.

Critics of the current meeting are calling it "an exercise in futility" because one purpose of reconvening was to override vetoes of Gov. Otto Kerner. Overrides have been accomplished only three times.

A defender of the caboose session, Sen. William Harris of Pontiac, Republican majority whip, said it has already saved nearly a quarter million dollars and it may save additional thousands. He said the steps to achieve this will be historical firsts.

Harris said this meeting was needed to accomplish an amendment of the legislature's rules as required under a new statute. The statute and the rule change permit modernization of printing legislative reports and a savings of more than $200,000.

Cut Trip Costs

In addition, while the legislators are in Springfield, they will hold organization meetings of the numerous commissions they staff. This will eliminate

Dirksen Praises Vets From Morgan County In First World War

On the eve of the golden anniversary of World War I veterans of Morgan County, Senator Everett M. Dirksen has praised their courage and stated they are "forever enshrined in the annals of heroism."

Dirksen, in a special greeting to the veterans of Morgan county continued, "The men of Morgan county in the AEF arrived in France in time to face the last mighty attacks of the greatest professional army the world had then ever known."

Sunday, September 24 veterans from Morgan county who participated in that conflict 50 years ago will be honored guests at an anniversary reunion to be held from noon until 6 p.m. at the local American legion home.

Plans are continuing for the anniversary reunion, which is expected to attract representatives of all local, and many surrounding county patriotic organizations.

In his greetings to the men of Morgan county, veterans of the conflict, Dirksen stated:

"It hardly seems possible to any of us who were part of the First World War that half a century has passed since America entered the terrible conflict even now so recent in our minds' eyes."

"Yet this last April we observed the fiftieth anniversary of the declaration of war against Germany in 1917. How quickly the time has passed."

How Long Ago

"How long ago, indeed, it all was."

"It seems like only yesterday that the security and future of the United States depended on the patriotism and bravery of men like yourselves."

"The men from Morgan County in the AEF arrived in France in time to face the last mighty attacks of the greatest professional army the world had then ever known."

"Before the surviving members of the AEF sailed home,

the men from Morgan County were among those whose deeds had been forever enshrined in the annals of heroism."

"It was a glorious record. We shall never forget it, and neither shall our country. Long after we have joined our comrades in arms who have preceded us in death, our country shall remember the gallant men of the AEF."

Barbershop Quartet Needed

Those working on the anniversary celebration have revealed that plans are in the making for a barbershop quartet to attend the gathering, to sing songs from the era.

Food and drink will be provided for the occasion, and even transportation has been donated for those unable to drive to the event.

Remindful of the occasion, a symbolic tomb of the Unknown Soldier has been placed in front of the American Legion home on West College, surrounded with fifty white crosses carrying the names of some of the men who have already departed.

The flag, covering the tomb, was presented by Rep. Paul Findley and had flown over the capitol building in Washington.

The anniversary celebration is open to all veterans of the war, regardless of whether or not they are, or ever were members of a veterans' organization.

Present Report On Special Ed In Scott County

By Naomi Lawson (Winchester Correspondent) (Telephone 742-3490)

WINCHESTER — The regular meeting of the Board of Education of Community Unit School District 1 was held Tuesday evening in the Board of Education office in Winchester.

M. W. Kehart, superintendent, reported on pupil and classroom situations and stated the special education classes at Winchester Elementary School are working very well. As the Bluffs School does not have room for the half-time learning disorders class, and the local district has enough pupils in this category for a full time class, the board voted to accept Mrs. Barbara Wade as a full time teacher at the local school.

The board approved the issuance of a contract to Mrs. LaBelle V. Merriman to teach history and mathematics at Winchester High School. The vacancy in the music department at the high school still exists.

He has been active as a conductor and clinician, and he has been an officer for several music associations. He is active in cooperation with the Governor's Arts Council, and he is vice-chairman of the special Illinois State Sesquicentennial Committee on Music.

The work of extension in music includes the direction of Illinois Summer Youth Music, programs of research, teacher in-service training, conferences and workshops, publications, "Young America" concerts, and the scheduling of U. of I. off-campus appearances by faculty and students.

The symphony society dinner meeting will kick-off the fifth season for the Jacksonville Symphony Orchestra. A brief business session will include short reports and the election of six board members.
